REPUBLICANS SEEK A COMPROMISE FOR TAMMANY'S DEFEAT

BUT MAYOR DECIDES TO RUN

AWAITS CALL OF CITIZENS

Mass Meeting Will Be Held Before the City Hall on Monday to "Nominate" Him.

Although the investigation of the Republican primary ballots was completed at midnight last night and showed that William M. Bennett led Mayor Mitchel by 611 votes, Republican leaders in this city have not, by any means, abandoned the thought of Fusion against Tammany Hall. There is good authority for the statement that in the next two or three days efforts will be made to induce both Mayor Mitchel and Mr. Bennett to retire from the Mayoralty race and leave room for a compromise candidate who will unite the opponents of Tammany Hall.

Meanwhile Mayor Mitchel, without waiting for the decision of the court, announced that he would run independently if there was a genuinely substantial demand on the part of the citizens that he do so.

Any move toward a compromise candidate rests with Mr. Bennett for, under the primary law he is unable to withdraw from the race or have his name removed from the ballot. He can, however, announce that he will make no campaign and call upon his supporters to vote for the compromise condidate.

Efforts to communicate with Mr. Bennett over the telephone at his residence, 234 Central Park West, failed last night. Earlier in the day he had told his friends that he fully expected to remain in the race as the Republican candidate for Mayor, and would begin his campaign as soon as the Board of Elections had officially declared him the nominee of his party.

The search for a new candidate to head the Fusion fight has already been begun. It was said last night by a prominent Republican that the consensus of opinion among the leaders favored the "drafting" of a Democrat of prominence, to whom the appeal would be made on the ground that it was a patriotic duty for him to enter the fight.

Meetings will be held by the County Committees of the Republican organizations in all the five boroughs next week for the purpose of discussing ways and means to get the Republican Party out of the difficult position into which it has drifted as the result of the lukewarm support given by Republicans to Mayor Mitchel in the primary. The Republican County Committee in Queens has been summoned by Joseph H. De Bragga, the Republican leader in that borough, to meet on Monday night. The time for the meetings of the Kings, Bronx, and Richmond County Republican Committees had not been fixed up to a late hour last night.

In 1905, when William Travers Jerome was a candidate for re-election as District Attorney and a Tammany victory was assured, the Republican County Convention had nominated Magistrate Charles A. Flammer as the straight Republican candidate. Later, under pressure, Magistrate Flammer announced that he had decided to make no fight for election, and called upon the Republicans to support Mr. Jerome. The County Convention was reassembled on Oct. 27 and formally indorsed Mr. Jerome's candidacy, even though the name of Judge Flammer remained on the ballot.

Mass Meeting of Citizens.

Immediate efforts to show that a demand for Mayor Mitchel as a candidate exists were undertaken by the Mayor's supporters, and arangements were made to hold a great mass meeting of citizens in City Hall Park next Monday. This mass meeting will be similar to the one which assembled in City Hall Park in 1912 and urged Mayor Gaynor to become a candidate for re-election after Tammany Hall refused him a renomination. Prominent citizens, regardless of party affiliations, will request the Mayor to continue his fight for good government in the city and help keep Tammany from getting back into power. It is expected that the Mayor will accept the "public nomination" thus handed him, and will stay in the field as the candidate of the Fusion Committee of 1917, as well as that of the City Party, which has already put him in the race.

The Mayor made his purpose known when, in reply to a question whether he would be a candidate for Mayor in view of the apparent certainty of Mr. Bennett's election in the Republican primaries, he said:

"If there appears to be a genuinely substantial demand that I run for Mayor on the part of the people of the city, including Republicans, who believe in honest, non-partisan, and loyally American government in the City of New York, I shall make the fight to keep the city out of the grip of Murphy and Tammany Hall, and clean of enemy influence."

Besides the open air mass meeting, as an answer to the Mayor's position that there must be a public demand for his candidacy it is expected that many prominent citizens, including Republicans, will write the Mayor within the next day or two, asking that he stay in the race. Among these citizens, it

Airmen Again Raid England; Driven Off From London

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Hostile airplanes attacked the southeast coast of England this evening. A few of them attempted to reach London, but failed. No reports of casualties or damage have been received as yet. The official report issued by Field Marshal French says:

"Hostile airplanes attacked the southeast coast of England this evening. The raiders were reported from various points along the coast. in Suffolk, Essex, and Kent.

"The majority of the raiders did not venture far inland. A few of them headed toward London, but failed to reach the metropolis.

"Bombs were dropped in Suffolk, Essex, and Kent, but no reports regarding casualties or damage have been received as yet."

The features of the raid seem to have been the intense defensive gun fire and the speedy repulse of the raiders. The British batteries put up a curtain of fire and British airplanes went up after the raiders.

Several bombs were dropped in rural areas southeast of Suffolk, but as far as known there are no casualties.

ISHII DISCLOSES OLD GERMAN PLOT

SOWED DISTRUST FOR YEARS

Notes of Lasting Friendship and Pledges of War Co-operation Mark Public Addresses.

Viscount Ishii, head of the Japanese Commission now in New York, last night charged Germany with deliberately attempting to bring about misunderstanding between Japan and the United States. The Viscount spoke at a reception and supper in honor of the commission given by the Japan Society at the Hotel Astor.

"The strange thing about all this muddle of misunderstanding in the past years is that we have discovered a common characteristic in both the Japanese and Americans. We have both been too confiding, and at the same time too suspicious and sensitive. We have harbored the German and we have received him as a mutual friend. His marvelous self-centred and ordered existence, his system, his organization, and his all-pervading self-assertion, coupled with the insistence of the greatness of his fatherland, have appealed to us until, in a state of hypnotic sleep, we have allowed him to bring us almost to the verge of mutual destruction.

"The agent of Germany in this country and in ours has had as his one purpose the feeding of our passions, our prejudices and our distrust on a specially prepared German concoction until, drugged and inflamed, we might have taken the irrevocable step over the edge, and at his leisure the vulture might have fattened upon our remains.

Viscount Ishii then went on to say that the German plans had failed, and that the only real differences between Japan and the United States were such as might arise between friends at any time and could always be settled in friendly fashion.

The members of the commission were the guests of the Executive Committee of the Mayor's Committee at dinner in the Ritz-Carlton before going to the Astor, and there, without naming the Germans, United States Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, in a stirring address, said that the "enemies of Japan and of the United States" had "sown the seeds of doubt and suspicion" in the two countries. He welcomed the visit of the commission as an opportunity for the American people to remove the last traces of the evil work of the enemies.

Japan's National Soul.

Mayor Mitchel presided at the dinner in the Ritz-Carlton, and referred to the 1,500 Japanese resident in New York as "among our most respected, law-abiding, and substantial citizens." He said that Japan, in addition to fighting qualities, had revealed to the world in the last few decades "a national soul."

Governor Whitman welcomed the commission on behalf of the State of New York, and spoke of the union of Japan and America in the war. The Governor vigorously denounced "pacifism, anticonscriptionism, anti-militarism, and any other ism" that tended to divide the people during the war.

The decoration of the ballroom at the Ritz-Carlton was decidedly a feature of the dinner. The management had employed local Japanese artists to turn the room into an Oriental scene, in which great wall panels, draperies, a sunken garden containing a fountain, pools, chysanthemums and greenery, and Japanese lanterns were artistically used.

At the reception by the Japan Society, Lindsay Russell, the President of the Society, presided. In adition to him and Viscount Ishii, Governor Whitman and Dr. John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education, spoke. Dr. Finley exhibited the flag made by Japanese and presented to Commodore Perry, who opened the door to Japan for the Western world.

In the morning the Commissioners were taken on a tour of the downtown section of the city, visiting the Woolworth Building, the Stock Exchange and the Bankers' Club. In the afternoon they went on a boat trip around Manhattan, which ended with a stop at Grant's Tomb, where Viscount Ishii placed a wreath upon the sarcophagus.

Pledges of Long Friendship.

That Japan and the United States were in full co-operation during the war and would continue in friendship after

LEADERS SUDDENLY SEIZED

HAYWOOD HELD IN $25,000

Bail for Others Fixed at $10,000—Two to Twenty Years' Imprisonment Possible.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 28.—The Government today throttled the anti-war machine of the Industrial Workers of the World by a series of nation-wide raids, which ended in the arrest of practically all the leaders of the organization, including William D. ("Big Bill") Haywood, general secretary-treasurer. Raids started the minute the Federal Grand Jury sitting in Chicago returned true bills before Judge Evan Evans charging 168 members of the organization with four crimes against the Government.

The defendants are charged with seditious conspiracy, a crime ranking next to treason. The sections of the espionage law of the United States Criminal Code under which the men were indicted are as follows:

Whoever, when the United States is at war, shall cause insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny, or refusal of duty in the military or naval forces of the United States, or shall willfully obstruct the recruiting or enlistment service of the United States, to the injury of the service or of the United States, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100,000 or imprisonment for twenty years or both.

Heavy Penalties Provided.

Section 6 of the United States Criminal Code forbids conspiracy to overthrow the Government or to take any of the property of the United States, and violations of this code are punishable by a fine of $5,000 or imprisonment for six years or both.

Section 19 prohibits intimidation of citizens and carries a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for ten years. Any person convicted of a violation of this code, according to the language of the section, "shall thereafter be ineligible to hold any office or place of honor, profit or trust created by the Constitution or laws of this country."

Section 37 deals with general conspiracy against the Government and fixes a punishment of a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for two years or both.

Arrests quickly followed the return. Almost before the court proceedings had reached the stage of the discharge of the jury Deputy Marshals were on their way to the local I. W. W. headquarters at 1001 West Madison Street in ten automobiles, given and driven by women, and quickly returned to the Federal Building, bringing prisoners with them. Among the first prisoners to be taken in custody was Haywood, who was questioned Sept. 5, when the headquarters of the I. W. W. in various cities were raided by the Government.

When the officers swooped down on the I. W. W. headquarters Haywood swung round in his whirling chair and smiled at Special Agent Sweep, who led the party. He was informed of the action of the Grand Jury and locked his desk preparatory to accompanying the officers. Meantime city policemen had surrounded the building and seized every employe and hanger-on. The men who invaded the meeting hall upstairs came down with more than fifty men. More than twenty employes of the I. W. W. printing office were taken from their work.

In ten minutes, before a crowd had an opportunity to collect, the raiders were on their way back to the Federal building with nearly 100 prisoners. The leaders were quickly separated from the rank and file of the organization, and United States Marshal John J. Bradley read his warrants.

The others taken in the cleanup were all held by Hinton G. Clabaugh, Divisional Chief of the Department of Justice. Several "John Does" were named in the indictments, and it is probable two or three of the men will be told later in the week they are the ones meant.

Mr. Clabaugh's aids held an all night inquisition of the men taken, hoping to get a confession from some of the lesser lights. It was understood none of the leaders would be allowed to tell his story if he hoped to obtain immunity by talking. The evidence taken in the raids was declared to have furnished all the proof required to obtain convictions.

Leader Held in $25,000 Bail.

Haywood was held in default of $25,000 bail. Others apprehended in Chicago and held in default of $10,000 bail were:

VLADIMIR LOSSIEFF, Chicago.

CHARLES PLAHM, Chicago and Detroit.

Modern Rifle for Every Man When He Sails; 5,000 in Each Cantonment Now, Says Crozier

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Dealing with the allegation that there was a shortage of rifles at the draft cantonments, Brig. Gen. William Crozier, Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, asserted in a prepared statement today that there would be a rifle of the most modern type ready for every soldier when he started for Europe. His statement reads:

"My attention has been called to published reports that there is a shortage of rifles at the cantonment, and that three rifle manufacturing concerns have been idle during the Summer when they might have been engaged in manufacturing rifles. These arms companies have not been idle, but have been making extensive preparations for turning out a rifle which would give us both a reasonable degree of interchangeability of important parts and uniform ammunition. Two of them have begun making deliveries. Two days ago the deliveries of these factories and the Government ones were 1,200 rifles per day. The deliveries now are more than 1,300 per day, and the deliveries will progressively increase. The third company, engaged until recently on British contracts, is practically ready to begin deliveries.

"I may also say that whenever a soldier is ready to go to Europe—that is, when he is trained and equipped in every other way—a modern rifle will be ready for him.

"At the outset of the war it was fully recognized and explained that we could pursue two courses—either experience a perfectly endurable delay and produce a rifle with interchangeable parts, to use a standard ammunition, or produce rifles more rapidly but without interchangeability of parts and incapable of using a uniform ammunition. By waiting two or three months we have not only obtained a one-ammunition rifle, but a rifle with parts which may be interchanged quickly on the battlefields of Europe and which may be turned out by three factories in this country. The Ordnance Bureau is willing to stand on this basis, inasmuch as every soldier will be supplied a rifle of that type when he starts for France.

"There are now at each of the cantonments 5,000 rifles suitable for drilling purposes. A rifle to each man is not imperative for purposes of drill, as the companies can drill at different hours. The main thing is to supply rifles when the trained men are ready to leave, and such rifles will be rapidly turned out now by three factories and two Government factories, which have equipped themselves during the Summer for the work and can supply the rifles in sufficient numbers at the required time."

KERENSKY SPEECH CAUSES UPROAR

Long Knew of Korniloff's Projected Coup and Took Steps to Prevent It.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 28.—Premier Kerensky addressed the Democratic Congress at its first session last night in the Municipal Theatre, receiving applause, which came principally from the less radical groups of delegates. He spoke in forceful style, with the air of challenging his opponents. The address was largely a defense of the acts of the Government under his Premiership.

M. Kerensky was interrupted frequently by shouts from one group and another, which led at times to altercations lasting several minutes. At one point, when the Premier spoke of the refusal of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates of Helsingfors to oppose the reopening of the Finnish Diet, although the Government had forbidden it, the Bolsheviks burst into loud cheers.

"Cheer, my friends, if you will," said M. Kerensky, when he was able to make himself heard, "but bear in mind that a German fleet is moving up the Baltic."

The delegates of the Right jeered the Bolsheviks, asking them why they did not cheer the Premier's remark, inasmuch as the Germans were their friends.

Continuing, the Premier declared that the Government already had announced its program at the State conference in Moscow. He then made a few remarks in his own defense, particularly in regard to the action of General Korniloff. M. Kerensky said that he had known for a long time that a master stroke was being prepared, and he took steps to prevent it.

From the time of General Korniloff's apointment the army headquarters began to address ultimatum after ultimatum to the Government, which had its own plan to counter the disorganization of the army and the headquarters. One ultimatum from the headquarters threatened to wreck the Moscow Congress unless the army's terms were accepted. After the Riga disaster the demands from the army headquarters became more pronounced.

N. C. Cheidse, President of the Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates, in opening the conference, explained that the extremely grave situation of the country necessitated the constitution of a strong revolutionary power responsible to all elements.

M. Avksentieff, President of the Council of Peasants' Delegates, said that the moment had arrived for democracy to gather all its political wisdom to save the conquests of the revolution, which were threatened with irreparable catastrophe if not safeguarded now.

Delegates from all over Russia, numbering 1,200, are attending the conference. The presiding officers are five representatives of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, five each from town zemstvos, and two each from other groups.

As at Moscow, exceptional precautions were taken to guard the proceedings against disturbance, although this time the steps were not taken by the Government, but by the Organization Committee and the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates. Military patrols and posts were scattered everywhere, while automobiles were forbidden to approach the building. A thorough search of the cellars under the theatre was made, and the plan was even considered of requiring servants residing in the building to evacuate it.

The last army order issued by General Korniloff as Commander in Chief, reprinted in the Novaia Zhizn from a Mohilev newspaper, tends to show that Korniloff was compelled to launch his revolt largely in an effort to thwart German plans.

The order says it had been learned that German agents had brought about the great fire in Kazan, had expended millions of rubles in disorganizing the coal mines in the River Don region, and that the Germans were proposing a general offensive along the whole front for the purpose of forcing a disorganized Russian retreat. The Germans also had planned to blow up the bridges across the Rivers Knieper and Volga and were organizing a movement of Maximalists in Petrograd.

General Korniloff, the article adds, had reason to suspect treason among irresponsible Russian organizations in German pay. The General, not doubting that irresponsible influences had the upper hand in Petrograd and that Russia was on the brink of an abyss, took an extreme decision for the purpose of saving the Fatherland.

HEFLIN AND NORTON FIGHT IN HOUSE

INVESTIGATION IS DENIED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Representatives Heflin of Alabama and Norton of North Dakota had a fight, or more properly a wrestling bout, on the floor of the House today, the row growing out of the charges made recently by Mr. Heflin that "thirteen or fourteen members of Congress" had been corrupted by German gold. Norton invaded the Democratic side of the chamber to take Heflin to task for some statement, and Heflin tried to push him away. In the scuffle Norton pushed the Alabaman across a bench. They were separated without damage beyond the ruffling of dignity and violation of the rules of parliamentary bodies.

Previous to this diversion, which was greatly enjoyed by all onlookers, Representative Pou of North Carolina, Chairman of the Committee on Rules, told the House that the committee had decided not to make a favorable report on any of the investigating resolutions that had been directed toward Representative Heflin, because the committee had knowledge of a nation-wide inquiry into the German propaganda fund, an inquiry which has been in progress for a year and a half.

This decision angered many members of the House. Representative Britten of Illinois suggested that Mr. Heflin should be expelled on the spot.

The debate ran on for half an hour, marked by extreme bitterness from Representatives Cooper of Wisconsin and Moore of Pennsylvania, and ending suddenly when Representative Steenerson of Minnesota manoeuvred matters so as to bring up a piece of pending legislation.

The Bout Itself.

The row between Norton and Heflin occurred in a quiet quarter hour of the afternoon and was most unexpected. Mr. Norton had tried to obtain time to address the House on the question of his loyalty to the war program. He was particularly angry over a set of newspaper headlines which conveyed the impression that Mr. Heflin had slandered him to the Rules Committee. He was unable to obtain this time, and made up his mind he would ask Representative Heflin personally if the headlines were true.

Mr. Heflin was sitting in the middle of the Democratic side of the chamber. Mr. Norton walked over to him and asked whether the headlines were correct. Mr. Heflin replied he had not made any such statement. All this was in low voice and not a part of the debate.

"Why didn't you tell that to the House, then?" asked Mr. Norton.

Mr. Heflin arose as if to address the House. Mr. Norton arose also, and suddenly Mr. Heflin grabbed him by the coat collar and shoved him.

"Get back to your own side of the House," he shouted.

"I will when I get ready," answered Norton, putting all of his 200 pounds into a shove which almost pushed Mr. Heflin through an adjacent table.

Every one in the House, including the galleries, saw that a rare event was on. The galleries stood up. Members on all sides roared, yelled, and shouted, and began to gallop toward the two wrestlers. Speaker Clark had retired from the chair and had turned over the gavel to Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky, who stood up and called for the Sergeant-at-Arms. A Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms named Kettner, who had a reputation as centre rush on the Georgia University football eleven before he came to Washington, lowered his head and tried to butt his way through the enthusiastic and solid ring of members who had surrounded the fighters. Some one grabbed Norton's hands, and instantly Representative Baer of North Dakota, who draws cartoons for a living, took the interfering member by the neck and lifted him out of the way.

Meantime Representative Johnson from the chair was hammering away and bawling for order, all to no purpose.

Pages Spread the Tidings.

To be sure that every member of the House would not make it a matter of personal privilege that he was not notified of the event, pages and doorkeepers began waking up sleepers in the cloakrooms and rushing messages to members downstairs in the restaurant. Elevator men left their cars and rushed for choice situations in the gallery doorways.

"Let 'em fight it out. It will do them good."

One man, who was heard plainly all over the House, yelled:

"Let them fight. It will be a good thing to let Heflin get licked."

By this time the wrestlers had been

LARGE TASK FOR COL. HOUSE

President's Friend to Gather All the Data That Our Peace Envoys Will Need.

DEMOCRACY TO BE KEYNOTE

Our Representatives to Give Strict Attention to How the World Shall Be Made Safe.

When the representatives of the warring nations gather about the conference table to arrange peace, the United States will speak with a voice all her own. In concord with the Allies, of course, it is President Wilson's desire that the representatives of America be able and prepared to apply, so far as can be done, the purposes for which we entered the war to the solution of every problem arising in a voice which, while in harmony with the Allies, will be sure to be purely American.

It is because the President wishes the American peace conferees to be in a position to reach their own decisions that he has appointed his friend and adviser, Colonel E. M. House, to prepare the equipment of knowledge with which America's peace representatives will approach the conference table.

Colonel House, at his New York home, 115 East Fifty-third Street, made it very plain yesterday that his work was one of preparedness only. He made it plain that it was not because the President saw peace very near that he was preparing for the discussions. Colonel House pointed out that the Governments of the allied nations had been for a long time preparing data on the solution of all the knotty problems that will come before the peace conference. In addition to this, he said, there were diplomatists in all the European nations, Germany included, whose knowledge of world politics was superior to that possessed by American statemen. It is because of this condition, one which at present might put America's representatives in the position of not being free at all times from the necessity of acting on the knowledge of others, that the President has designated Colonel House to prepare the American authorities for peace negotiations.

As Colonel House himself put it:

"At all conferences those come off best who are best equipped, who have the best cards in the way of knowledge of what they are about. It is intended that the proper knowledge be gathered for the use of America."

How to Make the World Safe.

Because America, notwithstanding statements to the contrary, entered the war to "make the world safe for democracy," in the evolution of the plan to preserve world peace strict attention is to be paid to what America's representatives have to say about how this is to be done.

There is the plan, expressed in America by the League to Enforce Peace, of which William H. Taft is head, of having a world police; there is the plan for which in this country the World Court League stands spokesman, of an international court which, by force of opinion, will effect good behavior among the nations, and there are other plans. All these plans, in the extent of their entertainment abroad and in America, will be studied by Colonel House. He will find out opinion on what would have to be done in the establishment of a world police, how a world court should be constituted, how decisions should be enforced, and he will report the facts to the President.

Colonel House emphasized his statement that he would not make any decisions on any points of international politics; he said he would prepare the knowledge and the data on all points—that was all. The purpose, in brief, of the undertaking is to insure that the situation will not arise where America's peace commissioners will not be able to act with a full knowledge of the facts in the case.

"The European belligerents, all of them," said Colonel House, "have for more than two years now been gathering data to be laid on the table at the peace conference. The United States is now taking up its activities along this line. My work will be merely to help in any way possible. I will gather data that may be of use at some future time."

To Have Expert Assistance.

Colonel House will in the very near future have a conference with President Wilson in Washington with a view to perfecting the organization with which his work is to be accomplished. While acting with the State Department, the collection of data by Colonel House and his staff will be done outside of regular diplomatic circles. He will be assisted by college professors, experts on international trade, and others whom the Colonel is now selecting.

An idea of the size of the task put upon his shoulders may be gained from the statement of Colonel House that his work will extend all over the world. He will collect the knowledge to be had about the Dardanelles; he will learn what he can about the aims and purposes and result of proposed steps in the Balkans, the facts as to the situation in South Africa, where German colonies have been taken by the British; exact

Need Expect No Dispatches, Is Mystifying Word to London

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Correspondents at the British headquarters in France advise all their English and American newspapers to expect nothing from their respective correspondents today.

No reason for this is assigned.

The official reports from General Haig, issued yesterday by the British War Office, and published elsewhere, give no indication of specially significant operations that would explain a temporary silencing of the correspondents on that front.

The only previous interruption of news of correspondents was in October, 1915, when the British censor held up messages. Two days later came announcement of the entry of Bulgaria into the war, and a day later came news of French's drive at Loos.

FIGHT TO A FINISH, LORD MILNER SAYS

GERMAN ISOLATION GROWS

America and Britain, He Asserts, Are Bound by "Absolute Unity of Aim."

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Viscount Milner, Minister without portfolio in the British War Council, speaking today at the American Luncheon Club, declared against any peace with the "unrepentant German rulers." Touching on the entry of the United States into the war and the moral significance of it, Lord Milner evoked a tremendous outburst from those at the luncheon, when he said:

"I feel that your country and mine are now united by something far stronger than any written pact or alliance, namely, by an absolute unity of motive and aim."

Viscount Milner's speech obviously was an answer to the peace talk which has been filtering from Germany in the last few weeks. He said that it was the intention of the Entente Allies to pursue "unfalteringly and resolutely to the end" their crusade, so that the "world shall be a better place to live in than before—a world dominated by other law than the law of the jungle." Viscount Milner continued:

"In the contest between German aggressiveness, naked and unashamed, with unbridled lust for power, on one side, and the awakened conscience of the rest of the world on the other, there can be but one war aim for us. Our war aim is this: That the kind of justice which Germany meted out to Belgium shall in the future be impossible on this earth. In the face of that war aim, nothing else matters."

No Peace With Tirpitz Doctrine.

Viscount Milner quoted Admiral von Tirpitz as declaring at the launching of a new party in Germany a few days ago: "It must be stated that it is not wrong but right that has been done to Belgium."

"This is our reply thereto," said Lord Milner: "It must be stated once and for all that until doctrines of that kind are abandoned there can be no peace for Germany, no intercourse with the rest of the civilized world, no chance of regaining the place she has lost."

Lord Milner's reference to Admiral von Tirpitz came in the peroration of his speech, which he devoted to a vigorous reply to the German Admiral's recent address. After asserting that virtually three-quarters of the inhabited world was now alienated from Germany and that "scarcely a week passes without adding to her enemies," Lord Milner said:

"Germany's profound moral isolation is beginning to tell on her people. Pin your faith as much as you like to blood and iron, there are material as well as moral disadvantages for those who have fallen outside the pale of the civilized community and have forfeited the respect of civilized peoples. For a nation which has taken so large a part in human intercourse and held so high a place in human advancement, this is no light matter.

"There are signs that this aspect is beginning to weigh on the minds and depress the spirits of the German people. That is why a new party has been called into being in Germany to revive the waning spirit and preach anew the doctrine that might is right."

Realizing America's War Power.

"Its material importance is so immense that we on this side are only just beginning to realize it," he said. "But I am convinced that its moral importance is still greater, for it has stamped the indorsement of an independent third party on the contention of the Entente Allies that they were fighting not only for themselves but for civilization.

"The reasons why we entered the war were the same as yours. We were plunged, unprepared and unwarned, into a world conflict by an overmastering moral repugnance at the aggressor's determination to violate every tenet of civilization in the effort to gain his end. Of course, the ultimate of our country was involved, for if Germany's tiger spring had been successful on France and Belgium the beast would have been at our throats in the next leap. But that issue was not realized by our people.

Calls the War a Moral Uprising.

"They came into the war, not through the instinct of self-preservation, but through a purely moral uprising against what seemed to them an intolerable wrong. The United States was forced to the same conclusions by the same reasoning, namely, that this earth could be no place for decent people to live in if one power were permitted to go on and use physical and moral poison to sweep out of its path every obstacle to its domination.

"Of course, as time goes on, minor issues become added to the cause for which we are fighting, and the great

BERLIN WAR AIMS TO BE HELD BACK, MICHAELIS SAYS

CHARGES TERRORISM HERE

Entente Is Weakening, He Says—Claims Good Relations with Neutrals.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 28.—Dr. Michaelis, the German Imperial Chancellor, in a speech to the Main Committee of the Reichstag, said that Pope Benedict's peace proposals were inspired by moral seriousness, pure justice, and neutrality, which things were lacking in the reply made by President Wilson to the Pope.

Justifying Germany's refusal to state her war aims, Dr. Michaelis said that such action would have only a confusing effect and would injure German interests. It would prejudice, he said, the complex questions to be discussed at the time of peace negotiations.

The Chancellor strongly attacked President Wilson's reply to the Pope, which, he asserted, merely bound the German people together more firmly. He said the announced American military exertions were awaited by Germany with calm confidence.

Claims Neutral Friendship.

Dr. Michaelis dwelt upon "the satisfactory state of our relations with the neutrals," which could not be disturbed, he said, even by the unprecedented exertions of the hostile press.

"We greatly deplore," he continued, "the sufferings caused to the neutrals by our enemies' economic war, and we are always prepared to assume a share in the provisioning of the neutrals.

"The economic and financial difficulties of France are fast increasing. Still more keenly felt is the economic distress in Italy, with its internal political concomitants. In England, also, the war is exercising its certain, inexorable effect. The deceptive hope of dissension among us causes the leading British statesmen to continue to adhere to their war aims or at least to proclaim such aims as are entirely incompatible with the political, economical, and vital needs of Germany.

Alleges Terrorism in America.

"In the United States the Government attempted by all methods, even by unparalleled terrorism, to stir up war enthusiasm which hitherto had been nonexistent among the wide masses. We look forward with calm confidence to the announced military exertions of the United States.

"In Russia a grave economic crisis reigns. The transport especially is in nowise adequate to the tasks before it.

"The German reply to the Pope's note met with the approval of our friends and allies, while a majority of our enemies have given it an obviously embarrassed reception. It is difficult to understand how any one acquainted with the international situation and international usages could believe that we ever would be in such a position as, through a one-sided public statement on important questions which are indissolubly bound up with the entire complex of questions which must be discussed at the peace negotiations, to bind ourselves to a solution to our own prejudice.

Will Not "Bind Negotiators."

"Any such public statement at the present time could only have a confusing effect and injure German interests. We should not come a step nearer peace, but it would contribute certainly to a prolongation of the war.

"I must at present decline to specify our war aims and bind the hands of our negotiators."

In conclusion the Chancellor attacked President Wilson's reply to the Pope's note.

"The President's attempt to sow dissension between the people and the Government of Germany," he said, "has no prospects of success. His note has had the opposite effect from what he desired and has bound us more firmly together in a stern resolve to oppose resolutely and energetically all foreign interference."

RESENT AID TO PAN GERMANS.

Reichstag Members Threatened Debate on Conduct of Officials.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—A Copenhagen dispatch says the charges that certain Government authorities are supporting the Pan German and Conservative forces in the agitation to reverse the Reichstag majority peace resolution and commit Germany to the so-called Hindenburg peace may be made the subject of an interpellation at the present session of the Reichstag. Berlin newspapers which arrived at Copenhagen tonight after a three-day interruption indicate that the interpellation was discussed at a meeting of the Steering Committee of the Reichstag on Wednesday.

It was decided to postpone action in order to give Chancellor Michaelis and his aids an opportunity to make certain explanations. This, Philipp Scheidemann, the Socialist leader, explained, would allow the committee to determine the form which the interpellation should take, but it would not head off a big debate on the subject.

The Main Committee of the Reichstag.

a dispatch from Berlin says, passed yesterday on first reading the bill creating the post of Imperial Vice Chancellor. Considerable discussion preceded the favorable action.

The Centralist and Socialist representatives at the meeting Wednesday, of the interparty caucus of the Centrist, National Liberal, Radical and Socialist parties manifested a desire to refuse to vote favorably on the salary of Vice Chancellor Helfferich, who is unpopular in Reichstag circles. The establishment of the Chancellorship as a separate Ministry, including a Vice Chancellor, necessitates a new vote of credit. The Radicals and National Liberals opposed consideration of the matter at the caucus and the question was sent to the Main Committee of the Reichstag.

The Constitution Committee of the Reichstag, according to another dispatch from Berlin, by a vote of 15 to 12 yesterday voted in favor of canceling the concluding sentence in Article 9 of the Imperial Constitution, which debars members of the Federal Council from simultaneous membership in the Reichstag. The committee adjourned after passing an order of the day which declared: "The Reichstag will co-operate in the event of the conclusion of a peace."

RUSSIA DERIDES TEUTON REPLY TO POPE

Has Asked Allies to Ratify Her Plan of Free Poland, Foreign Minister Says.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 28.—Foreign Minister Terestchenko, in a statement to representatives of the press today, declared that the replies of the Central Powers to the peace note of Pope Benedict proved that Germany and Austria "persist in their refusal to make any sincere step whatsoever in the direction of peace." M. Terestchenko added that the Central Empires repeat the worn-out assurances of their love of peace and their eagerness to adopt the principle of the reduction of armaments, but do not make the least reference to the basis of a future peace.

"Several expressions in the notes even lead one to believe that, contrary to the Reichstag resolution, the German Government has not renounced 'German peace' which is contrary to the principles of right and justice, and that Germany regards certain controversial questions as having been definitely settled," the Foreign Minister asserted. "Another expression which mars the German note is the statement that the Berlin Government will consent to enter into peace negotiations only on the basis of what it calls 'the war map.' * * *

"The war aims of the allied democracies already have been laid down in President Wilson's reply to Pope Benedict. Regenerated Russia for her part has made known the principles for which the free peoples of Russia have been fighting. In reply to all this Germany has made no open, frank statement, but still continues her enigmatic rôle, proclaiming that might is greater than right and only awaiting the time when she may be able to consolidate the conquests that she has made by force."

M. Terestchenko, in concluding, said that the Russian Government affirmed its determination to carry out the proclamation of March 30 last to the Poles, especially in regard to the reconstruction of a free Polish people. He announced that the Provisional Government had proposed to the Entente Allies that they issue a joint decree ratifying that proclamation. "At the same time Russia will take care that the future independent Polish kingdom shall enjoy the necessary conditions for its economic and financial regeneration," the Foreign Minister declared, "while leaving open the question of indemnities for its losses caused by the enemy's invasion."

SILENCES BERLIN PAPER WHICH ASSAILED NOTE

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 28.—Under orders of the military authorities, the Pan German newspaper Deutsche Zeitung of Berlin has been suppressed and the Socialist Volkswacht of Danzig has been placed under preventive censorship.

In connection with this and other recent suppressions of newspapers in Germany, the ultimatum issued by the Main Committee of the Reichstag at its session in August is recalled here. The committee gave the Government four weeks to reform the censorship, restricting it to the control of publication of military news.

Censorship of political newspapers by the military has never been more active than at present.

TALAAT BEY DEFENDS TURKISH WAR POLICY

Obvious That End of the Conflict Is Approaching, Says the Grand Vizier.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 28.—Turkey's entry into the war was justified by Talaat Bey, the Grand Vizier, in a long speech closing the congress of the party of Union and Progress, according to a dispatch from Constantinople.

He defended the Turkish treatment of the Armenians, but admitted that the deportations could not be carried out by regular forces because the gendarmes had been drafted into the army and order could not be maintained. Irregularities in connection with deportations had been investigated, he said, and the guilty parties had been punished severely, some with death.

Referring to the Pope's peace note, Talaat Bey said that Turkey adhered to the principle of arbitration. Regarding disarmament he said:

"We shall oppose no solution which is compatible with our vital interest."

He concluded by saying that no one could predict when peace would come, but it was obvious that the end was approaching.

POPE GIVES $4,000 TO FRENCH REFUGEES

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Pope Benedict has sent to Cardinal Amette, Archbishop of Paris, 20,000 francs ($4,000) for the Cardinal's work on behalf of refugee families from the districts of France occupied by the Germans.

Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, in forwarding the Pope's donation, wrote:

"His Holiness is glad in thus giving a fresh mark of his special favor toward the French population of the occupied districts so severely tried by the scourge of war, and also toward the whole generous nation so dear to his paternal heart."

primary issue becomes obscured. We must remember that great issue and keep it always before us. All questions of territorial adjustment and the minor arrangements of a complicated kind, important as they are, and will be, in the making of peace, must be judged finally in reference to our one supreme object. They are good or bad as they do or do not contribute to that object. Are we getting nearer to that goal? Notwithstanding many discouragements, I firmly believe that we are. It is true that, owing to the temporary disablement of Russia, the Allies' military efforts have not been crowned with decisive results this year, but we have won considerable successes on every front but one, and the Allies are pressing back the enemy.

"The entry of America has been a great encouragement to the small nations. The continued heroic fighting of these small nations, such as the Serbians and the Rumanians, who after all have been the greatest sufferers from this war, has not received the attention that it deserves. The entry of the United States has meant much to them. Largely exiled, almost overwhelmed, they find the advent of the United States a bright beacon of hope and a guarantee of their ultimate restoration."

ANZACS WITHSTAND TORNADO OF SHELLS

Their Flank Exposed by German Attempt to Drive a Wedge Into Haig's Line.

SAVED BY DASHING CHARGE

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS IN BELGIUM, Thursday, Sept. 27, (delayed.)—The battle which began yesterday morning after a whole day of counterattacking by the Germans in great numbers and of heavy gunfire lasted until nightfall. It did not pass without anxious hours for those in command and trying hours for some of our fighting men.

From the left above Zonnebeke down to the Australian front on the heights of Polygon Wood race course our advance was made with fair ease through a blockhouse system and without severe losses, as they are reckoned in modern warfare. This was accomplished in spite of difficult bits of ground and usual snags, as our men call them, in the way of unexpected machine gun fire, odd bits of trench to which small groups of Germans clung stubbornly, dirty swamps which some of our men could not cross quickly enough to keep up with the barrage, and danger zones upon which the enemy heaped his explosives.

Apart from local vicissitudes here and there during these first hours of the battle, it became clear by midday or before that, from the extreme left of the attack down to the vicinity of Cameron House on the right of the Australians, the general success of the day was complete.

Australian Flank Exposed.

The critical situation was on the right of the Australians, due to violent pressure on the British troops there during the previous day and again when our new attack started, so that their line was somewhat forced back and the Australian right flank was somewhat exposed. Hour after hour reports coming from this part of the field were read with some anxiety, when it became known how heavily some of our battalions were engaged. This menace to our right wing was averted by the courage of English and Scottish units and by the quick, skillful, and generous help of the Australian troops on their left. It is an episode of battle which will one day be a historic memory when all the details are told. I can only tell them briefly and in outline.

After terrific shelling on Tuesday the Germans launched an attack at 6 o'clock against our line by Carlisle Farm and Black Watch Corner, south of Polygon Wood, and forced some of the English troops to fall back toward the lone house and dirty little swamp of Reutelseek. These boys of Middlesex and other English counties suffered severely. For some time it was all they could do to hold out. Two bodies of fresh infantry were sent up to support them, and by a brave counterthrust under great gunfire restored part of the line so that it was strong enough to keep back any advance wave of Germans by rifle and machine gun fire.

Highlanders Hold Firm.

The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders held out on exposed ground isolated from the main line, and were threatened with being cut off by the assault. They deserve great honor for the heroic way in which they held this ground for many hours that day and night under a harassing fire from "coal boxes" or five point nines, which threatened to wipe out their whole strength. Yesterday they had spirit enough left to renew the attack and to make another attempt to get back the lost ground into which the Germans had driven a wedge.

At the same time the Australians had realized the dangerous situation which exposed their right flank, and they directed a body of their own troops to strike southward in order to thrust back the German outposts. These Australian troops shared the peril of their comrades on the right and withstood the same tornado of shelling, but in spite of heroic sacrifices did not at first wholly relieve the position of the Australian right, which remained exposed.

After a great attack by the Anzacs in the morning, their line was thrust right out beyond Cameron House, but the English and Scottish troops, which had also gone forward in a new attack to the south, were met again by most deadly barrage fire, and checked at a critical time.

I was with some of the Australians yesterday when all this was happening, and when there was some cause for worry. They were unruffled and had not lost confidence for a moment.

"Give us two hours," said one of them who had a right to speak, "and we will make everything as sound as a bell." In those two hours they drew back their flank to get into line on a curve going back toward the lone house, and established defensive posts which would hold off any attack likely to be launched against them.

British Line Straightened.

The Tommy boys, as the Australians call the English, fought as they have fought in three years of great battles, and in spite of the ordeal through which they passed they saved the situation on that ground below Polygon Wood, and made it too dangerous and too costly for the Germans to stay. Early this morning the survivors of the German force which had thrust a wedge between our lines past Cameron House crawled out again and our line was straightened.

How the Australians established themselves on Polygon Wood race course and beyond the big mound called Butte I told yesterday. Further north, British units had attacked north of the Ypres-Roulers railway, running at right angles to the Langemarck-Zonnebeke road. On that road, barring the way, was the station of Zonnebeke, now a mass of wreckage fortified with machine-gun redoubts, and further south were the ruins of Zonnebeke Church and village. Across the road was an old inn, called the Windmill Cabaret, which had been almost blown off the map.

The high ground of Hill 40 rises gradually to a hump a hundred yards or so north of the station. It was bad ground to attack, and was strewn with little blockhouses of a new type, though they are still called pillboxes, after the older and small type of blockhouses. These did not give us much trouble.

Our new form of barrage is the most frightful combination of high explosives and shrapnel that has yet appeared in the war, and it rolled backward and forward about them so that the garrisons huddled inside until our men slipped behind them and thrust rifles or bombs through the machine-gun loopholes, if the Germans had not previously escaped to the shell craters around where they might have more chance.

New Blockhouse Methods.

Here I might say that the Germans have already modified their methods of holding blockhouses. While only a few men remain inside, the rest of the garrison is distributed in shell holes on each side, with machine guns in organized craters. Some of these Germans were found by our men, and though many of them had been killed by our gun fire, others remained shooting and sniping until they were routed out.

The worst part of the ground on this line of attack was around the blockhouse called Boston Farm, where there is a swamp so impassable that some British soldiers who tried to make their way through it had to work around and up toward Hill 40. Here they came under machine gun fire, and although some of them forced their way up the slope of the knoll on which the inn had stood, they did not quite reach the crest. Meanwhile some of our other troops, attacking round about Zonnebeke, where the ground was swept by machine gun bullets, seized the ruins of the church and the outskirts of the station yard.

There was heavy shelling by the Germans all day, which caused our line to fall back a little. At 6 o'clock yesterday evening the enemy launched two counterattacks from Zonnebeke and another around Hill 40. Half an hour later some of our battalions moved forward to thrust the enemy back, and at exactly the same time another counterattack of his advanced in their direction.

Wide Belt of Shellfire.

Each body of men was protected by barrage lines of heavy shellfire, and our shells and those of the Germans mingled. They burst together in a wide belt of fury, and for some time neither side could cross it.

Further north were bodies of English troops. They did astonishingly well, advancing from Zevenkote on the right and Schuler Farm on the left to storm the blockhouses on each side of the high road between Langemarck and Zonnebeke, with hardly a check. They found many of the blockhouses badly damaged after the heavy fire that had been poured on each of them, and if they were not damaged the men inside were so shaken up that they were eager to surrender. Apparently they had not expected the attack to follow the hurricane bombardment, because there had been other affairs of this kind before, and they had made no real attempt to get their machine guns into action.

From the slopes of Gravenstafel and Abraham Heights beyond machine gun fire fell upon the English. The enemy's guns were shooting down the gullies between these ridges, but the ground in this part of our attack was taken without grave trouble and without great losses.

Saxon Prisoners Despondent.

Most of the prisoners taken on this ground were Saxons, and those I have seen marching down to captivity, which they prefer to the field of battle, were men of good physique and smart soldierly looks. It is astonishing how quickly they recover from the effects of the bombardment and the great horror of battle as soon as they get beyond the range of shellfire. But they were gloomy and disheartened. The officers especially acknowledge that things are going badly for Germany, and say there is, for a time at least, until the new class is ready, a dearth of men of fighting age, so that the drafts they get are miserable and unfit. They are overwhelmed by the thought of the monstrous gun power which we have brought to bear against them to counteract their own artillery, which once had the mastery.

The Germans were also struck by the audacity of our air service. Certainly our flying men have been doing all in their power to make life intolerable on the German side of the lines. I have already described how they went out Tuesday night and broke up columns of men marching to attack us.

One of these birds found a different kind of prey. It was opposite the Australian front, where a team of German gunners was getting a gun away. An airman flew low over the heads of the gunners, played a machine gun on them, and dropped bombs. He smashed the gun limber and laid out the gunners. The gun remains there, with the bodies of men and horses around it.

Today, out beyond Ypres, I saw the flights of our men, going out again beyond the German lines for that battle in the air which has never ceased since the battle of Flanders two months ago.

The weather is still in our favor, and there was a blue sky today and a soft golden light over all this Flemish countryside where our troops go marching up to the lines with bands playing, or lie resting in the hop fields on the way. That old place of horror, the Yser Canal, reflected the blue of the sky today. In the air was that sense of peace which belongs to the golden days of Autumn, but the guns were loud and their shells went crying through the sky.

AMERICA TO SPEAK IN HER OWN VOICE

statements of conditions in Belgium, what it will cost to restore that country and Northern France, will be gathered; the Trentino will be studied; the plans and facts about Poland and Bohemia; the facts about Armenia and Syria; a study of Alsace-Lorraine and its problems—in short, all the problems with which the European diplomat is now familiar will be studied and reported upon.

Because of the isolation of America her statesmen have not mixed in European politics and problems to the extent that the statesmen of European nations have. But it is not with the idea of protecting this country's spokesmen in the event of friction that has actuated the President in starting Colonel House on his mission, but a sincere desire that in America's participation in the settlement of the problems her soldiers will help to prepare for, America's action in all things may be intelligent.

Must Have Unbiased Information.

That this may be so, the activities of Colonel House will be conducted entirely independently of the activities of any of the allied nations. The facts upon which to base decisions will come to the American authorities as unbiased as Colonel House and his helpers can bring them. America's entrance into the war was for stated purposes, distinct from those which actuated any other nation to enter it, and if upon America's Peace Commissioners should be thrown the task of settling any problem from her viewpoint of ideals the President wishes America to know whereof she speaks. While interested in European territorial questions only to the extent of seeing that the rights of small nations are preserved, the President wishes to be sure of every step the nation may take.

It is inevitable that in the settlement of the war problems, in many of them particular nations will have a peculiar interest. There will be peculiar interests of Russia, of France, and of England, and there may arise a necessity for America's casting an impartial vote. To cast that vote, she is to be prepared. Because there is no way of denying the fact that America is the most unselfish of the belligerents—in that she seeks nothing for herself—it is deemed necessary that because of the consequent fact that in some things she may have to act independently, she be able to do so with a free rein.

It is entirely possible that the desire of the world for a lasting peace, may place upon America a very large task at the peace table. It is thus that Colonel House's task is the biggest task he ever undertook, one of the biggest any man ever undertook, in the potentialities of far-reaching results of world-wide and lasting import.

No Anticipation of Discord.

Colonel House wishes it made plain that it is with no anticipation of discord among the Allies that the President has taken this step. The war will make America a world power, has done it already, and as a world power America needs at once a knowledge of the ins and outs of world affairs which she has not got in tangible form. Therefore, so far as is possible Colonel House's investigation will include a study of the affairs of the Central Powers, as well as of the allied and neutral nations.

It is Colonel House's attitude that one of the biggest problems before this country, so far as peace adustments are concerned, perhaps the biggest of all peace problems, is the preparation of suggestions for lasting peace. He must gain the attitude of all nations, so far as he can, the attitude of parties within the nations, and the attitude, if it can be got, of those who may control German affairs after the war.

Already he has been approached by advocates of the various plans for world security. All available data on the work toward international arbitration, all important ideas on the enforcement of world behavior, he will seek. The knotty problem of representation in a world court, the rock which has since the first international court vexed the project, will claim his attention. Opinions on whether the Allies should form a world police, and whether the Central Powers and neutrals shall be represented if there is to be a world police; opinions on the enforcement of decrees of a world court, opinions as to the matters to be within the jurisdiction of an international tribunal—these are some of the things he and his aides will study. Then there will be collected and digested data on world finance, trade, commerce, and all the ramifications of governmental activities and ambitions about which this country and its leaders have yet much to learn. He will be assisted by experts on European nationalities, history and politics, all Americans.

Must Respect Small Peoples.

It is not to be understood that the President intends to attempt to dictate the settlement of questions that are purely European, outside of enforcing a regard for America's determination that the rights of small peoples shall be respected. In his war address to Congress he said that territorial readjustments should be made with respect for the grouping of nationalities. The French Government has promised the Czech-Slovaks an independent nation. Many plans have ben advanced for the solution of the Balkan problems. In the solution of all such problems the President wishes Colonel House to see that America takes no step in the dark in any advice she may wish to give to the European nations about the settlement of these problems. The allied nations' approval of the President's reply to the Pope's peace proposals was an earnest of their intention to give to the United States a large voice in the settlement of peace questions.

As the United States is fighting by the side of the Allies, without treaties of alliance to bind her, so she will speak at the peace table with the Allies, but without being bound by the action of any other nation, and not without being able to decide for herself. She is getting ready for the job.

Such is the task put upon Colonel House. He and the President are understood to have talked it over on the recent trip of the Mayflower to Colonel House's home at Magnolia, Mass. It is the biggest job the quiet man from Texas ever had. Colonel House does not intend to be one of the American peace commissioners.

CONFIRMED AT WASHINGTON.

State Department Makes Statement on Nature of Col. House's Task.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The State Department today confirmed the report that President Wilson had asked Colonel E. M. House to collect data that would be useful to this Government at a peace conference after the war.

Officials of the department were careful to make it plain that no new Government policy regarding the conduct of the war was involved in this move and that it did not relate in any sense to the conduct of peace negotiations during the war. It was explained, also, that Colonel House would have no diplomatic status; that he would not enter into discussions with foreign representatives, and that he was not going abroad in connection with his work.

But there was considerable speculation as to whether the undertaking did not mean that whenever peace did come Colonel House might be one of the American representatives at the conference.

It was explained in State Department circles that all the belligerent Governments have had similar agents at work for the same purpose since the war began, and that the designation of Colonel House in this capacity was regarded as wise. It will be Colonel House's task to gather intelligence relating to the commercial, economic, geographic, and political situations, to keep abreast of new developments in all non-military affairs, and to have information available at all times so that it may be useful to the Government in formulating new policies.

Colonel House will have associated with him several experts, probably college professors, economists, and specialists in commerce and finance. The work he is to perform will not be connected in any way with similar work being carried on in any other country.

State Department officials, when reminded that the impression had been created that the United States would not interest itself in purely European territorial questions, answered that the American Army was in Europe and the United States, of course, would have delegates at the peace conference. Without the specific information that Colonel House will obtain, the American representatives at the conference would be at a great disadvantage when votes should be taken.

It was further explained that this Government did not possess exact information on the Balkan situation, which will play an prominent part in its settlement. It was also stated that the Belgian situation would be examined in its historical as well as present aspect. Such a consideration of the Belgian situation is necessary, it was stated, on account of the German demand that the country should be permanently divided into two separate administrative departments, under one ruler.

GERMANS POUNDING WEST FRONT IN VAIN

FRENCH BEAT OFF THE FOE

Assaults Are Made on the Aisne and in the Argonne, but Prove Fruitless.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Heavy assaults are being continued by the Germans on both the British and French fronts.

Another heavy counterattack was made last night on the British positions near Zennebeke, east of Ypres, but it was repulsed.

Severe attacks were also made on the Aisne front and in the Argonne, but the Paris official bulletin says they were beaten off.

The day statement of the British Foreign Office says:

Yesterday evening another counterattack by the Germans against our positions in Zonnebeke was broken up by our rifle and machine-gun fire and artillery. South of Tower Hamlets and south of Polygon Wood isolated strong positions in which parties of the enemy were holding out close to our new positions have been cleared up.

We killed or captured several Germans without loss to ourselves in carrying out a successful raid last night southwest of Cherisy.

The enemy's artillery showed considerable activity during the night south of Lens. The artillery on both sides has been active on the battle front.

Tonight's statement of the British War Office says:

There were no further enemy counter-attacks today. The infantry action on the battle front was confined to patrol encounters between small bodies of troops in which we captured more than a hundred prisoners.

A strong enemy party attempted to approach our lines early this morning east of Polygon Wood, but was caught by our artillery and machine gun fire. Many of the enemy were killed and the survivors were captured. During the night one of our light machine-gun teams surprised a German machine-gun detachment and, after killing or taking prisoner the greater number of the detachment, captured their machine guns.

Our artillery was active in the battle area and groups of hostile infantry were shelled with good effect. On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report.

The day report of the French War Office reads:

There was unusual activity last night over the greater part of the front. The Germans undertook a series of attacks on the Aisne front, in the region of Panthéon, south of La Royere, in the region south of Ailles, and against our trenches northwest of Courcy. All these attacks were repulsed by our fire.

In the Argonne, at Four de Paris, northwest of Tahure and west of Navarin, the enemy made three successive attacks against our positions, but the fire of our artillery and infantry prevented him from approaching our lines, inflicting heavy losses on him.

Spirited artillery engagements occurred on the right bank of the Meuse and also in the region of Hill 304.

Notwithstanding unfavorable atmospheric conditions, our aviators last night dropped a large number of projectiles on the aviation grounds at Marville and Mars-la-Tour, the railway stations at Brieulles, Fleville and Romagne-sous-les-Cotes, and on barracks at Peuvillers and Sivry-sur-Meuse. All our objectives were attained.

The night report says:

There is nothing to report except that there has been rather considerable artillery activity on the right bank of the Meuse in the region of Beaumont.

BERLIN, Sept. 28, (via London.)—British forces, which advanced yesterday for strong local attacks northeast of Fresenberg and on the Menin Road were driven back, says the official statement issued today by the War Office. On the Ypres-Passchendaele Road, the statement adds, the British still occupy crater positions on the German front line. The statement reads:

Western theatre, Army of Crown Prince Rupprecht: On the Flanders battlefield the artillery fighting increased again this afternoon and onward. In the evening drumfire was directed against points to the east of Ypres. The English advanced there for strong local attacks northeast of Fresenberg and on the road to Menin. In both zones of attack they were driven back by our fire and after hand-to-hand fighting.

On the coast in the evening the artillery activity was lively, and it also increased at intervals on several sectors of the Artois front.

Army of the German Crown Prince—North of the Aisne and in Champagne bad sighting conditions and local showers limited the activity throughout the day, but it was revived in the evening. At several points our reconnoitring expeditions met with good results.

PARIS JUDGE ACCUSED IN SPY PLOT INQUIRY

PARIS, Sept. 28.—The Minister of Justice, it is announced officially, has decided to send Fernand Monier, President of the Paris Court of Appeals, before the Court of Cassation for "professional errors and imprudence." M. Monier first came before the public prominently at the time of the Caillaux case three years ago.

The Monier case has caused a great sensation, as the Judge is one of the highest members of the French judiciary. It is stated the reason for the Government's action was the association of the Judge with Bolo Pasha. Among the papers found by the police in Bolo Pasha's houses were letters from Judge Monier and also various documents written or corrected by the Judge, showing that he assisted Bolo with legal advice in connection with certain industrial schemes. One of these concerned the Suez Canal.

Judge Monier is said to have acted in behalf of Bolo when the latter offered to put 5,500,000 francs into the Journal. When the proprietor of the newspaper, Senator Humbert, asked Judge Monier about Bolo the Judge said, according to the Senator:

"I have known Bolo for ten years. I readily guarantee his patriotism and honor. You can take his money without hesitation."

When Judge Monier was informed of the decision of the Minister of Justice to send him before the Court of Cassation he made the following statement:

"It is most painful for me to be obliged to keep silent when I have so much to say. It is not for me to assume to criticise the measure so suddenly taken against me. I have only to defend myself before my peers. That I shall do, I assure you, with the greatest ease, but also with energy lent me by the double desire of defending my personal cause and proclaiming the unblemished honor and incorruptibility of the French judiciary."

Bolo Pasha, a wealthy Levantine, said to have been an associate of the deposed Khedive of Egypt in connection with German propaganda in France, has been under examination by the French military authorities to ascertain whether his activities have been in contravention of the laws against intercourse with the enemy.

ITALIANS ABSOLUTE MASTERS OF THE AIR

ACCURACY OF AIM DEADLY

Army's Aviation Experts Consider Plan to Cross Atlantic Not Only Feasible, but Easy.

By PERCEVAL GIBBON.

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, Sept. 26.—No day or night passes by but great bomb-dropping Capronis sail over Austrian gathering points, railway junctions, and crossroads and churn them into ghastly disorder with a rain of bombs. Prosecco, upon the main line of communications from Trieste to Tolmino, and the road leading back from it and that concentration of Austria's remaining forces, which are reorganizing along the Chiapovano Valley, are frequently visited.

The Italians hold foremost place in the development of the airplane, which is practically a howitzer; that is, a mere means of lifting huge projectiles and depositing them on objectives. They have given particular attention to accuracy of aim, so that often they achieve an effect equal to intensive fire by large calibre guns. I was told recently of a squadron which flew over an Austrian trench line on the Carso reaching the trench with every bomb dropped. It was like the fire of a widely spaced battery as the bomb explosions sprang up along the windings of the parapet.

Their mastery of the air is so complete that throughout the fighting which commenced Aug. 19 I personally only witnessed two air battles. The aviators tell me they are rarely attacked save when a single machine is flying in the neighborhood of the woods near Komen, where the Austrians have several large machines. These will pounce out and take a chance against a single flier. The only active and daring Austrian aviators are those of the hydroaeroplanes from Trieste and the Istrian coast bases, among whom is the redoubtable Bamfield, employed by the Austrian Lloyd. Prisoners brought down and captured alive by Grado airmen describe him as a young man about 25 and exceedingly reckless. He is now obliged to walk with a stick since he has been twice wounded while flying. He was among the aviators who attacked the English monitors.

The Italians were the first nation to use the airplane in warfare. They maintain this prestige by unceasing activity in the development and perfection of types of machines. I visited today an aerodrome which is occupied by a squadron of which Laureati, the Turin to London flier, was a member for a time, and saw many of the latest types of the great machines which have done so much to establish Italian air mastery. The Italians build nothing which has not a look of finality. Their hangers of reinforced concrete are as handsome and solidly constructed as country villas, and the very airplanes showed a touch of artistry in finish and completeness or fittings. A modern Caproni is as comfortable for its occupants as a limousine.

I asked the aviators, in view of Laureati's success, what they thought of the prospects of the Caproni fliers in America who are to make an attempt to fly across the Atlantic. One and all were enthusiastic about it. They seemed to have been discussing it among themselves for weeks. They pointed out that by choosing starting and landing places the passage could be done with only about a thousand miles of water to cross.

"We have already machines which normally go into action with a crew of four men, besides a cargo of bombs," one of them said. "By reducing the crew to two and substituting for bombs and the other two men an extra fuel supply the thing is obviously possible."

They laid stress on the value of multiple engines and quoted the case of an aviator flying a three-engined machine who got back safely though two engines were out of action. "We shall all be mail carriers after the war," said one of them.

NEW SCAPEGOAT FOUND FOR CROWN PRINCE

Gen. von Deimling to Be Retired and Blamed for German Failure at Verdun, It Is Said.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 28.—Lieutenant General Berthold von Deimling, former military commander at Zabern, Alsace, will be pensioned, according to the Berlin Militar Wochenblatt.

The newspaper adds that it is believed he will be made responsible for the failure of the German troops before Verdun, where, in 1916, he commanded the Fifteenth German Army Corps.

General von Deimling was military commander at Zabern in 1913 when the historic outbreak between the populace and the military occurred. This trouble resulted from an attack with his sword by a German officer on a crippled shoemaker, which the populace resented and which led to violent fighting between the townspeople and the military.

On the eve of the Verdun battle early in 1916 von Deimling published the following order to his troops:

"In the course of the latest offensive against the French I hope that the Fifteenth Army Corps will distinguish itself as it has done in the past."

WHOLE REGIMENT DESERTS.

Austrians Go Over to Rumanians During German Kaiser's Visit.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 28.—The Journal Az Est of Budapest says that during the visit of the Kaiser to the Rumanian front an entire fully armed Austrian regiment, consisting chiefly of Bosnians and Slavs, and with their Colonel, a native of Serajevo, deserted en bloc to the Rumanians on the Ocna front, and asked to be incorporated as volunteers with the Serbians. The request was granted.

The journal demands that doubtful troops should be withdrawn from this front, and adds "the Kaiser must have been badly impressed on learning the news."

VON TIRPITZ DERIDES AMERICA'S POWER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ZURICH, Saturday, Sept. 29, (via London.)—Admiral von Tirpitz continues his campaign in favor of a Prussian peace. In an interview with Hungarian correspondents yesterday he said:

"The first condition of a strong peace is to establish a protectorate over Belgium and the coast of Flanders. The Dual Monarchy needs a strong Germany and has vital interests in the abolition of Anglo-French predominance in the Mediterranean. Austrian Slav ambitions are endangering the safety of the monarchy. Hungary, too, needs German support, for the Russian menace may reappear at any time.

"The Central Powers must hold together till the U-boat decides the war, which it soon will. American help is and will remain a mere bluff."

The democratic movement in Hungary causes the Admiral great annoyance and he frankly told the Hungarians that the Russian revolution had got on their nerves. He declared that Entente statesmen were nothing but dictators and that in any case England must be utterly crushed.

Von Tirpitz was the rival of Michaelis for the Chancellorship and the whole militarist and reactionary faction en bloc is very active in Switzerland. Many competent critics think a decisive political coup may be attempted by the military party to silence the Reichstag.

FRANCE NEEDS MEN BEHIND THE LINES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—It is now realized here that in addition to the very great difficulties of transatlantic communication a long period of preparation must elapse before American troops can take their place as a fighting unit of large importance on the firing line in France. In the opinion of many persons here it is scarcely less important that America shall aid France now than to put a quarter of a million men on the firing line.

France now needs young, strong workers in almost any capacity, military or otherwise. She is slowly stifling because of the absence of men from home—men 45 to 50 years old, fathers of families, farmers, directors of business large and small, men whose absence at the war spells ruin to her economic life. These men are not in the trenches, but doing manual work behind the lines, repairing roads, building railroads, guarding bridges, and handling supplies.

If a quarter of a million of them could be restored to civil life before Spring it would put new blood in the economic veins of France, to say nothing of the moral stimulus given by the return home of so many husbands and fathers of families.

THEY are set right in the midst of New York's social centre. Large hotels, desirable clubs, theatres, and attractive shops cluster all about. But within "The Mansions" there is the quiet and privacy to be found only in one's own home. That is an ideal combination, is it not?—to be within lightning reach of the city delights, with the added joys of suburban quiet. They are called "mansions," and so they are, veritable mansions with an air of palatial dignity and unostentatious elegance that will immediately commend them to the discriminating in search of delightful living quarters. The Mansions, you see, are new housekeeping apartments that offer all the conveniences of the apartment hotel.

Residential Privacy

Perhaps you have noticed them in passing along Park Avenue at 47th and 48th Streets. The tall building rises up in a dignified substantialness, with the Gardens set like a jewel in the centre. What a joy it will be to look out of one's apartment window and see the well-kept lawns, plants and shrubbery (triumphs of gardening), that immediately transplant one to the beautiful Italian Gardens overseas. What a pleasure each day to ride along the broad driveway that leads through the Gardens up to one's own private door. Yes, that is the delightful part: each group of apartments boasts its own private entrance. That gives an air of privacy, not ordinarily to be found in the city apartment. And uniformed concierges, on duty day and night, direct the guests and stand guard.

ALLIES TO ATTACK BULGARIA IN SPRING

Greek Army of 300,000 Will Be Ready Then to Join in Great Campaign.

SOFIA THE MAIN OBJECTIVE

Germany to be Cut Off from Turkey—Italian Forces in Albania Expected to Co-operate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The plan of the Allies in the Balkans, as partially disclosed today, is to advance upon Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, which would cut communications between Germany and Turkey, practically eliminate Bulgaria from the war, and present to Turkey a situation which would render it advisable for her to sue for separate peace on the best terms she could obtain. Germany is said to be drawing great quantities of supplies, especially oil and wheat, from Turkey, and this traffic cannot be interrupted until the line is cut by the international army now operating in Macedonia.

The delay in the mobilization of the Greek Army for use on the Entente side of the war has been due to lack of equipment which is to be furnished by France, England, and the United States. This explanation of the delay was communicated to the Greek Legation today by the Foreign Office at Athens. When the necessary equipment has been obtained Greece will be able to furnish 300,000 men for use in the war. It is learned that an almost absolute equilibrium has been created in the Balkans between the allied forces and those of the Central Powers, Turkey, and Bulgaria. The 300,000 men Greece will add to the allied troops will give them a preponderance of strength which is expected to overcome the enemy in that theatre.

Moreover, it has been indicated in recent dispatches from Rome that the large Italian army in Albania is preparing to co-operate with a drive against the foe's right flank. Another cablegram received here today mentions that the Italian troops are building roads in difficult country although the Austrians and their Bulgar and Turkish allies are trying to prevent the work.

By late Spring the Anglo-French commands will have assembled in Macedonia large quantities of materials for decisive operations there.

It was intimated today that Balkan statesmen, including those of Bulgaria, favored a settlement of the Balkan question by themselves rather than by the great powers. The latter, it was pointed out, have never succeeded in finding a solution of the problem by balancing the interests of themselves in the Balkans, and it was asserted that the second Balkan war in all probability would have been averted had not the powers interfered. The action of Germany and Austria, it was charged, precipitated the second Balkan war.

Premier Venizelos of Greece is thought to favor a Balkan confederation, but diplomats here hold that the proposal is impractical and unrealizable. It is known, however, that the Entente Powers are depending to a large extent upon Venizelos to assist them in reaching an adjustment when peace is concluded that will at least prevent for many years a new disturbance of the peace in the Balkans.

In view of Italian claims along the eastern shores of the Adriatic, Greece is expected to receive some territorial compensation on the Asia Minor shores, but the extent of her compensation will be measured by the assistance she gives to the allied arms against the Central Empires, Bulgaria, and Turkey.

OFFERS TO SUBSCRIBE $5,000,000 TO LOAN

Unnamed Woman Tells Woman's Committee of Plans to Take Part of New Bond Issue.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—A forthcoming subscription of $5,000,000 from one woman was reported to the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee today by the representatives of the National Society of Colonial Dames. Secretary Baker, who addressed the committee, said:

"When this war is over, children on their way to school will not be blown to pieces by bombs from the air, and people engaged in peaceful missions will not be stealthily submarined on the high seas, and no nation, after this war, will be willing to tolerate the notion that a nation in arms can praise God with their lips and bomb hospitals with their hands at the same time, and still be regarded as a civilized nation."

CAPTURED GERMANS WORK FOR A REPUBLIC

Propaganda Begun By Siegfried Balder and Others to Convince Army by Pamphlets.

Some of the Germans who have been captured in France, or surrendered to the allied forces are conducting an active campaign to spread among the Kaiser's forces a propaganda in favor of a German Republic, according to "The Friends of the German Republic." At the office of this organization, 32 Union Square, it was said yesterday that an appeal had been received from Siegfried Balder, leader of the German republican workers in France, for a printing press and supplies of paper to aid in the scattering of thousands of pamphlets over the German lines.

"To the Comrades on the Western Front:

"We have succeeded in having the following order issued in the French Army: 'He who surrenders as a prisoner and utters the password "Republic," is no longer treated as an enemy war prisoner.' If he chooses he may work with us, his like-minded countrymen, in the liberation of Germany.

"To Our People at Home:

"Spread the truth. Spread this literature. Agitate for the German Republic."

The "Friends of the German Republic" plans to give all the help it can to the work of Balder, who is a German poet. J. Köttgen, Organizing Secretary, said that the organization expected to enroll a large percentage of the German-Americans. Mr. Köttgen read a letter he had received from Balder which said that American airplanes could do more to win the war by dropping revolutionary literature among the German soldiers than by dropping bombs on them.

AMERICAN BATTLESHIP AGROUND OFF COAST

Navy Department Announces It Probably Will Be Refloated Without Difficulty.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Somewhere along the Atlantic Coast a battleship is aground, but the Navy Department deems it unwise to go into details beyond this statement, issued today:

"The Navy Department has received an official report stating that a battleship of the United States Navy is aground in home waters. The ship is resting easily, and it is expected that she will be floated without difficulty. Newspapers are urgently requested not to print any information which might lead to the establishing of the identity or location of the stranded vessel."

HURRICANE DAMAGES THE ISLE OF PINES

Gulf Coast Also Hit, But Comparatively Little Harm Done—Storm Moving Northeast.

HAVANA, Sept. 28.—A steamer and several sailing vessels were sunk, numerous houses were razed, and great damage was done to growing crops and fruits by the West Indian hurricane which struck the Isle of Pines Wednesday evening, according to dispatches received here tonight.

Advices from Batabano, on the mainland, say it is believed there that many persons perished in the islands, although no definite information regarding casualties has been received here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 28.—Refugees from the Isle of Pines report that the hurricane almost annihilated the wealth of the island, mostly American.

The property loss is estimated at $2,000,000. The crop destruction is complete. Only ten houses are left standing in Nueva Gerona, the chief town, with 1,500 inhabitants. At times the wind exceeded a velocity of 120 miles an hour.

The island's entire food supply is gone save a small quantity of canned goods. No lives were lost.

A relief committee has issued an appeal to the Cuban President and the American public for help for the homeless and destitute.

STEAMER HELPLESS IN GULF.

British Ship's Propeller Shaft Is Reported Broken.

A GULF PORT, Sept. 28.—A large British steamer which left this port Saturday is lying helpless 300 miles off shore after being battered many hours by the tropical hurricane, according to a wireless message received today.

Agents of the ship declined to state the nature of the trouble, but it is understood that the vessel's propeller shaft was broken.

SEEK A COMPROMISE TO DEFEAT TAMMANY

is said, will be Colonel Roosevelt, Charles E. Hughes, Alton B. Parker, members of the Republican Club and the Union League Club, as well as representatives of the leading civic organizations of the city. The plan is to make the request that the Mayor run independently so pronounced that he will have no choice but to accept. Fusion leaders predicted that in Monday's mass meeting there would be at least 10,000 persons.

Plans for the City Hall meeting were first announced yesterday by E. H. Outerbridge, President of the Chamber of Commerce, who, in introducing the Mayor as a speaker at the luncheon to the Japanese Commission, told those present that they would soon receive communications from him calling upon them to take action in behalf of the Mayor's candidacy for re-election. After the meeting Mr. Outerbridge said that, representing the sentiments of a number of men affiliated with commercial and labor organizations, he was preparing to send out hundreds of letters and telegrams to citizens in all walks summoning them to assemble at the City Hall at 12:30 o'clock on Monday to present a demand upon the Mayor to run for re-election whether he was the nominee of the Republican Party or not.

"Our move is in no sense partisan and represents no particular group or interest in the city except those desiring to see the continuance of good government and the emphatic placing of New York on the side of loyalty to the nation in time of war," said Mr. Outerbridge. "Among those who will present the demand for Mayor Mitchel's entrance into the race as an independent candidate, if he is not awarded the Republican nomination, will be representatives of labor, of business, of banking, of every branch of activity in New York. All of us will tell the Mayor that the interests of the city and the nation make it imperative upon him to run for re-election. The sending out of telegrams and letters is the result of a spontaneous agreement among those with whom I have talked recently.

"We have no organization and no purpose other than the continuance of Mayor Mitchel in office. We simply decided that something ought to be done to show the Mayor how we feel, and agreed upon the meeting at City Hall. The demand for his candidacy is such that he simply will not be able to resist it. He will have to run."

Preparing the Petition.

Regardless of what the Mayor may do in the situation, the Fusion Committee managers went ahead yesterday on the supposition that the Mayor would continue in the race. Petitions were prepared for circulation which, when signed and attested, will place the Mayor's name on the ballot as an independent candidate. The Mayor's name will appear on the official ballot of the Fusion Committee under the emblem of a bullseye. He will also be the candidate of the City Party under the emblem of the rooster. Emory R. Buckner, the newly-made campaign manager of the Fusion Committee, said this course had been decided upon after a conference of the Fusion leaders earlier in the day and that the committee's progam was to go ahead just as planned before the primaries. He said it would take two or three days to obtain the 3,000 signatures necessary for the nomination of an independent candidate, but that no doubt many times that number of signatures would be obtained before Oct. 17, the last day for filing independent petitions. He added that a real old-fashioned campaign would be conducted, with the dominant issues Americanism and Tammanyism.

Mr. Buckner said that after a study of the situation the Fusion leaders were satisfied that Mr. Bennett's nomination did not represent the choice of the real majority of the Republican Party. The Bennett vote, he said, represented at best only 17 per cent. of the Republican enrollment of approximately 250,000, and pointed out that only about 32,000 votes had been cast in the primaries, whereas 350,000 votes had been cast under the Republican emblem last Fall. Mr. Bennett's large primary vote, he added, was due to the fact that the Fusion leaders had been caught napping and made no pre-primary fight.

"I assume," said Mr. Buckner, "that all organization Republicans will stand by the Fusion Committee and vote for its nominees on Election Day. The people who did not come out and vote for the Mayor did not know that war had been declared. The issue is between Mayor Mitchel and Charles F. Murphy. Do the people want Mr. Mitchel for Mayor, or do they want Mr. Murphy? That is the question that will have to be answered on Election Day."

Swann Starts Investigation.

District Attorney Swann intends to make a sweeping investigation of the disclosures of the Republican primary vote. He said he expected to present all the evidence forthcoming to the Grand Jury by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. After consulting with Deputy Assistants James G. Wallace and Neilson Olcott, who were assigned to watch the recounting of the ballots, Mr. Swann said he had sufficient evidence to show that "palpable" fraud had been committed in more than 100 election districts. He said that in at least sixteen of the election districts the investigation would proceed at once, but that the investigation of the others would be made more slowly.

"We intend," he said, "to take up the examinations of the election officials chronologically. Every election district where the surface evidence shows that frauds have apparently been committed, will be closely examined. The Inspectors will be subpoenaed to ascertain where frauds have or have not been committed. My official duty enjoins it upon me to see that anything that stands in the way of a fair election either in the primaries or the regular election shall be rooted out."

Later the District Attorney sent a letter to Mr. Bennett asking him to turn over any evidence he had that showed fraud. In this letter he wrote:

"You are hereby requested to turn over to me, as District Attorney of New York County, all evidence in your possession, or under your control, of any frauds or irregularities in the County of New York in the recent primary election; and, in particular, you are requested to deliver to me the affidavits, or copies thereof, in your possession or under your control, which allege irregularities, and an enumeration of such election districts as show ballots which bear erasures or other markings which do not appear to have been made by the voters, together with an enumeration by election districts of the change of vote in all Assembly districts in the County of New York in which an examination has been made."

The District Attorney sent out twenty subpoenas yesterday for witnesses, some of them election Inspectors, who will be questioned this afternoon. Many more subpoenas will be issued for witnesses to appear on Monday.

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, whose organization had given stanch support to Mayor Mitchel in the primaries, received the unanimous indorsement of the new committee selected in the primaries last night. All the old officers were re-elected. The keynote sounded by the speakers was an emphatic assertion that Tammany must be defeated. There was no plea for the election of the Republican nominee for Mayor.

Brooklyn Republicans who worked for Bennett's nomination, it was said, are considerably chagrined at the result. It was explained that while they wanted to pile up a good majority for Bennett in Brooklyn in order to "make the Fusion leaders come to them," they never expected that Bennett would actually get the nomination. They did expect that Manhattan would offset the Bennett majority in Brooklyn. They now fear they will lose all their county offices.

The inspection of the primary ballots went on slowly yesterday at 125 Worth Street, where the Board of Elections, with the help of Mitchel and Bennett watchers, is making the recount. Only one set of clerks worked during the day, as there were not enough Mitchel watchers to keep three shifts of workers busy. The new count, however, showed steady gains for Bennett in all the Brooklyn and Queens districts examined. At 7 o'clock yesterday morning, with one-third of the ballots examined, Bennett's lead was 439. The new count showed that Bennett had gained in every borough of the city where the boxes have been opened.

One of the largest gains made by Bennett was in the Sixth Assembly District of the Bronx, where he gained 45 votes. This was mainly due to what appeared to be an error on the part of local board officers. In the Eighteenth Election District 26 blank ballots had been counted for the Mayor on primary night. These will be deducted from the Mayor's total if a recount is ordered by the courts. In this Assembly district the Mayor's loss was 41 and his total gain 6, while Mr. Bennett gained 12 and lost 2.

The most serious loss for Bennett was in the Sixth Assembly District of Brooklyn, where in one election district where the Mayor's vote had been testified as 2 it was shown that he had received 22 votes. In the Twelfth Assembly District, where United States Senator Calder lives, Bennett gained 29 votes and lost 6, while the Mayor gained 2 and lost 33, making a net gain for Bennett of 54 votes.

BENNETT WON BY 611.

Election Board Finishes Its Re-examination of Primary Ballots.

The Election Board finished its re-examination of the Republican ballots cast in the recent primary at midnight last night. The final count showed that William M. Bennett had a majority of 611 over Mayor John Purroy Mitchel for the Mayoralty nomination. As only complete, or practically complete, Assembly districts have been tabulated the total vote for Bennett given below does not include his gains in various election districts. The tables so far as completed by the tabulators follow:

the war was asserted in the afternoon in addresses delivered by Viscount Ishii, head of the commission; Mayor Mitchel, and E. H. Outerbridge at the Chamber of Commerce. Viscount Ishii said that the people of this country would be satisfied that "Japan has done, is doing, and will do her share in the war in such manner as to justify her claiming a place in the company of honest men," and the applause that followed was the audience's way of saying that it was satisfied.

About 1,000 bankers and business men of various fields assembled at the Chamber of Commerce to greet the commission. The welcome which they extended to the Japanese was positive in its enthusiasm, and Viscount Ishii and his countrymen seemed to be deeply moved. Wherever the visitors went they were hailed by crowds of men and women who seemed determined to make them know the warmth of New York's feeling for them.

Before the luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Outerbridge, President of the Chamber, presided at a reception in the main hall of the building. Addressing the audience, he dwelt upon the long friendship between Japan and the United States. "And we believe," he said, "that this visit will accomplish far more than merely a better co-operation in the prosecution of the war. We believe it will cement and perpetuate that ancient and long existing friendship. We believe that it will have demonstrated to all those, whether foes abroad, alien enemies at home, or recreants masquerading, alas, under our own citizenship, who have tried to let loose poisonous gases of innuendo and suspicion to raise, as it were, a chilling mist between us, that their efforts have been brought to nought. We believe that from this time forth the representative people of this nation and of your nation will see to it, no matter how drastic the measures that may have to be adopted to prevent these insidious evils, that it is the firm resolve of our people that his ancient friendship shall be kept ever true, warm, and glowing.

Ishii's Happy Response.

Viscount Ishii made a happy reply to Mr. Outerbridge's address. "To but few men comes such opportunity," he said. "I can only hope that it may be in my power to impress you with some small sense of my own appreciation and of the obligation under which you have placed my associates and my countrymen. I would be a proud man indeed, if some power could give unto me the gift of speech to make reply in kind to your gracious and eloquent words, but I am confronted by the thought that no words coined or strung together could, in any language, convey even a small sense of our appreciation.

"I am, however, glad of the opportunity to say some things to you on an occasion which demands and insures frank speech and sincerity. I am speaking to the men who represent the whole world of business in a business day of such vast intricacies and considerations that we who stand outside understand but little of the movement. Least of all, perhaps, one who comes from a small island some 10,000 miles away, whose total business falls something short of what the records show for this island of Manhattan. But, gentlemen, every little helps, and little Japan is here to help. We are here to say that Japan will make herself as unpleasant to the enemy as her physical makeup will permit or her ingenuity conceive.

"You will be satisfied that Japan has done, is doing and will do her share in such manner as to justify her in claiming a place in the company of honest men."

Meet on Common Ground.

Speaking of the friendship between the United States and his country, Viscount Ishii said:

"Hitherto we have come to you, or you have come to us, with something to sell or something to buy; something to give and something to take. Hitherto it has been the cry that trade and commerce exchange and mart would bring us to a better understanding, and it has, but today there is something more, East meets West on common ground. 'That Royal Hawk, the sun, has flown from the Orient's hand and lighted in the West.' The same sun glorifies the stars and is blazoned on the snow white field of 'your flag and my flag as they fly today; on your land and my land half a world away.' This is the day of the gathering of the clans of the East and of the West. The day has dawned in which the yesterday is forgotten; when old prejudices, old misunderstandings, fade and you greet us as we greet you—old friends, and new-made brothers in the struggle for human liberty, human freedom, and national existence."

Following these two addresses luncheon was served in the library of the chamber. The only speaker after luncheon was Mayor Mitchel. He was introduced by Mr. Outerbridge, who said: "I want to give you an opportunity to look at and stand beside and reassure our young Mayor that is and is to be."

Three loud cheers for "Mitchel, Mitchel, Mitchel" came in response to these words.

The Mayor devoted none of his speech to himself or to the municipal campaign except in so far as a stand for loyalty to America and the lesson in it to be learned from Japan might be applicable to the local situation.

"The people of New York," he said, "recognize the deep significance of this meeting, a significance that has to do not only with the past friendship that has existed between the two peoples, but the significance of this visit to the country in the present state of the war, which means that Japan extends to us today the assurance that she is with us as she has been with the other allies since the beginning of this war, and that she is prepared to co-operate with us as we are prepared to co-operate with her to bring this war to a victorious issue.

A Lesson in Patriotism.

"Gentlemen, our great nation is prepared. Every day the young men go to concentration and to training camps, and every day, or almost every day, ships go out bearing troops across the Atlantic. There is no doubt of the truth of what Judge Gary said to you in the City Hall, that the American people are prepared to put as many men into the field as may be necessary to win this war and that they are ready to devote as many billions of the national treasure to the winning of this war as it may require. But besides those things it is necessary that this great nation keep here at home, as an inspiration to the fighting forces at the front, a public spirit that will know no division, that will know no sedition, or at least will repudiate any utterance which may strike not only at our nation but at any one of our allies.

"Your great nation has indeed a lesson for the people of the United States in the wonderful spirit of individual devotion and self-sacrifice to the national cause that Japan knows among her people."

In the morning the members of the commission were driven in automobiles from the home of Judge Gary, at 856 Fifth Avenue, where they are staying, to the Woolworth tower, from which they viewed the city. The next stop was at the Stock Exchange, and when the Japanese entered the visitors' gallery the trading stopped while those on the floor cheered. There was a short rest at the Bankers' Club in the Equitable Building before the reception and luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce. While at the club Viscount Ishii repeated to newspaper men his appreciation of the welcome by the city and spoke of the wonders of New York's tall buildings and commercial activity.

The members of the commission will go to West Point today and be the guests of the city at a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight.

CHALLENGE SWANN IN NEPONSIT INQUIRY

Mayor and Controller Ask Him to Call Them Before the Grand Jury.

BOTH WAIVE IMMUNITY

Again Charge Prosecutor with Falsehood—Swann Says He Will Subpoena Them.

Mayor Mitchel and Controller Prendergast sent a joint letter to District Attorney Swann yesterday replying to Mr. Swann's utterances in connection with the Neponsit realty deal by stating that they would be willing to appear before the Grand Jury and waive immunity. The Mayor and the Controller again accused the District Attorney of "falsehood."

Mr. Swann issued a statement last night in which he said that he had not received the letter when he left his office at 7 o'clock, and declared that he believed it had been sent late in order to prevent him from getting a reply in the newspapers this morning. Then Mr. Swann said:

"They knew that the Grand Jury finished this morning with the Neponsit matter. That is why the Mayor and the Controller so generously offer now to go before the Grand Jury, a thing they had not done before. They waited until the inquiry was over. I wish to say that I have the proofs of everything stated in my letter in which I referred to the application of Section 2 of the Penal Code.

"I will add that, although the Grand Jury has finished with the Neponsit matter, it will immediately take up the Dreamland business, and I promise Mr. Mitchel and Mr. Prendergast that they shall be called before the Grand Jury. As for these two gentlemen exhorting me to abstain from dirty politics, I will say it comes with bad grace from them at this hour."

The letter of the Mayor and the Controller to the District Attorney began by saying:

"By published insinuation—not by specific statement—you have sought to convey the impression that we have knowledge of facts which you say would constitute the offense of grand larceny in the first degree. These innuendoes, repeated by indirection this morning, are in accordance with your policy of political publicity. Let us induce you to proceed as the law, which you are sworn to carry out, obliges you to act."

Continuing, the letter said:

"You have tried to imply that we know of a combination of individuals working with preconcerted design to get out of the city treasury a sum of money in excess of the valuation of lands taken for Seaside Park at Rockaway and Dreamland Park at Coney Island. Let us remind you again that you have not called upon us to give to the Grand Jury the information which you imply we possess. We have supplied you with all papers and records requested by you."

Then the letter stated that on Sept. 5 Mr. Prendergast told Assistant District Attorney Black that he would assist the District Attorney in every way possible.

"Let us tell you this explicitly," the letter stated, "that we shall be glad to respond to a request or to a subpoena to appear before this Grand Jury, or any other Grand Jury. Let us give you additional assurance that we will not hesitate to waive immunity. Let us further inform you that we will acquaint the Grand Jury with the whole record and all the facts, not with half-truths or misstatements with which you have sought to poison the public mind.

"We are constrained to make this offer to you because, judging from the numerous perversions of truth that have issued from your office in violation of the secrecy of Grand Jury proceedings, the facts, as they appertain to city officials, have been held back from that body."

Then the letter said: "Your letter of Sept. 25 does not meet the issue of fact given in our letter of Sept. 24. On the contrary, you build up a new structure of falsehood, which it is to be assumed will be replaced with another tissue of misstatement as soon as we demolish the present."

Then the letter denied Mr. Swann's statement that the Board of Estimate had at one time adopted a resolution to buy 400 acres at Rockaway for $1,000,000. In reply to Mr. Swann's statement that the Mayor's "friends of the Neponsit Company" sold the land to the city, the letter said:

"Mayor Mitchel had not at that time even so much as a speaking acquaintance with Mr. Bailey or Mr. Greve, nor with any of the other officers of the Neponsit Company, if others there were. He did not have the least acquaintance with Mr. Reynolds then, nor later, when you falsely charge Mr. Mitchel with having been a sub-committee of one to negotiate with Senator Reynolds." The letter referred to Mr. Swann's insinuation as "outrageous."

The letter concluded by stating:

"You profess alarm that we are trying to deflect you from the real issue in this investigation. Never did political expediency lead to a greater error. We insist that you do your duty as the law prescribes and cause to be presented before the Grand Jury all matters of fact pertaining to the inquiry. Devious politics and derelict publicity can be continued only to the shame of your important office of public trust."

Leo Arnstein, who at the time of the purchase of the Seaside Park property from the Neponsit Realty Company was attached to the office of George McAneny, then Borough President of Manhattan, appeared yesterday before the Grand Jury. Paul Wilson of Mayor Mitchel's executive staff was the only other witness examined.

RUSSIAN WARSHIP IS SUNK.

Officers Go Down with Destroyer Which Hits a Mine in the Baltic.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 28.—In the Baltic Sea Wednesday off the southern part of the Island of Oesel the Russian destroyer Ochotnik was damaged and later sunk from striking an enemy mine laid by a submarine, an official statement announces.

A ship's boat containing eleven sailors, including four wounded men, landed on the coast. Motor boats and ships were dispatched in search of other members of the crew.

The officers of the Ochotnik refused to leave, and sank with their ship.

The Ochotnik, 246 feet long, of 615 tons displacement, was built in 1905. She was armed with two 4.7-inch guns and six six-pounders. Her normal complement was ninety-eight men.

NEW CALL FOR HYLAN.

Civic Club of Brooklyn Sends Corrected Invitation to Speak.

County Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany-Democratic Fusion candidate for Mayor, had not last night decided whether to accept an invitation to address the Civic Club of Brooklyn at its weekly luncheon on Wednesday, Oct. 10. Mayor Mitchel and Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor, have both made after-luncheon speeches at the Civic Club, in which they have discussed the issues of the municipal campaign.

Judge Hylan was first asked to speak at the Civic Club on Sept. 7. According to John B. Creighton, Secretary of the club, he expressed unwillingness to appear before the club unless he could be assured that he would not be questioned by the members, and after such assurances were forthcoming told him that he would take the matter up with his campaign managers. Judge Hylan's own version differs from that of Mr. Creighton in that the Judge declares the invitation had been declined because it had not been addressed to the Democratic Fusion Committee, but to him personally.

After Judge Hylan's statement the Civic Club immediately took steps to correct any error made in extending the first invitation, and yesterday sent a formal letter of invitation to the Democratic Fusion Committee, asking that the candidate be scheduled for an after-luncheon speech at the club on Oct. 10.

Morris Hillquit in addressing the members of the Civic Club on Thursday defined the attitude of the Socialist Party on the war, and in doing so commended Mayor Mitchel for meeting that issue with outspoken candor. He told the club members that in his opinion both Judge Hylan and William M. Bennett, should the latter become the Republican nominee for Mayor, owe it to the voters to declare themselves on the war issue.

According to announcement made last night in Long Island City the contest for Borough President of Queens will be a three-cornered one with Robert W. Higbie and Martin Mager opposing Borough President Maurice E. Connolly for re-election. Mr. Higbie is the Fusion nominee. Mr. Mager as an independent candidate in the Democratic primaries received more than 10,000 votes. With Mager in the race the general opinion in political circles in Queens is that it will be an exceedingly close one.

PENDRY ATTACKS HYLAN.

Aldermanic Candidate Brings Up Letter in Oil Transaction.

At a meeting of the Unity Republican Club of Kings County last night, before an audience of about 200 men, ex-Alderman William H. Pendry, Republican candidate for Alderman, read a letter which he asserted was written in 1904 by Francis P. Bent, the Democratic candidate for Alderman from that district, to Judge John F. Hylan, Democratic candidate for Mayor. A paragraph in the letter asks that Judge Hylan pretend to back Mr. Bent in a business deal which the latter was attempting to swing at that time.

Judge Hylan, when the matter was brought to his attention last night, refused to comment, saying that he would wait "until the letter appeared in print."

The letter, written on the paper of the Blue Grass Oil and Gas Company of Barbourville, Ky., was dated St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 19, 1904, and contained the following paragraph:

"I may wire you, something like this, 'Can get Barnes proposition through for $15,000. Money nearly raised; do you want five hundred or a thousand interest.' Your answer, 'Count on me for five hundred and a thousand, if necessary, to close deal. J. F. Hylan.' You can then write, stating that you 'have confidence in my judgement,' my being in the Kentucky field so long and that you realize the oil business pays well, when properly managed, and that you would not invest unless you knew I would remain there and look after the business."

Mr. Pendry told his hearers that he had taken the letter out of the files of Judge Hylan, which he said he had purchased when the Judge left his law practice to become a Magistrate.

SINN FEIN RIOTERS SHOOT A POLICEMAN

Cork Mob Was Cheering Ashe, Leader Who Died in Jail—Huge Crowd Views Cortege.

CORK, Ireland, Sept. 28.—A police sergeant was shot in the thigh at midnight last night while he was preparing a squad near the court house to charge a crowd which had been making an attack with stones. He had given an order to fix bayonets, when five shots were fired. The sergeant dropped, seriously wounded.

The shooting was the culmination of a night of disorder fomented by Sinn Feiners, small groups of whom paraded the streets whistling Sinn Fein anthems and cheering the Sinn Fein leader, Thomas Ashe, who died in jail at Dublin Wednesday. Windows were smashed and five youths received scalp wounds from police batons.

DUBLIN, Sept. 28.—The body of Thomas Ashe, Sinn Feiner, who died in prison Wednesday while on a hunger strike, is now in the City Hall, where it will lie in state until Sunday. On that day the public funeral will take place and will be at Glasnevin Cemetery. It is expected that the procession will be the largest since the funeral of Parnell.

Today, after a requiem mass in the cathedral, attended by a large congregation, including Sinn Fein leaders and many priests, Ashe's body was conveyed in a procession through the streets to the City Hall. Large crowds looked on, but there were no disturbances.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The death of Thomas Ashe, according to a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Dublin, has accentuated the difficulties underlying the surface of Irish politics, and Sinn Fein opinion is inflamed. It is reported that other Sinn Fein leaders in the hospital prison are in a dangerous condition.

At the inquest yesterday into the death of Ashe, Professor McMeeney testified that the post-mortem examination, at which several other doctors were present, showed that Ashe did not die of hunger. The body was not emaciated, and there was an abundance of food in the stomach. Death, he said, was due to syncope, arising partly from heart trouble and partly from an intense congestion of the lungs. Ashe's heart, he added, was abnormal, and he would be apt to succumb to any sudden shock or prolonged struggle.

Dr. McKenna, a hospital surgeon, testified that Ashe told him after he had been fed forcibly on Tuesday that he had collapsed from a fit of coughing.

ASSERT SHIP STRIKE IS PROLONGING WAR

STRIKERS TOLD TO RETURN

Union Leaders Instruct the Workingmen to Go Back to Posts Today.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—Army officers in a statement issued here today, made clear to 30,000 striking ironworkers and the public, that in their opinion, the strike which has halted the Government's shipbuilding program is prolonging the war.

At Western Department Headquarters it was made plain that the statement, while not "official," was nevertheless the attitude of fighting men. In part the statement reads:

"At the commencement of war with Germany it was a fact well known to military experts that the navy of the United States, in entering into war with a distant overseas objective, would require every available American merchant bottom; that there was not available for the prosecution of war, American merchant tonnage beyond the immediate war needs of the United States Navy.

"Meanwhile our navy, in this war, is operating at a distance from its home bases, and it has become necessary to send troops and supplies in large quantities to France. Under existing conditions, ships of the Allies, although sorely needed for their own maintenance and supplies, have been diverted and have been assisting the United States in the transportation of naval supplies, and of army troops and their supplies.

"The foregoing very conservative statement of the existing military situation shows conclusively that any delay or obstruction in the shipbuilding program is one which favors our enemy, the German nation, and delays and obstructs the termination of the war."

About half the shops affected by the strike opened today on the strength of announcements yesterday that the strike had been settled. They closed, however, when notified that the boilermakers had refused to accept the temporary agreement.

All members of unions were instructed tonight by the Iron Trades Council to return to work tomorrow.

HALT PUBLIC WORKS IN WAR, SAYS M'ADOO

Calls On All State and City Authorities to Stop Unnecessary Improvements.

ASKS 14 BILLIONS FOR YEAR

Secretary Seeks Bankers' Aid in Discriminating as to Loans Involving New Capital Expenditures.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 28.—Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury, in an address before the American Bankers' Association today, presented an outline of the Government's extensive program for war financing, and called upon all State and municipal authorities to discontinue all unnecessary public works and improvements until the end of the war, to the end that the Federal Government might pre-empt and occupy exclusively, if need be, the entire investment field in the United States. He invited the bankers' aid in not only promoting savings and the sale of Liberty Loan bonds, but in discouraging every unnecessary undertaking involving fixed investments.

Mr. McAdoo's address was the first of a series which he will deliver throughout the country in the interest of the Second Liberty Loan. A considerable portion of the speech was devoted to a restatement of the reasons why the United States is at war with Germany, which included a detailed review of the events leading up to the declaration of war. The remainder of the address was taken up with a discussion of the fiscal requirements of the Government and a consideration of the tax problem as applied to the Liberty Loan bonds. He described the terms of the new loan offering announced from Washington yesterday.

Secretary McAdoo urged State banks and trust companies to join the Federal Reserve system for their own protection and for the good of the nation, and he advised the bankers to make liberal use of the rediscounting facilities of the Federal Reserve Banks.

Says Resources Are Adequate.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, it would be necessary, said Mr. McAdoo, to raise between $13,000,000,000 and $14,000,000,000 by additional bond issues.

"It is estimated," he said, "that $5,000,000,000 will represent additional loans to the allied Governments, which in turn will give us their obligations bearing interest. This $5,000,000,000 will not, therefore, represent expenditures; it will represent loans based upon the good faith and honor of these foreign Governments—loans which will be ultimately repaid to the American people. To raise $13,000,000,000 or $14,000,000,000 on or before the 30th of June, 1918, by the sale of bonds in recurring installments seems to some people an impossible task. It is a stupendous undertaking, but it is not impossible for America. It is not easy, but it can be done. Our resources are adequate, our will is perfect, our spirit indomitable, and our success is certain."

Secretary McAdoo said that the combined resources of the national and State banks and trust companies of the United States amounted to $37,000,000,000. At the outbreak of the civil war the combined resources were about $1,500,000,000, and yet the Union Government raised $3,000,000,000 by bond sales. Upon the same basis, he said, the country should now be able to raise $74,000,000,000, adding, "I am not suggesting that this may be done; I am only drawing a comparison."

Plea for Reasonable Interest.

The Secretary declared that the bankers of the country could render inestimable service by exercising a wise discrimination as to loans involving new capital expenditures. It was important, he said, that interest rates for money should be kept at a reasonable level throughout the country, and that a sufficient expansion of credit should be had to carry on the great commercial and industrial operations of the nation and to assist in the flotation of successive issues of Government bonds. He urged the bankers to subscribe to the short-term certificates of indebtedness which the Treasury sells in anticipation of bond offerings and the payment of taxes.

Regarding the size of the Second Liberty Loan—namely, $3,000,000,000, with a 50 per cent. allotment of the oversubscription—Mr. McAdoo said that in determining the figure he had been controlled by "inexorable facts," by the actual necessities of the Government, and that he had not fixed the amount arbitrarily.

"I should feel happier," he added, "if the loan were larger, but I have endeavored to make it as small as possible in order that the least possible strain may be put upon the country's resources during the crop-moving season."

Speaking of the need of giving the Federal Government full control of the investment field during the period of the war, Mr. McAdoo said:

"We must realize, my fellow countrymen, that the gravity of the situation for the nation and for the entire world is so impressive that the Government must pre-empt and occupy exclusively, if necessary, until this war is over the entire investment field in the United States.

"First Duty to Buy Bonds."

"It should be the first duty of every citizen to invest gladly his available means in Government bonds, and it should be the duty of the patriotic Governors of our States, the Mayors of our cities, and the controlling authorities in every political subdivision of the country to discontinue unnecessary public works and improvements until this war is over. Private enterprise should be governed by the same principle. I do not mean to have you infer that this is a definite suggestion that an immediate attempt be made upon any organized scale to discourage unnecessary capital expenditures; but I do wish to urge that you, the bankers of America, make a deep study of this question so that if the time comes when it is desirable to take action, you will be prepared to co-operate quickly with the Government.

Carl Vrooman Makes Address.

Besides the address of Secretary McAdoo, the closing session of the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association was given up to speeches by Carl Vrooman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, and the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, and to the reading of reports and the adoption of various resolutions.

Charles A. Hinsch of Cincinnati was elected President for the ensuing year, succeeding Peter W. Goebel of Kansas City, Kan., and Robert F. Maddox of Atlanta was elected Vice President. Colonel Fred E. Farnsworth of New York and F. M. Wing of La Crosse, Wis., were re-elected Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

It was decided to hold next year's convention in Chicago. The invitation was tendered by the Chicago banks through James B. Forgan, the foremost banker of the Windy City.

How the bankers of the country have co-operated with the farmer to obtain a more profitable and increased production of food and livestock was related by Joseph Hirsch of Corpus Christi, Texas, Chairman of the Agricultural Commission of the association.

Among the resolutions adopted was one urging the membership "to co-operate with the most effective means now existing for collective action in impressing upon legislative and regulatory bodies the necessity of taking under serious consideration the questions surrounding the railroads of the country, to the end that railroad credit may be strengthened and railroad expansion encouraged so that the growing business of the country and the Government, in the prosecution of the war, shall be provided with adequate transportation service and facilities." The resolution was the result of a campaign carried on during the convention by S. Davies Warfield, President of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, and Chairman of the Board of the Seaboard Air Line.

BANKERS ELECT OFFICERS.

Trust Company Section Chooses Frank W. Blair President.

President, Frank W. Blair, President of the Union Trust Company, Detroit; Vice President, John W. Platton, President of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company of New York; Chairman of the Executive Committee, Lynn H. Dinkins, President of the Interstate Trust and Banking Company, New Orleans; Secretary, L. A. Mershon of New York.

John S. Drum, President of the Savings Union Bank and Trust Company of San Francisco; W. L. Hemingway, President of the Mercantile Trust Company of Little Rock; Solomon A. Smith, President of the Northern Trust Company Bank of Chicago; Henry M. Campbell, Chairman of the Board of the Union Trust Company of Detroit, and Myron S. Hall, President of the Buffalo Trust Company of Buffalo, were elected members of the Executive Committee.

URGES CITY ORDINANCE FOR SOAP-BOX ORATORY

Grand Jury Finds No Evidence of Sedition to Warrant Return of Indictments.

In a presentment filed yesterday with Judge McIntyre in General Sessions the regular September Grand Jury, which conducted an investigation into the activities of soapbox orators, went on record as advocating an ordinance requiring street corner speakers to obtain a permit from the Mayor before addressing a crowd. They said that the authorities had been unable to present evidence against any soapbox orators which was of sufficient weight to warrant the return of indictments.

In discharging the Grand Jury, of which Alexander Konta, a banker, was the foremen, Judge McIntyre thanked them for their efforts to stop seditious talk. At the close of the session Mr. Konta was presented with an engraved silver-headed cane by his fellow-jurors.

One of the recommendations reads:

"The absence of a penal law in the State of New York under which an indictment may be framed against seditious speakers is a grave matter. It is likewise grave that no municipal ordinance exists to prevent street meetings at which sedition may be preached. The jury would therefore recommend that a municipal ordinance should be passed forbidding street meetings unless by express written permission of the Mayor. Such an enactment would put an end to a very unsatisfactory state of affairs, and would reassure our citizens that their protests against the preaching of un-American doctrines in our streets had been heard and understood. Such an enactment, it must be added, should be made to cover the period of the war only."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Saturday, Sept. 29.—In a signed article which appears in The Chicago Herald this morning James Keeley, its editor, urged the creation of a national "junkman." He says:

"The nation needs a national 'junkman,' although I suppose the kingdom over which he would rule would be described as the 'National Salvage Department.'

"The psychological effect of the creation of such a department at this time, contemporaneous with the floating of the second Liberty Loan, would be of inestimable value. It would be the Government's guarantee that, in so far as it is humanly possible, not one dollar of the millions that have been and are to be voted for materials necessary to the prosecution of the war will be wasted. It would be an official assurance that every dollar's worth of material not only will do one hundred cents' worth of work, but will be re-employed until the vanishing point is reached.

"Of course, the army and navy have quartermaster's and inspector's departments to look after the collection and disposal of material after it has been 'put out of action.' In peace times these departments have worked efficiently and according to regulations, but regulations of peace do not fit war conditions. This has been demonstrated on the other side of the Atlantic, where similar departments in all armies have given place to independent organizations, which were needed to prevent the vanishing into thin air of valuable material, disabled but not destroyed.

"The salvage and reclamation of every fragment of metal on the fighting line in the rear and at home is a vital factor of transatlantic governmental activity. We are a wasteful nation, and the sooner we learn that material of all kinds is so precious it must serve over and over again, the sooner we will be doing our full share in the great campaign outlined by President Wilson.

"We need a 'national junkman,' not only for the millions he will save during the war, but because the lessons he will teach will be of inestimable value and will bear fruit after the war is over."

Flag Shows 25 in Service.

A service flag with twenty-five stars in the white space in the centre announcing that twenty-five employes were in the country's service either in the army or the navy was hung out yesterday in front of the office of the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Company at 47 Cedar Street. It was the first flag of the kind to appear in the business district, and is a new adaptation of the service flag with a single star indicating that a member of a family is in the army or the navy. Many stopped to look at the largest service flag in the city, fifteen by five feet, and to count the stars. It was predicted that other houses in the business district would show in a similar way the number of their absentees on war service.

BRITAIN URGES U. S. TO RUSH NEW SHIPS

Shipping Controller Declares They Will Be of the Utmost Necessity Next Spring.

FORECASTS MORE LOSSES

Believes They Will Exceed the Building Program by 200 Vessels During Winter Months.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—British shipping losses since the beginning of the unrestricted submarine campaign last February now approximate the total losses before that period, according to a statement authorized by the Controller of Shipping today. The statement indicates that it is reasonable to expect that Germany will destroy by next Spring 200 vessels more than can be built in the meantime.

The Controller of Shipping authorized The Associated Press to make the following statement of the shipping situation and the urgent need for the United States to undertake a merchant shipbuilding program on a broad scale:

"It is of the utmost importance that the United States should realize that the shortage of shipping is the most vital fact in the present situation and the building of merchant ships is of the utmost importance.

"The question the United States must face is whether, on the basis of the shipbuilding preparations she is now making, it will be possible for her to send any substantial force to France next Spring without such a drain on the world's shipping as will subtract just as much from the fighting strength of the other allies as her own forces will add.

"However large and powerful the army which the United States trains during the Winter, it may be rendered absolutely useless as an addition to the fighting forces against Germany if there are no ships to transport it except at the cost of stopping the flow of vital necessities to the present armies.

"The loss of shipping since the beginning of the ruthless U-boat war is now roughly equal to the total losses prior to that time. By next Spring Germany may be expected to destroy 200 vessels in excess of what are built in the meantime.

"Next Spring this year's harvest will be largely exhausted and the need of supplying Italy, France, and Great Britain will be largely increased. At the same moment the United States will need a large increase in vessels to transport its army and to maintain it.

"What must be the program of the United States? It must be large enough to outbuild submarine destruction. Even if this means the building of six million tons a year, which is three times the best the British have done and five or six times what the United States has previously done, this is not impossible if the United States puts into it an effort comparable with the efforts the Allies put into creating their armies, navies, and munitions. To build six million tons of shipping would require about 3,500,000 tons of steel, or less than 10 per cent. of her output. It would take not more than a half million men, the majority unskilled.

"The task thus outlined is small compared with the effort put forth by the principal belligerents in other directions. Great Britain, for example, increased her army from a quarter of a million to over five million.

"She added a quarter of a million men to her navy and trebled it in size, while in munitions the British effort, whether measured in money, men, or material, has been greater than what is needed for an adequate American shipbuilding program.

"Before the war all the shipping in the world was only worth about the same capital as the two big English railway companies. It would be the most incongruous thing in the history of warfare if the war, in which such immensely greater strength has been exerted in other directions, should have the issue decided by failure to solve the problem of building six million tons of shipping a year in a country with such vast resources as the United States.

"What is the present situation regarding U-boat losses? It is clear that the submarine war will fail in its main intention. It will not starve Great Britain and it will not interfere with the adequate supply of munitions. But British shipping strength still is being constantly reduced, and we have not yet reached the point where building equals the losses.

ARMY AND NAVY MEN INVOLVED IN PLOT

Said by Federal Authorities to Have Aided German Agents in Getting Information Here.

TWO ENSIGNS ARE ACCUSED

German Naval Lieutenant, Held in San Francisco, Tried to Get Back to Germany with Secrets.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—German intrigue among naval and army officers of the United States stationed on the Pacific Coast was revealed yesterday through the arrests of Lieutenant Erwin Frederick Schneider of the Imperial German Navy and Theodore Kasinger, a former clerk in a downtown department store.

Simultaneously with this action orders were issued by the Department of Justice to arrest two navy Ensigns and a recruiting officer. It is said that the arrests will be made at San Diego and Newport News. Five members of the United States Aviation Corps also are said to be involved.

Held at Laredo, Texas, on orders from Washington for removal to San Francisco are four Austrian army officers with whom Schneider and Kasinger associated in this city prior to their departure for the border.

Through the efforts of Arthur M. Allen of the Department of Justice, Lieutenant Schneider and Kasinger were arrested as German spies early in August. They were held in the county jail and later ordered interned. The new order places them in charge of the military officials as prisoners of war.

The four Austrian officers were arrested at Laredo as they were about to cross into Mexico. They are Raimond Heimisch, Herman Ehrnreich, James Froelich, and E. A. Kietzl. They will be brought to San Francisco and interned, it is said, together with Schneider and Kasinger.

The two ensigns and recruiting officers are alleged to have obtained information of value to Germany for Schneider, who, prior to his arrest, had attempted to obtain a position on a Swedish vessel in an endeavor to get to Germany. Schneider, it yas learned at the time of his arrest, had attempted to enlist in the Aviation Service of the United States at Redwood City and had been able to remain at least one day and night at Ft. McDowell.

Papers found in his effects also indicated other activities, as yet not made public. An Iron Cross, with which he had been decorated in 1914, also was found among his effects.

On April 19, Schneider, then employed as a freight clerk by the Southern Pacific, eloped with Miss Marie Heim of Oakland. The couple were married at Redwood City. Following her husband's arrest, Mrs. Schneider protested her belief in his innocence, but declared that if found guilty he should be punished.

BIG BARRACKS BURNS AT DIX CANTONMENT

Circumstances Point to Incendiarism and Number of Fire Sentries Has Been Doubled.

LOCAL FIREMEN TO HELP

County's Automobile Engines Will Be on Call—New Building to Go Up at Once.

CAMP DIX, WRIGHTSTOWN, N. J., Sept. 28.—Unable as yet to establish with certainty the cause of a fire that early this morning destroyed a big barracks building at the extreme eastern end of the cantonment, but with all circumstantial evidence pointing strongly toward incendiarism, the headquarters staff of the Seventy-eighth Division is working on plans to tighten the system of fire prevention and fire fighting, one of the most critical problems that confront the War Department in housing 50,000 men in a city of wood.

As a result the number of fire sentries will be doubled today, and as rapidly as possible conditions that lend themselves to aid the destructive whim of any enemy sympathizer will be removed as rapidly as possible. Assurances were received by General Kennedy this afternoon that Burlington County firemen will willingly lend every aid to the Government in protecting the big cantonment should a blaze get beyond control of the local fire fighters. The County Association has a score or more of powerful automobile fire engines that with the good roads soon to be constructed could be mobilized here speedily enough to be of great service. Evans F. Benners of Moorestown, President of the Burlington County Firemen's Association, will confer with General Kennedy tomorrow morning on a workable system for this co-operative fire-fighting work.

General Kennedy's office tonight refused to express an opinion as to the cause of today's fire which destroyed the home of Company F of the 310th Infantry, occupied by men from the Counties of Orange and Ulster.

The fact that a large quantity of loose straw used in packing cot mattresses was heaped in the hallway at the centre of the building would have made it easy for a cigarette or mate hcarelessly cast aside to have smoldered until fanned into flame by a draft.

The Camp Dix Fire Department, with its three powerful motor pumps, fought the blaze. The engines were in service within four minutes, closely followed by three companies of the trained fire-fighters of the Fifteenth New York Infantry under command of Major E. F. Dayton.

The fire communicated to and partially destroyed the bathhouse of the company and the flames scorched the side of two adjoining barracks, which were saved by the firemen.

Men from the burned barracks have been temporarily quartered in other buildings. A pile of ashes and a heap of 200 fire-twisted iron cots is all that remains to mark the building. A new building will be erected at once.

Find No Trace of Captain Law.

GENEVA, Thursday, Sept. 27.—It has been ascertained by the Red Cross Information Committee that the name of Captain J. K. Law, son of Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, does not appear in the latest German list of aviators, who have been captured. Captain Law was reported missing on Wednesday, not having returned from a flight over the German lines on Friday last.

MORE MILITIAMEN TO LEAVE.

71st and 23d Regiments Off for Spartanburg Today.

Fifth Avenue is to have two "send-off" parades today to mark the departure of the Twenty-third and Seventy-first Regiments for Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C. Both commands are in camp at Van Cortlandt Park, but to prevent train congestion they will march several hours apart. The Seventy-first, under command of Colonel William G. Bates, will break camp before 9 o'clock, and the Twenty-third, led by Colonel Frank H. Norton, will follow down Fifth Avenue at 11 o'clock this morning. Each of the regiments will have an escort of veterans.

About 1,500 recruits taken into the Twenty-third during the week's enlistment campaign will go South with the regiment. Four hundred of the rookies have no uniforms. Each of these will wear a white band on his arm denoting his membership in the unit. The strength of each regiment is approximately 3,000 men and officers.

With the Twenty-third will go the headquarters detachment of Brig. Gen. James W. Lester, who is to command the Fifty-fourth Brigade of the Twenty-seventh Division, made up of the Seventh and Twenty-third Infantry. General Lester and Major J. H. Barker, Brig. Adjt., and other members of the staff, will not take part in the parade, but will go by regular train to camp.

The march of these infantrymen today will probably be the last time New Yorkers will see any unit of their Federalized National Guard until the end of the war, as the only remaining organizations that are to be a part of the tactical Twenty-seventh Division will entrain without parades. These are the Fourteenth Regiment, camping at Sheepshead Bay, which will not depart until tomorrow because of inadequate train facilities, and Squadron A, the only unit left at Van Cortlandt Park, and two battalions of the First Cavalry of Brooklyn.

Both the cavalry and squadron are to be dismounted and reorganized into machine gun battalions for the division. The date of their departure has not been announced.

PENNSYLVANIA GIVES 24,741 MEN TO ARMY

Steadily Increasing Lead In Recruiting Since April 1—Furnished 126 on Thursday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The remarkable spurt in recruiting in Pennsylvania which makes it the only State now giving more than a hundred new men daily to the regular army has brought the total army recruits from that State since April 1 to nearly 25,000 men. Pennsylvania has now furnished almost enough men to make up one of the new infantry divisions. The daily statement issued by Adjt. Gen. McCain follows:

PROMISE CHEAPER SUGAR.

International Commissioners See Way to Halt Soaring Prices.

With the appointment of an International Sugar Commission, with headquarters in this city, the American sugar refiners believe there will be a readjustment of the business and that with the stabilizing of price there will come a period of stimulated production. While the Allies were the competitors of the American refiners in the Cuban sugar fields there was a soaring in prices that threatened a dislocation of the world's market. This competition has ceased and the industry has now entered upon a period of co-operative buying that must have its effect upon the prices.

During this period of readjustment there may be some inconvenience to manufacturers and consumers, but, Earl D. Pabst, President of the American Sugar Refining Company, predicted yesterday, both consumer and manufacturer can now be assured of cheap sugar, considering wartime conditions.

CAMP UPTON RECRUITS RECEIVE 7,000 RIFLES

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, Yaphank, L. I., Sept. 28.—Infantry recruits soon wil be drilling with rifles, for a shipment of 7,000 Krag-Jorgensen rifles was unloaded today, and the weapons were distributed among the various infantry organizations. While eventually there will be 16,000 infantry men in the Seventy-seventh Division, the rifles are sufficient to meet the present needs of the division. The new tables of organization for overseas forces, under which the Seventy-seventh Division will be organized, call for a large number of bombers and auto riflemen in infantry companies. Consequently a smaller number of rifles will be needed than under the old organization of division. The rumor that the men at Camp Upton would be forced to drill with wooden guns owing to a shortage of rifles is therefore declared to be unfounded.

Although the regulation rifle for the United States Army is the Springfield model, it is not possible to manufacture enough to equip all of the new armies with this weapon, and the War Department has announced that the Lee-Enfield rifles, with which the British Army is equipped, could be manufactured in this country, chambered to fit Springfeild ammunition, in time to supply the overseas forces. In view of this announcement, it is expected that the Seventy-seventh Division's Krag rifles will serve only for drilling purposes.

Four hundred men from the first and second increment were mustered out of the service this morning and returned to their homes. They were mostly those who were found physically disqualified by army surgeons at Camp Upton, and before they left they were paid for the time since their arrival at camp. There are about a hundred other recruits who would be mustered out if the military officials had their way. These are men with dependents who were sent to Yaphank by their local boards. Through ignorance of the English language, it has been found that many men who stated to their local boards that they were single, in reality were married and had children to support. One recruit, born in Austria, who was certified by his local board as single, was found to have a wife and five children in New York. At present the mustering officer cannot muster out any recruits unless found physically unfit, and the men who through ignorance declared that they had no dependents must remain at Camp Upton until it is determined that the military authorities can overrule the local boards. A test case will be instituted in the endeavor to give the national army authority to muster out men sent to cantonments by the local boards without appeal to Washington in each individual circumstance.

STORM GIVES MEN REST AT CAMP WADSWORTH

Causes Delay In Detrainment of First Infantry and Third Artillery—Drill Abandoned.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, Spartanburg, S. C., Sept. 28.—The tail end of a severe coastal storm struck camp early today and caused great inconvenience for the two arriving units, the First Infantry and the Third Heavy Artillery. It also cut short an elaborate drill program scheduled for the 107th U. S. Infantry. Aside from book work, the 15,000 soldiers had practically a holiday, the only "laborers" being the poncho-clad sentries sliding and slipping back and forth along their muddy posts.

The heavy downpour started just as the First Infantry was piling off its trains at the station about a mile from the regiment's site. The men stayed aboard their Pullman until the storm had abated somewhat after which the soldiers started unloading their equipment. It was slow work, for South Carolina red clay has a treacherous slipperiness in it that worked havoc with the unloaders.

The same conditions hampered the arriving Third and after two of the weighty 4.7 guns had sunk to the hubs the officers decided to defer the unloading of the cannon until tomorrow.

Working on enlarged quarters for the Seventy-first, Seventy-fourth and Twenty-third Infantry Regiments was completed this afternoon. Arrangements also were finished for the arrival of Brig. Gen. James W. Lester who is to command the Fifty-fourth Infantry brigade of the first line regiments.

Acting on evidence which they obtained after days of investigation, members of the military police, commanded by Major T. Harry Shanton, late last night raided five completely equipped stills which are suspected of being the source of liquor that has appeared in the vicinity lately. In each case the military police arrested the alleged proprietor and this morning two were held in jail while the remainder were released in $500 bail each.

Major Shanton confiscated the copper kettles that were part of the distilling apparatus and by tracing down the manufacturers of them expects to get on the track of other moonshiners.

ARMY PROMOTIONS SOLELY ON MERIT

Policy Governing National Army and Guard Announced by War Department.

TEXT OF THE STATEMENT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—President Wilson's policy respecting the appointment and promotion of officers in the national army, consisting of the men drafted under the Selective Service law and of the National Guard forces that have been drafted into the Federal service, was disclosed in a formal announcement issued by the War Department late this afternoon. The announcement, which indicates that merit will be the sole basis for appointment and promotion, follows:

By direction of the President, the following regulations, governing, for the duration of the war, the appointment and promotion of officers of the national army and the National Guard, are published for the information and guidance of all concerned:

"1. The Commanding Generals of National Guard or national army divisions serving within the limits of the United States or its possessions will submit recommendations to the Adjutant General of the Army as to promotions and appointments to fill vacancies in organizations forming part of their division.

"Temporary appointments and promotions in their commands to all grades below that of general officer may, subject to the approval of the War Department, be made by division commanders when serving beyond the limits of the United States, to vacancies occurring within their divisions, provided that when the division forms part of an army corps the corps commander shall make the temporary appointments upon the recommendation of the division commander.

"At home or abroad, officers rendered surplus by the consolidation of units may be assigned by division commanders to vacancies existing in their grades and arm of service.

"2. Second Lieutenants of the Reserve Corps of line of the army are available for appointment to the national army or National Guard. In making recommendations for appointment to the grade of Second Lieutenant, commanding officers will state specifically their opinion as to whether the best interests of the service will be served by the appointment of a Reserve Corps officer or of a member of the organization.

"Appointments of Reserve Corps officers of the line to the grade of Second Lieutenant in the national army and National Guard will be made in the order of their rank, and will be announced by the Adjutant General of the army.

"3. All officers belonging to regiments, separate units, brigades and divisions of the national army or National Guard, whether members of the regular army, National Guard, or national army, are equally eligible for selection in accordance with the provisions of these regulations, and recommendation for appointment or promotion must be based solely on demonstrated fitness and capacity, without regard to seniority.

LINE OFFICERS EXCEPT THOSE OF COAST ARTILLERY.

"4. Vacancies in the grade of Second Lieutenant not filled by the appointment of a Reserve Corps officer will be filled by the appointment of noncommissioned officers selected from the regiment or separate unit in which the vacancies occur. When this method, in the opinion of the division commander, would result in the appointment of unfit or unsuitable officers, selection will be made from noncommissioned officers of the same arm or corps in the division.

"Vacancies in grades below that of Lieutenant Colonel and above that of Second Lieutenant in any regiment or separate unit will be filled, as far as practicable, by the promotion of officers selected from the next lower grade in the regiment or separate unit in which the vacancy occurs. In case of necessity the selection may be made from officers of the next lower grade in the same arm or corps within the division.

"Vacancies in the grade of Colonel and Lieutenant Colonel will be filled, as far as practicable, by the promotion of officers selected from those serving in the next lower grade in the same arm of the service, in the same division to which the organization in which the vacancy occurs is assigned or attached for service.

5. Vacancies in any commissioned grade within a division forming part of an army corps, and actually serving under command of the corps commander, may be filled by transfer of officers of the same grade and arm or corps of the service from another division in the same corps when, in the opinion of the corps commander, the interests of the service demand such action. Orders for such transfers will be issued by the corps commander and be subject to the approval of the War Department.

"6. When vacancies occur in a regiment or other organization of a division the commanding officer of the organization in which the vacancy exists will advise the division commander by the most expeditious means of communication of the existing vacancy and, if in the grade of Second Lieutenant, of his recommendation as to filling such vacancy. If the division is serving within the territorial limits of the United States the division commander will notify, by telegraph, the Adjutant General of the army direct of the existence of the vacancy and, if the appointment of a Reserve Corps officer is not recommended, of the name of the person recommended by him for promotion to fill such vacancy.

"If serving beyond the limits of the United States, the division commander, unless his division is assigned to an army corps and serving under the command of the corps commander, will, unless the appointment of a Reserve Corps officer is recommended, announce in orders the temporary appointment or promotion of the officer selected and notify the Adjutant General of the army, through channels, of his action.

COAST ARTILLERY.

"7. When a vacancy occurs in an organization of the Coast Artillery of the National Guard or national army, not serving with a division or other tactical unit, the Chief of Coast Artillery will submit recommendation to the Adjutant General of the army relative to filling such vacancy.

"8. When an organization of the Coast Artillery is serving with a division or other tactical unit, the same rules with respect to appointment and promotion will apply as in the case of other arms of the service.

STAFF OFFICERS.

"9. POSE FOR MOVIES AT CAMP.

Col. Wolf Reviews Men at Plattsburg as Pictures Are Taken.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The First Battery of the Field Artillery Training Regiment left this morning on a two days' practice march. The Third Battery will go out for the same period tomorrow. The New York batteries will have their turn next week.

The infantry regiments have nearly completed the ten miles of trenches contained in a square of two miles. Army officers who have seen the trenches on the other side say the reproduction here is about as near perfection as is possible. The trench work will be continued until the week of Oct. 8, the students spending next week on the rifle range.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon, for the benefit of moving picture men, Colonel Wolf had the entire camp turned out for parade, retreat being sounded at that time and the flag hauled down, instead of at 5:45 as usual. Colonel Wolf reviewed the students.

Lieutenant Norsworthy of the Seventy-third Canadian Battalion, wounded on the British front, was a visitor at the camp today. He is on his way to Union College, where he is to act as an instructor.

Walter J. Hayes of 315 West Ninety-ninth Street, a member of the Thirteenth Company, and George W. Sullivan of Brooklyn, a member of the Seventeenth Company, giving business reasons, received their discharges today.

The conferees intend making their report public tomorrow. Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Finance Committee, said the measure probably would be passed by both houses early next week.

Hearst's Magazine announces an article of extreme importance by a member of the American Commission to Russia

NEW RUSSIA IN THE MAKING

Written Exclusively for Hearst's by Charles Edward Russell

ON bloody Monday, in the great square before the Winter Palace in Petrograd, 5,000 women and men who asked only for bread and freedom were mowed down by machine guns.

Today their royal murderers are in exile. The flag of the Russian Republic flies over the palace. An orchestra that used to play "God Save the Czar" now plays the "Marseillaise."

In Mr. Russell's great article—the first of a series that he has written exclusively for Hearst's Magazine—you meet every actor in these great events. Kerensky, the iron Premier—Tschaidse, the hawk-eyed, cold-blooded President of the National Council—members of the different political parties, syndicalists, maximalists, patriots and traitors.

And out of it all, says Mr. Russell, out of these dark days free and democratic Russia will rise to dazzling heights to do things beyond the records of any other people whatsoever.

You cannot be truly informed about the Russian Revolution, you cannot sift what is true from what is false in the daily newspaper reports, unless you see Russia through Russell's eyes. Read his first article today in the October number of

CONFIDENCE STRONG IN WHITE SOX CAMP

American League Champions, Here to Meet Yanks, Have Eye on Worthier Prey.

SURE OF BEATING GIANTS

Manager Rowland Will Keep Team Busy Almost to Verge of World's Series Encounters.

The Chicago White Sox, who will play the Giants in the world series are in town for their final games of the season against the Yanks, and a more confident troupe of ball players would be hard to find. Yesterday's game was postponed, but the clubs will play a double-header this afternoon and the final game on Monday. Manager Rowland has his players on edge, and in order to keep them in their present physical condition he has arranged games up to next Thursday.

Tomorrow the White Sox will go to Buffalo for an exhibition game, and after the game here with the Yanks on Monday will go to Cleveland for a game with the Indians. On Wednesday the Sox and Indians will play in Chicago. Manager Rowland does not believe in giving his club a chance to slump. He will use all his pitchers for a few innings each in the remaining games.

Rowland is brimful of confidence, and said yesterday that he expected the White Sox to win. He believes that his batsmen will have no great trouble in hitting the Giants' pitchers, as his men have been successful against the best left-handers in the American League all season. The White Sox to a man believe that in Ray Schalk, the brilliant young Chicago catcher, they have the identical man to break up the New York hit-and-run system of play. The Sox pitchers will battle this scheme of attack with numerous pitch-outs, and believe that they will be able to nullify the best features of McGraw's offense.

Manager Rowland is familiar with the playing of Holke and Schupp, for they were in the Three-Eye League when the Sox leader was out there. He is not afraid of Schupp in this series. The White Sox players all seem to have more fear of Slim Sallee than any of the other Giants' twirlers, because of the Higginsport Sheriff's great control.

Call Giants' Batters Weak.

Another thing that makes the White Sox players confident that they will beat the Giants is a strong belief they seem to have that the Giants' sluggers will not be able to hit low-ball pitching. Faber, they argue, always keeps them down around the knees, and so does Cicotte. This argument does not stand out as strongly from a Giant point of view, for the simple reason that during the season the Giants have pounded low ones just as well as the high ones or those in the middle.

The White Sox put a whole lot of faith in Cicotte—so much, in fact, that if the Giants are able to beat him in the first game in Chicago next Saturday, the Chicago Club is going to be so bitterly disappointed that it may break up all their calculations for the series. There is always great danger in staking so much on one player. He is Rowland's trump card, and if he goes down in defeat it is going to have a depressing effect on the other pitchers. However, judging from the way the White Sox were talking yesterday, there isn't the least bit of danger, in their opinion, of the knuckle ball flinger failing before the Giants' sluggers.

Keen, observant baseball men of the National League look for Benny Kauff to star in the world's series. Many of the crude shortcomings which Kauff had as a batsman when he first joined the Giants have been slowly eliminated by McGraw's careful coaching. Benny was always a good judge of a pitched ball, but his failing was overanxiety, and this fault is not so prominent as it was. Kauff now ranks third among the National League batsmen, with an average of .311. He is one of the hardest swingers in the game and meets the ball with terrific force. Kauff has the forceful, scrappy nature which should make him a valuable hitter in a short series, and he has no end of confidence in himself. He'll wade right into any kind of pitching. Johnny Evers has offered the opinion that Kauff will be apt to break up a game at any time.

Short Series Favors Sox.

While the Chicago team has had its good and bad streaks during the season, history emphasizes the fact that the White Sox clan has been an unusually successful short series club. Luck seems to flock to their standard in short series conflicts and they have made a habit of winning over the Cubs in the intercity series. In the one World's Series they played, in 1906, they beat the Cubs with a club which couldn't hit anywhere near as well as Rowland's pitchers can hit.

The White Sox have reliance in Cicotte, which is much the same as that the Giants used to have in Mathewson. During the season, when the Sox were in trouble, Cicotte could usually be depended upon to go in and win the game. The Giants have no one pitcher who can shoulder so much confidence.

There has been no brisk betting to speak of on the series thus far, because the White Sox backers are demanding odds. It was stated yesterday that a pool of $8,000 had been sent here from Chicago to bet on the Sox at odds of 6 to 5. Betting men here, however, predict that next week most of the betting will be at even money. Numerous individual bets have been made on McGraw's club by ardent rooters at odds of 7 to 5 and 10 to 8. The odds, however, will probably disappear as the series draws near. It looks more like an even money proposition than anything else to most men of chance.

It is many years since a World's Series has worked up the enthusiasm and interest which is already shown in this series. There is an unheard-of demand for reserved seat and box seat tickets here, because of the limited number. The general public will not have a chance at any of them. The effort of the New York Club to thwart the speculators by placing 25,000 seats on sale at the gates before each game will give the great body of fans an easy chance to see the games. Only one of the $2 and $1 tickets will be sold to each applicant as the line passes the ticket windows, and those purchasing tickets will have to go right into the park after buying their tickets.

COMISKEY AFTER SCALPERS.

Appeals to Public to Prevent Speculation in World's Series Tickets.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—A new drive against scalpers of world's series tickets was launched tonight by Charles A. Comiskey, President of the Chicago Americans. He established a special department at the White Sox Baseball Park, had telephones installed, and issued an appeal requesting the public to communicate any information regarding persons attempting to obtain tickets through mail orders with the intention of having them resold at fabulous prices by the ticket speculators.

"I am earnestly endeavoring to eliminate the scalping of tickets," Mr. Comiskey said, "and I am seeking the cooperation of the public in this. It is an unnecessary evil and should be done away with. Any information regarding scalping will be acted on immediately."

The scalpers themselves are defiant even in the face of the stand taken by Comiskey and States Attorney Maclay Hoyne, who has threatened prosecution on charges of conspiracy to extort. The scalpers insist they will be able to fill any "reasonable" order for tickets and declare there is no legal way to stop them.

DODGERS PROFIT BY PASSES

Steele's Wildness and Olson's Single Beat Pirates, 3 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 28.—The Brooklyn Dodgers evened up the series by taking the Pirates into camp this afternoon, 3 to 1. Sherrod Smith and Bob Steele, both lefthanders, opposed each other in the box, and while the local man allowed the least hits, his wildness caused the loss of the game. Splendid fielding by Cutshaw and Myers materially aided Smith.

Bigbee drove a three-bagger to the left-field fence, sliding under O'Rourke just in time to beat Wheat's throw. Carey shot the ball so hard at Olson that it bounced off his glove for a single, and Bigbee raced home for the Pirates' only run.

The Dodgers had trouble with Steele's twisters for four innings, but they broke through his defense in the fifth for two runs. With one out, Cutshaw singled. O'Rourke coaxed a pass, Miller flied out, and Steele filled the bases with a walk to Smith. Olson sent Cutshaw and O'Rourke home with a single to left. In the ninth inning the visitors added another run on a hit by Meyers, Stengel's out, and Cutshaw's second hit.

MORE RIBBONS WON BY MRS. HITCHCOCK

The sixteenth annual Mineola Horse Show, which has been going on for the last three days at the Fair Grounds, Mineola, L. I., came to a close yesterday afternoon. The final day's events furnished another chance for Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock to demonstrate the superiority of her hunters and jumpers over the choice field entered against her. As was the case on the preceding day, Mrs. Hitchcock had the mount on all of her entries, and carried off the lion's share of the ribbons distributed.

Her chief winner was the chestnut gelding Cavalier, with which she earned two blue ribbons and one red ribbon. In her blue ribbon collection with this horse were included victories in a special sweepstakes for jumpers and a championship event of the same conditions. She did not depend entirely on the ability of Cavalier, however, for with Meadowbrook, another chestnut gelding, she accounted for the blue ribbon in a competition for horses suitable to become hunters, under five years of age.

Mrs. Hitchcock's mounts and her ability to ride them over the jumps provided the thrills for the spectators who watched the work of the judges from the large grand stand and crowded about the rail inclosing the track. In her two victorious exhibitions with Cavalier Mrs. Hitchcock went over the jumps almost perfectly, while several of her rivals were unable to clear the top bar clearly.

The only event in which she was outpointed was the class for hunters shown over the Olympia Course, in which performance only counted. To Samuel Willets's Blue Bell, a capable gray mare, went the principal ribbon for this event, although Mrs. Hitchcock pushed her rival closely with Cavalier. In the sweepstakes and championship events this animal easily caught the eyes of the judges from a field of twelve rival contenders in the championship competition and nine in the special sweepstakes event. Captain Harry La Montagne's chestnut mare Palmetto won the reserve ribbon in this class, while in the special sweepstakes exhibition Ralph Ellis's brown gelding Submit was second to Cavalier.

The heavy rain of the early morning and a cloudy sky threatening more rain while the show was under way failed to mar the sport or the interest of the spectators. The crowd was as large as on the previous days.

In the saddle classes, the ribbons were divided between the Regan sisters, Misses Constance Sala and Jean Sala, with the former the biggest winner. Miss Constance earned three blues and one fourth prize. Two of her blue ribbons were won with Brunette, a black mare, which accounted for the honors in the saddle competition for horses not exceeding 15 hands, and the combination saddle and harness event. In the ponies under saddle event she won with Carlton Quality, a brown mare, and with this horse she accounted for her other blue.

The class for polo teams of three each brought out some representative animals, with Howard Phipps's trio, Cobweb, Weekirk, and Greyling being adjudged the victors over the entries of J. C. Cooley and J. A. Stahl. In the children's division of the exhibition Miss Pussy Thompson scored a popular victory with her Glorious Me in the pony class, which required that the ponies be driven by children under 12 years old.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Boston was defeated, 2 to 1, by St. Louis, today, on a rain-soaked diamond. The heavy downpour of the morning kept the attendance down to less than 400, the smallest that has ever seen an American League game in this city.

DATES FOR HARVARD CUBS.

Yale and Princeton Elevens on Football Schedule.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 28.—Harvard's football associations with Yale and Princeton, though broken in 'Varsity competition because of the war, are to be maintained through freshman rivalry. The Harvard Football Committee tonight announced a schedule of six games subject to the approval of the Athletic Committee, and the Tiger and Eli clubs occupy the relative position on it that the 'Varsity teams have held for years on the big football schedule. Yale, 1921, will close the local season in the Harvard Stadium on Nov. 17. The previous Saturday Princeton will meet the Harvard freshmen in the Palmer Stadium. The first game for Harvard, 1921, is scheduled in Cambridge with Andover on Oct. 13. The following Saturday is an open date, and Harvard's next opponent is Worcester Academy in the stadium Oct. 27. Exeter Academy holds the Nov. 3 date on its home gridiron.

Sixty-seven men are candidates for the team which is coached by Don Wallace. Informal football at Harvard assumed a more businesslike aspect today when William B. Snow, Jr., of Stoneham was appointed Captain of the team. Snow is the only "H" man in college, and is on furlough from the Naval Reserve. He played guard on last Fall's 'Varsity eleven. Wingate Rollins, who earned his numeral as a substitute half back on Eddie Mahan's eleven, was appointed head coach, and today assembled an eleven and gave them a set of signals. Thirty-five men are out for the team.

WITHINGTON AIDS METCALF.

Former Harvard Coach Helps Mold Columbia Football Team.

Assisted by Ted Withington, former assistant coach at Harvard, Coach Metcalf put the Columbia squad through a hard practice yesterday. In addition to Withington, Goldberg, last year's centre, with a day's leave from Plattsburg, helped whip the new material into shape. The squads have been growing daily until yesterday the 'Varsity candidates numbered nearly sixty and the freshmen thirty. Only four regulars, all of whom are back field men, are on hand, but with the wealth of material a first-class line is probable.

Rosen fulfilled Coach Metcalf's hopes by appearing in uniform, and with Captain Dal Cochran took the lead in shaping the new material.

N. Y. U. TRIES FORMATIONS.

Football Team Rounding Into Form for Its First Game.

Although composed largely of raw material, the New York University football squad is being speedily molded into shape by the coaches in preparation for the first game, now only a week distant. After a long blackboard talk by Coach Eustis yesterday, the backs, ends, and linemen were put through work at punting and catching the ball, handling passes and charging the bucking machine respectively. Coach Eustis divided the squad into teams and ran them through simple formations without signals. The Freshmen were separated from the others and were taught team play by Assistant Coach Wall. Where a coach was lacking, instruction was given by the few veterans who remain from last year's team.

FORDHAM TO PLAY SOLDIERS

Fort Wadsworth Eleven Meets Maroon in Game Today.

The Fordham eleven will engage in a practice contest this afternoon with a team from Fort Wadsworth. No admission will be charged. Fordham will meet an eleven from the Red Cross training camp at Allentown Oct. 5. This game will take place on the athletic field of Muhlenburg College.

A number of new plays were tried out in yesterday's drill as the Fordham attack has not been elaborate heretofore. Coach McCaffery is anxious to test the plays and players against the soldiers. All the players will get into action, although the 'Varsity lineup will start the game.

RUTGERS READY FOR GAME.

Eleven Selected to Start Football Season with Ursinus.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 28.—The Rutger's football team is in fair shape for its first game of the season against Ursinus tomorrow. The players were put through a light workout today, with Baker running the team from quarterback. It is probable that Whitehill, Kelly, and Lawes will complete the backfield, at least at the start of the game. Gargan, the freshman star, has a bad leg and may not play. Bill Gray will be at center and will be flanked by Rollins and Neuschafer.

Captain Rendall and Feltner, two veterans, will be in at tackle. Robeson, the biggest man on the team, has been shifted to end. Hummell, a former Blair Academy player, will take care of the other end.

SCRIMMAGE FOR STEVENS.

Engineers Get Real Football Training Each Day.

Football practice at Stevens hereafter will end each afternoon with a short scrimmage. The innovation began yesterday when the 'Varsity, under the leadership of Captain R. Deghuee, scored three touchdowns.

During a scrimmage which lasted two hours the 'Varsity line was impregnable. Bloss, Piquet, and Deghuee were persistent ground gainers and showed up in excellent form.

The scrubs today play East Orange High School, and it is hoped that this game may bring forth some promising material. Moeller and Ford, two of last year's line men, have not returned to college as yet.

BIG GAMES FOR CARLISLE.

Indians Will Meet Both Army and Navy on the Gridiron.

CARLISLE, Penn., Sept. 28.—The Carlisle Indian football officials announced today the scheduling of games with both the Army and Navy at their respective homes. This will be the first year the Indians have ever played both Army and Navy. Carlisle plays the Navy Oct. 20 and the Army Nov. 10.

From present appearances Carlisle is likely to have one of the greatest backfields it has ever possessed.

Notables on the Indian team are Miles, who is a first cousin to Jim Thorpe; Halfback Metoxen, who is a nephew of the famous fullback Metoxen, and Captain Tibbetts, a heady leader and son of a University of Pennsylvania graduate.

FOOTBALL IN SOUTH TODAY.

Season to Open, but Many Leading Colleges Are Not Playing.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 28.—The football season of 1917 will be inaugurated on Southern gridirons tomorrow, but few contests of real importance are scheduled, as many of the principal universities, including Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Alabama, have abandoned the game for the duration of the war.

Georgia Tech will furnish somewhat of an innovation tomorrow by playing a "doubleheader" here with Wake Forest College and Furman College.

HERZ'S COLORS ARE IN VAN TWO TIMES

Public Choices Again Fare Badly at Aqueduct, Only One Winning.

There was no relief for the supporters of favorites at Aqueduct yesterday, in fact the percentage of winning choices was less than usual, only one getting home in front at the extreme end of the card. The continual upsets were reflected in the attendance, which appeared to be smaller than on any previous day of the meeting.

With many of the topnotchers gone into retirement, or seeking fresh fields in other parts of the country, there was a grand chance for some of the smaller stables, and Emil Herz took full advantage of the opportunity. At the close of the six innings it was found that his batting average was 1000, as he sent two horses to the post and both scored winning brackets.

Daddy's Choice, the Herz color bearer in the Parkside Handicap, had the rare distinction for this son of Trap Rock, of being top weight in the handicap, after Chiclet was scratched. The 116 pounds allotted to Daddy's Choice allowed a wide choice of riders and Mr. Herz made a good selection in Butwell.

W. H. Congdon's Right, which was in with the feather of 101 pounds, was the favorite, but it was Samuel Ross's Crank, with Buxton in the saddle, that provided the real opposition for Daddy's Choice after Garbage blew up on the turn into the stretch. Crank and Daddy's Choice hooked up then for a duel that lasted all through the final quarter. Butwell rode one of his most vigorous finishes, with the result that Daddy's Choice wore down Crank and won by half a length.

Previous to the success of Daddy's Choice, Mr. Herz was represented in the third race by Mary Powell, which allowed Gillies to lead to the stretch and then ran over him to score by two lengths. The Highweight Handicap for all ages brought out only a field of three, but was well supplied with class, the top weight being Leochares, which is able to step with the best of the sprinters.

Robert L. Gerry's Sharpshooter was made the choice over Leochares, but the old rule to look out for the outsider in a three-horse race again proved good, as Samuel Ross's Ultimatum led all the way and stood off the challenge of Sharpshooter in the stretch to win by three quarters of a length. Leochares was in close quarters in the last quarter and moved to the inside. He came strongly at the finish, but was three-quarters of a length behind Sharpshooter.

J. E. Widener's Duettiste was played so heavily that he narrowly escaped displacing John Sanford's Madame Curie as favorite. Madame Curie never could keep up with the pace set by Stradivarius, but Duettiste followed closely, and at the finish got up in time to win by a head. H. C. Hallenbeck's Salvestra came to the rescue of the favorite players in the last event at six furlongs for two-year-olds, winning easily by five lengths.

NEW DRIVER MAKES CHANGE.

Floyd Pilots Doris Watts to Victory in Grand Circuit.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 28.—The Columbus Grand Circuit meeting closed this afternoon when the seventh and deciding heat of the 2:13 trot was raced. Judges who had taken charge of Doris Watts after her suspicious drive of Thursday, placed C. L. Floyd behind her today instead of Guy Lee, and she won the race. Peter Dallas finished second, and Mendosa third. The judges fined Driver Lee $100 for not trying to win. Owner George Slaughter of Detroit also was fined $100 for collusion.

PRISCILLA MULLENS IN VAN.

Captures Pocahontas Purse Easily at Havre de Grace.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 28.—J. K. L. Ross's Priscilla Mullens, an odds-on favorite, had no difficulty in winning the Pocahontas Purse at a mile and seventy yards, which was the feature of the racing here today. T. Rice had the Canadian filly well in hand all the way, and she won by a good margin from B. Williams's Queen of the Sea.

M. Rowan increased his lead over the other jockeys by piloting two winners. He scored with J. O. Talbott's Monomoy, an odds-on choice for the fifth race, and in the sixth race he landed another favorite in front when E. K. Bryson's Sky Pilot defeated a field of selling platers at a mile and a sixteenth.

TENNIS TEAMS IN DRAWS.

The scores were 6—4 and 4—6. Both matches will be played off tomorrow.

In the singles Garland defeated Alexander, 6—8, 6—2, 6—3. Mrs. Felix B. Snowden, formerly Miss Martha Guthrie, triumphed over Miss Vanderhoef, 2—6, 6—3, 6—0. In a spirited contest Tilden won from Voshell, 0—6, 6—4, and 6—4.

PACIFIC A. A. WINS MEET.

Scores 123 1-3 Points in Far-Western Track Championship.

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 28.—The Pacific Athletic Association, with 123 1-3 points, won the Far Western track and field championships held here today. The Southern Pacific Association was second with 50 2-3, and the Inter-mountain Association was third with 18.

The Olympic Club, San Francisco, made the highest individual club score, 93 points. J. K. Moody of the University of California, set a new Far Western record in the 440-yard dash with a time of 49 3-5 seconds.

BIG MEET FOR THE BRONX.

Eight Athletic Events Attract an Entry of 400 Men.

The interest manifested in the Bronx County Athletic Carnival, which will be held at Macomb's Dam Park tomorrow, is shown in the fact that about 400 entries have been received for the eight events on the program. The meet is open only to all athletes residing in the Bronx and registered with the A. A. U., and practically all of the stars eligible for the meet will be seen in competition. The feature is a one-and-one-half-mile road race for the championship of Bronx County, which has attracted entries from all of the Bronx harriers.

This event will have its start and finish on the Macomb's Dam Park track, but will carry the runners over a course bringing them to Van Cortlandt Park and back, by way of the Grand Boulevard and Concourse. The prizes for the meet have been donated by Park Commissioner Thomas W. Whittle, who takes a personal interest in everything athletic held in the Bronx. Six medals will be distributed among the leading harriers in the road race. Other events on the program are 100-yard dash, 440-yard run, one mile walk, twelve-pound shot-put, running broad jump, and five-mile road race, all of which are handicap affairs. The other scratch event, in addition to the championship road race, is the 880-yard novice run.

PAPP'S NAME FROM MOTTO.

George W. Loft Uses Initials of Slogan to Compose Queer Word.

Since George W. Loft's Papp became famous by winning the Futurity there has been much speculation as to the derivation of the queer name of the son of Peter Quince. After all other methods had failed to solve the problem the explanation was forthcoming from a student of racing who remembered Mr. Loft's fondness for deriving his horses' names from his family and business. Mr. Loft's wife is named Julia and his son Leon, hence the combination of the speedy three-year-old, Julialeon. Another horse owned by Mr. Loft was named Candy Land. Working along these lines it was comparatively easy to discover that the initial letters of Mr. Loft's business motto "Penny a Pound Profit" composed the puzzling word "Papp."

Pays $429.60 for $2 Ticket.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 28.—The longest price horse to win at the present meeting, and in all probability the greatest winning outsider of the season, was W. C. Weant's Iolite, which took the fourth race. Iolite paid $429.60 for a $2 ticket to win, $116.30 for a place, and $32.70 to show.

MISKE GAINS THE VERDICT.

Overcomes Disadvantages in Weight and Outpoints Morris.

Billy Miske, the St. Paul light-heavyweight, last night celarly demonstrated that he is capable of taking on men much heavier than himself without seriously endangering his reputation. At the Harlem Sporting Club Miske boxed the cumbersome Carl Morris of Sapulpa, Okla., in the feature ten-round bout, and at the finish there was absolutely no question as to Miske's superiority. Although outweighed by a matter of fifty pounds, and at a further disadvantage in size and reach, Miske essayed to carry the fighting to his bigger rival, and succeeded in no doubtful manner.

His smaller stature worked to his disadvantage, in that he was unable to get past the flailing arms of Morris with many of his blows. At close range, also, Miske was at a disadvantage early in the bout, but as the contest progressed he was more effective with his offensive work, and several times shook up Morris with heavy blows to the jaw.

In the first round Morris did his best work. He belabored Miske about the stomach at close quarters with both hands, while the St. aul lad found it impossible to retaliate. After the second session, however, Miske showed to advantage and earned the honors of the remainder of the bout. The St. Paul boxer lander by far the cleaner and greater number of blows, while at the same time he prevented Morris from accomplishing anything effective. In fact Morris was woefully outclassed at long range work in the latter rounds, and his efforts while clinched were discounted by the untiring work of Referee McPartland in keeping the pair separated. In the fourth and ninth rounds Miske did his most effective work, landing heavily to Morris's jaw with both hands, but Carl never showed any ill-effects of the blows. The weights were: Miske, 178 pounds; Morris, 228.

300 MERCHANTS JOIN IN FOOD SAVING PLAN

TO BEGIN NEXT MONDAY

More than 300 retail merchants of New York met at the Waldorf yesterday and unanimously agreed to give a part of their advertising space and store and show window room for the propagation of the National Food Administrator's campaign for food saving. The meeting was called by Michael Friedsam, President of B. Altman & Co., who is the New York State Merchant Representative of the Food Administration.

"It is very gratifying to see such a representative assemblage of the merchants of the city here," said Mr. Friedsam. "It is an evidence that they are keenly conscious of the needs that confront our country, and are eager to do their share in whatever work there is to be done. To my mind, to those who cannot take a personal part in the fighting, there are two great means of assisting—production and conservation. We may have armies and aviators, ships and submarines, but if we have not an immense army of producers and an immense reserve and an intelligently conserving public all our armies will be in vain.

"The Food Administration asks the retail merchant to bring clearly before consumers—the men and women who deal with him over the counters—the great benefit that will be rendered to the Government at this time of national crisis by wise and sensible economy in the use and disposal of foods. It urges the retail merchants of this State to organize into a great patriotic corps of missionaries, who will go out into the service of their country and of humanity and speak on the value and the importance of conserving the nation's food supply in order that our men and those of our allies may fight with strength and valor the battles of democracy."

Mr. Friedsam introduced E. L. Howe of the United States Food Administration, personal representative of Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover. The Chairman of the meeting said that Mr. Howe would tell the merchants what was expected of them, and the speaker launched into an earnest address in which he drove home to them the fact that the Government not only expected them to assist in the work, but that the obligation was for them an opportunity for patriotic service. "Get the consumer interested," was his plea.

"Great is the need of the Allies for supplies," he said, "and out of this very demand comes to us the call for action—the call for a service as patriotic as sending men to the firing line." Mr. Howe pointed out that no class of men came into such close and continual touch with the consumer as they did. Every day, across their counters, by the display in their windows, and by the exhibits shown in their stores they could hammer home the soundness of the policy laid down by the Government at Washington. He suggested that the retail merchants use their window displays as a means to this end. His remarks were earnestly applauded.

Louis Stewart, President of James McCreery & Co., offered this resolution, and it was quickly seconded and unanimously adopted:

> Whereas, the United States Food Administration is seeking to arouse the public to a proper realization of the urgent need of conserving the supply of non-perishable foods, so that they may be shipped abroad to feed our armies and those of our comrades in arms,
> Therefore, be it resolved, That this committee of the Retail Merchants of the State of New York record its indorsement of the United States Food Administration and its pledge of active co-operation, and be it further
> Resolved, That each merchant in this State be requested to publish in his newspaper advertisement for a period of one month, commencing Oct. 1, such statements relating to the question of conservation as may tend to acquaint the consuming public with the serious task we are facing.

Following this William G. Cooper, Vice President of Frederick Loeser & Co. offered this resolution, which was adopted:

> In further support of the United States Food Administration, I move that the committee here assembled recommend to the retail merchants of this State that, for a period of one month from Oct. 1, each merchant donate a certain portion of his window space to the campaign for publicity, and by a series of displays similar to the suggestions here aranged, visualize, for the benefit of the public, the need of conservation.

The meeting yesterday was Mr. Friedsam's first opportunity since his appointment by Mr. Hoover to meet the retail merchants of this city. Another meeting will be called soon at which more definite campaign plans will be outlined. He has invited the up-State merchants to meet him on Monday in the Waldorf. E. L. Howe will speak at that meeting.

pried apart and were separated by a distance of four feet. Heflin, red in the face, with his long frock coat dirty, persisted in shouting defiance. He was especially aroused to anger when he caught sight of his ancient foe, Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, who had stalked over to the Democratic section to get a ringside seat:

Cooper drew nearer.

"Get back or you'll get hit," yelled Heflin, struggling in the grasp of the football star from Georgia University.

"Take off your guns, and perhaps you will have a chance to try it," retorted Cooper.

"You go on back," Mr. Heflin roared again. "You are under suspicion."

Members had succeeded in dragging Mr. Norton back from the scene of the original engagement. Mr. Heflin finally pointed at him and in the midst of the confusion made the one explanation which would have stopped the row before it began:

"I never said you were disloyal," he declared.

Then he sat down, while friends surrounded him. He began to mop his brow, while Mr. Norton grinned at him from across the House.

Inquiry Already On.

The Rules Committee met in executive session earlier in the day, and after an hour's conference opened the doors and announced that no investigation into the Heflin charges would be made. Mr. Pou made the announcement on the floor:

"We have received information that for the last year and a half and at this time," he said, "the Department of Justice has been and is conducting an investigation into the use of funds furnished by the German Government to affect sentiment in America. The Department of Justice is conducting an investigation in every quarter of this country where they have had information that money may have been used. In view of this information received from the Department of Justice that this investigation is going on, and in view of the fact that in the opinion of the Committee on Rules no possible good can come of an investigation by this House, and in view of the further opinion of the Committee on Rules that there has been no reflection on the House or any member thereof, the Committee has decided to take no action on the several resolutions at this time."

Representative Gillett of Massachusetts said he believed the charges made by Representative Heflin constituted ground for an investigation. Mr. Pou declared that the Rules Committee had Mr. Heflin before it and had heard his statement; that Heflin claimed he used the word "suspicious" in a personal way.

"He meant to say," explained Mr. Pou, "that he had suspicions as to the loyalty of certain members toward the Government, and that this was based on resolutions they had introduced, bills they had introduced, and public statements they had made."

"Did the committee conclude that a suspicion of the loyalty of a member of this House to his Government does not reflect upon his honesty?" inquired Representative Gordon of Ohio.

"I will not raise that issue," answered Mr. Pou. "I am only endeavoring to report our views that we deem it inadvisable to go dipping into something where the Government hopes to lay the foundation to send certain people to the penitentiary."

"Is any member of the House likely to go to jail?" asked Representative Gordon, explosively, but Mr. Pou did not answer.

Britten Talks of Expulsion.

"Did the committee consider a resolution calling for the expulsion from Congress of the gentleman from Alabama, Mr. Heflin?" inquired Mr. Britten of Illinois.

"Such a resolution has not been before us," answered Mr. Pou.

"I think that is the sort of resolution that ought to be considered here and now," Mr. Britten said.

In answer to further inquiries, Mr. Pou declared that the $50,000 spoken of in the von Bernstorff cable was only a drop compared to the enormous fund the Department of Justice hoped to uncover.

"The ramifications of this fund," he said, "that has been used by the German Government officials affects every great centre of this Government, and it would be the utmost unwisdom for us to get into a great investigation of this kind."

Mr. Pou tried to soothe the dissatisfied ones by saying that the charges made by Representative Heflin were the product of heated debate. Mr. Campbell of Kansas, ranking Republican member of the Rules Committee, told the House he acquiesced in the action of the committee and reminded the members also that any member could raise a privileged question at any moment. He referred to a resolution for censure or dismissal. Several members called attention to the fact that newspaper men who had been denounced as untruthful or influenced by German money had not been allowed to answer these statements before the Rules Committee.

Mr. Cooper called attention to the fact that Mr. Heflin had not made charges in the heat of debate, but had taken time during the dull debate on a Potassium Exploration bill to assail the thirteen unnamed members of Congress.

"There was nothing to heat up the gentleman from Alabama," said Mr. Cooper. "He made this speech out of order and in violation of every rule of the House.

"He did it as deliberately as Secretary Lansing published that news at that time to affect public sentiment and to prevent, by terrorizing free expression on this floor, any just expression of criticism or any honest statement of fact for fear the men making that statement outside of this chamber or on this floor will be called the recipients of German money.

"If there is one man I detest more than another it is he who on the floor of this House or elsewhere will slander another and then deliberately attempt to prevent an honest investigation of his slander."

Heflin Anxious for Inquiry.

"I was surprised at the action of the Rules Committee. I was very anxious to ask some questions with regard to the manner in which the Bernstorff slush fund was used. Of course the Department of Justice will go into all that, but I was anxious to have a hand in the investigation as to my statement about certain unsympathetic members. I said that the conduct of certain members of Congress had been such as to cause me to question their loyalty to the United States in this war with Germany. These men have impressed me that they had decided leanings on the matter of the United States's position in this war, and that they leaned the other way. I have not said that these men received money. I made no such charge.

"I have not denied saying, and I do not deny saying, that the conduct of some of them does not square with my idea of loyalty. There is now being carried on in this country a German propaganda to tie the President's hands and to leave him without authority and without an army to defend our country in this war.

"This infamous work was going on in another form before Bernstorff left the country. It is at work now, insidiously and sneakingly, and the sooner every vestige of sedition and treason is stamped out, the better it will be for our country. I demanded an investigation into the use of the Bernstorff slush fund because I was anxious to see just what connection it had and has with the German propaganda now quietly at work to secure pledges from members of Congress to vote in the next Congress for a measure to exempt boys of German blood from service in the army and for the repeal of the Selective Draft law. Any man in Congress or out of it who lends himself to the purpose of preventing American solidarity and complete unity of purpose among our people in this war is a dangerous enemy, and he is a traitor to the country."

When seen after the difficulty in the House, Mr. Heflin said:

"My friends think that the plan was for Norton to come over and insult me, thinking that I would strike him, and that they would then make a motion to expel me for fighting. Some others think that the purpose was to see if I could be intimidated. That is all that I have to say now except that I will not be bulldozed or intimidated. They cannot dispose of the issue of Americanism that way."

VAGABONDING DOWN THE ANDES

By Harry A. Franck

HARRY A. FRANCK, "prince of vagabonds," spent four years exploring Latin-America. And in this case "exploring" means going alone, on foot, from village to village down the crest of the Andes, where few travelers ever pass. It means living with the natives, Indian and white, studying their history, their habits, their conditions of life. It means studying the language and literature and politics and social conditions of every district. It means doing something infinitely more interesting than making mere geographical discoveries; it means mapping out the Andean mind. The book might be called a footnote to Pan-Americanism; for it is a significant study of the human nature of half a continent. But, above all, it is a book of adventure, humor, color and incident—as entertaining as the Arabian Nights

The book is a result of a careful selection from the vast material brought back by the author, and includes only the most significant and entertaining facts.

OUR SECOND HINT TO THE KAISER

The second Liberty Loan is announced on the same day with the publication of President WILSON's words to our allies, and France in particular:

> To the last man, to the last dollar, the whole force of the United States is at your service.

By another similar coincidence, there was published on the same day these words of Mr. GARY, translating the President's idea into facts of particular interest in Kaiserland:

> The United States can, within three or four years, furnish fifteen million men, well trained and fully equipped for battle; and she can, within the same time, provide one hundred billion dollars without crippling her financial strength or interrupting her industrial progress. If necessary, she will do both.

The country can redeem both promises, and will do so, but with an effort which should not be underestimated. To fail to take the three billions in the second offering of the Liberty Loan would be worse than the loss of a battle. The mere subscription of the minimum would be little better. If the loan is to impress the Germans, it should be twice subscribed, and more would be better. Half of any oversubscription will be accepted, that is to say, if $5,000,000,000 is offered, four billions will be allotted. That is about the total of money in circulation, gold, silver, and paper, and it is all wanted in one offering. It is about half of the deposits in all national banks, and it would embarrass them if any large fraction of the deposits were withdrawn at once. It is four times the debt of the United States before the war, and is double the debt incurred in the four years of the civil war. This considerable sum is asked for at a time when the expenses of the nation are greater than the total of all savings bank deposits or than the commercial loans of all banks. And it is a second appeal in a series for which the end cannot be foreseen.

These comparisons are cited as a stimulus, not for discouragement. The billions wanted are not in the banks, and should not be withdrawn from the banks, nor from the accumulations of capital. The inexhaustible source of funds for missionary work against Kaiserism is the character and capacity of our people. It is only in form that they are asked for dollars. The real need is for what the dollars will buy, that is, for the products of labor. The essential question put to Americans is not what will you give in money, for a mountain of money would be worthless unless transmuted into what the money will buy, but what will you give in work? How resolute are you to support the principles which alone can make life worth while to freemen?

That is the question put to the workers among us of every sort and condition of men, women, and children. Failure to take the loan will not show that we are poor, but that we are selfish, or lazy, or lacking in resolution of character, or do not understand the meaning of the loan. Never shall such a message go over the seas. If the loan shall be taken manifold, the message which Germany will receive, and will not fail to understand, is the message the President gave to our colleagues in the fight for liberty. If those words are redeemed, Germany has not a chance, and Germany knows it better than we.

The terms of the loan are not important compared with the meaning of the loan. The money, that is to say, the dedication of ourselves to the smashing of Kaiserism, ought to be sure even as a gift. But as matter of fact the loan is good business. In the civil war 5 per cent. and 6 per cent. bonds sold at a discount. It was not possible even to offer 4 per cents. Bonds at the rate now offered at par have sold at 130, and the country's wealth now is incomparably greater. The taker of these bonds makes his financial future sure beyond any other earthly assurance, and has besides the right to esteem himself one of the innumerable host who have undertaken to make the world too hot for Kaiserism and safe for democracy forever. Never before was offered, never again will be offered, such a combination of good business and good conduct as the contribution of the means to support our troops in the trenches and the workers in the factories. The spending of these almost uncountable sums will keep busy both the Germans in the battle line and the wage earners arrayed against them in the factories, as well as in the trenches.

We should be ashamed to do less than those who have done so much more than we, under conditions so much more discouraging. Our selfish instincts should warn us that if we do not give freely we shall suffer more by taxes. As long as the country can borrow at 4 per cent. it need not be afraid to borrow freely, nor dread the taxgatherer overmuch. But men, women, and children may take it for sure that this money is going to be found. Those who decline to work will be made to work. Those who decline to give will be made to give. Those who work or give under compulsion what they ought to offer from good-will can be sure that they will work harder and give more if they neglect to take the loan than if they take it in a manner to leave no doubt that they will take as much more as may be needed.

DEVELOPING AN ARMY.

New York's famous Seventh Regiment, part of which was enrolled with the Sixty-ninth to form the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Infantry, is still 1,700 strong and it will not lose its identity when 1,900 members of the First, a regiment made up of men from Hudson River towns and cities, are incorporated with it to make the new One Hundred and Seventh. The development of the federalized National Guard on a war basis is slow work, but it is managed in an orderly way, and step by step our great war army is taking shape. About 200 men of the First Regiment not needed to swell the One Hundred and Seventh to the required strength will form the nucleus of a new regiment, in which 3,400 of the recently drafted men will get their first training. These will all be men from the same neighborhoods as the members of the old regiment, who should harmonize easily. Besides the Fifteenth Regiment of the National Guard, made up of colored citizens of New York, we are to have presently another colored regiment of infantry in the national army. This, the first body of drafted colored men to be organized, will be of the new regulation strength of 3,600, and will be commanded by Colonel JAMES A. MOSS, a West Point man of ripe military experience. The line officers will all be negroes, a new experiment in our army and a most commendable one, and there will be at least one colored staff officer. The regiment will be a part of the Seventy-seventh Division and will soon be assembled at Camp Upton.

These men are all as yet soldiers in the making. The time will come when we shall hear much of them. In spite of the great size of our developing war army, with its three branches, every battalion will have its own special place in the public mind. Under modern military regulations a battalion acquires the importance a full regiment used to have; a regiment of today is larger than some of the old brigades. We shall probably hear little in the near future of the movements of our troops. They will finish their training on their native soil and go quietly abroad. But when the days of action come the regiments and battalions will be frequently heard of again; news of their adventures in war will be eagerly awaited. The One Hundred and Seventh Infantry will always be New York's Seventh of historic renown, the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth the fighting Sixty-ninth.

THE AMERICAN CANDIDATE.

The Nominating Committee of the Fusion Committee of 1917, on July 17, naming the Fusion ticket, provided for its independent nomination by petition. In any circumstances, and assuming that a minority of the Republican Party would oppose the will of the Republican majority, its best interests as strongly expressed by its great leaders, Mr. MITCHEL was to be a candidate. The fight for good city government, the fight for a city administration representative of the loyalty of New York to the United States, was to be kept up.

The situation which examination of the ballots in the Republican primaries has disclosed was foreseen in July. It is regrettable that the discipline of lingering Republican partisanship should be stronger in the Republican primaries than desire for nonpartisan city government and for the assertion of the patriotism of New York City in this time of national danger, of local sedition, and disloyalty.

None the less, it is best that JOHN PURROY MITCHEL, straight American, should run, as was arranged for in July, independently. It is best that there should be a direct public weighing of the forces of loyalty and the forces of disloyalty, of Americanism and Germanism, in this town. The mass of the Republican Party will follow Mr. ROOSEVELT and Mr. HUGHES. It is likely that many of the particular friends of Mr. BENNETT, having helped him achieve a personal political success in the primaries, will be guided at the polls by consideration of the larger interests of a nonpartisan, an American, city government.

A nonpartisan triumph or defeat, an American triumph or defeat: that is what the municipal election is to be. It cannot be otherwise. Mayor MITCHEL must welcome the great and fruitful opportunity. It is for lukewarm and little men, for people who haven't got the petty, common political partisan idea out of their heads; it is for devotees of the old routine, believers in spite of themselves in the rigged processes of the primary, to be discouraged by the results of the Republican primary.

Not as a Republican or a Democrat, but as the standard-bearer of the resolve of New York patriots to support the United States and to fight Germany by every honorable means, is Mayor MITCHEL a candidate for reelection. Civic nonpartisanship made him Mayor. Civic and national nonpartisanship will re-elect him.

The city does not know yet who or what Judge HYLAN is. It knows what patron's hands, not Mr. MURPHY's, not Mr. MCCOOEY's, have been laid on his innocent head. It knows after what approval from the archmaster of pro-Germanism in the United States he and not the archmaster of pro-Germanism was made the anointed of Tammany. He cannot escape his dedication. The New York Sinn Fein, the New York worshippers of Deutschland über Alles, the open or covert servants of the Central Powers, have their choice between him and MORRIS HILLQUIT, the German majority Socialist nominee. Naturally, the wiser and more malicious of them will prefer the Brooklynite, since he has more troops behind him.

If Mr. BENNETT chooses to be the favorite of the irreconcilable Republicans, his privilege and the honor derivable therefrom are evident. But Mr. BENNETT and the Republican Rump, and all considerations of party strategy or personal advertising and promotion, count for little. Mr. MITCHEL and his friends, of whatever party name, will make a square fight. Is New York City American or German? Is it for vigorous war to the uttermost or a German peace? That is a question to be answered in this campaign.

ORIGIN OF DEWEY'S REPORT.

In a letter which The Tribune published yesterday, Dr. WILLIAM T. HORNADAY gives some information concerning Admiral DEWEY's report of a statement made by a German officer in 1898. Senator LEWIS exhumed the report from the Government archives, and apparently assumed that the statement had been made by the officer, VON GOETZEN by name, to DEWEY himself. This was not the case, according to Dr. HORNADAY. The statement was that in "about fifteen years from now," that is, from 1898, Germany would declare war, take Paris in "about two months," and then attain her real object, "the crushing of England"; that "some months after we finish our work in Europe" Germany would take New York, and probably Washington, "and hold them for some time" for an indemnity, and also for the purpose of "taking charge of South America."

Dr. HORNADAY says that Count VON GOETZEN, "a personal friend of the Kaiser," made this statement in 1898 to Major H. A. BARBER, U. S. A. In 1915 Major BARBER recounted the conversation to Dr. HORNADAY, who was so much impressed by it that he called in a stenographer and had the Major's account of the conversation taken down. Dr. HORNADAY published the account at that time in The Tribune and in The Army and Navy Journal. Admiral DEWEY, Dr. HORNADAY says, undoubtedly copied it "and transmitted "it as of importance to the Government."

LA FOLLETTE'S CASE.

Of the petitions to the Senate to expel Senator LA FOLLETTE which are now rising from all over the land, the first that we recall came from Ithaca, N. Y., and requested the New York Senators to institute proceedings to that end. The petition of the Public Safety Commission of Minnesota differs from the rest in that it is based on a special offense. Mr. TOWNLEY's Non-Partisan League having obtained permission to hold its convention in Minnesota, on a pledge that no seditious or disloyal speeches should be made, Senator LA FOLLETTE violated the agreement and made a speech so seditious that, the Public Safety Commission charges, it has had a visible effect in increasing disloyalty in the State which harbored him and the convention. The latest petition, that adopted on Thursday by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, has the special importance of coming from LA FOLLETTE's own State.

Of the demands to the same purport made by distinguished individuals, the one made by Colonel ROOSEVELT was based on the Senate's own regard for its honor. If he were a Senator, he said, he could not occupy a seat in the same Chamber with LA FOLLETTE without freeing his conscience by endeavoring to have his disloyal colleague removed. President BUTLER of Columbia put it on the ground of actual danger to our soldiers abroad so long as the Senate by silence permits LA FOLLETTE to spread in Russia the belief that this country is likely to withdraw from the war. To this purpose he cited the charge of CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL that LA FOLLETTE's speeches were actually being used in Russia for that end.

The policy pursued by LA FOLLETTE—lip loyalty to the country, accompanied by opposition to every measure intended to strengthen it and by an ostensible solicitude for peace—was exactly that followed by the Copperhead Senators in civil war times. One of these, Senator BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky, was thus described to his face by Senator BAKER of Oregon, and we leave it to our readers today if BAKER's description of him is not an accurate description—with the possible exception of the words "brilliant" and "polished"—of Senator LA FOLLETTE's speeches today:

> Are not the speeches of the Senator from Kentucky intended for disorganization? Are they not intended to destroy our zeal? Sir, are they not words of brilliant, polished treason, even in the very Capitol of the Republic?

The Legislature of BRECKINRIDGE's State, Kentucky, adopted resolutions similar to those now being adopted so frequently about LA FOLLETTE. It called on him to resign his seat, and in the event of his refusal it demanded that the Senate investigate his conduct, with a view to expulsion. BRECKINRIDGE thereupon joined the Confederate Army, in which he became a Major General; and at the next session of Congress a resolution introduced by Senator TRUMBULL, and declaring that "JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE, "the traitor, be and he is hereby ex-"pelled from the Senate," was carried unanimously.

BRECKINRIDGE had the excuse that a part of his State was with the Confederacy. But in 1862 a Senator from an indisputably Northern State was expelled. This was JESSE D. BRIGHT of Indiana, who had been a member of the Senate for seventeen years, and had more than once been its President. He followed the La Follette policy of lip loyalty, accompanied by speeches "intended for disorganization," "intended to destroy our zeal," "intended to animate our enemies," to quote BAKER's words. Finally he was arraigned on the charge of doing these things, and also of writing a letter to JEFFERSON DAVIS introducing a friend who wanted to sell the Confederacy a new type of firearm, and was expelled.

It will be observed that BRECKINRIDGE was not expelled until he had joined the Confederacy, nor BRIGHT until he had been caught communicating with the enemy. It is not probable that either would have been allowed to remain in the Senate throughout the war, even without the commission of these overt acts; and it is probable that BRECKINRIDGE merely anticipated a certain result by joining the South. LA FOLLETTE has been connected only with the same kind of offense with which BAKER charged BRECKINRIDGE. The Senate is notoriously indisposed to resort to the extreme process of expulsion against any of its members. But it must find some way to protect the country and the army from the consequences of words uttered "in the very Capitol of the Republic" which are "intended "for disorganization, intended to de-"stroy our zeal, intended to animate "our enemies."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Victory Almost Too Easy.

As was evident to every even moderately sophisticated reader of Mr. FRASER's arraignment of GEORGE W. PERKINS, the latter allowed it to be printed at his own expense in the confident expectation that it could be convincingly answered. And rarely has a net spread so plainly in sight of the bird been drawn with greater success. Indeed, so easily was this particular bird enmeshed that Mr. PERKINS must be in some doubt that his hunting was quite sportsmanlike.

To abandon a troublesome figure, the Fraser indictment would not have presented fewer difficulties, or smaller ones, had it been written by a friend of Mr. PERKINS in order that the latter might have an opportunity to answer it and to give the presentation of his own opinions and qualifications the added interest which always comes from controversy more or less lively. At any rate, Mr. PERKINS could not have asked for better luck than to be charged with an ambition to "Prussianize" the management of our food supply.

That is because the accusation, in one sense—the sense in which Mr. FRASER wanted it taken—was ridiculous, while in another sense—the one promptly given to it by Mr. PERKINS—a plea of guilty could be made with excellent effect. The farmers' representative forgot that the Germans do not a few things extremely well, and that not a few of their methods, even though they be Prussian as well as German, can be studied and emulated with great advantage by other peoples, Americans among the number. Efficiency, foresight, and discipline are qualities not to be despised, no matter by whom exemplified, and it is to the possession and the manifestation of those qualities, and not of others, like cruelty, disregard of plighted faith, and a yearning for the lands and wealth of their neighbors, that the Germans are indebted for the fact that they have been able, as yet, almost to hold their own against the rest of the world in arms against them.

Nobody with ordinary intelligence thinks that Mr. PERKINS is any more "Prussian" than he ought to be—than he should be if he is to handle our food resources competently—and Mr. FRASER was curiously guileless in that he invited from Mr. PERKINS a renewed and emphasized statement of the fact that only they fear to have him intrusted with power who do not want power used for the general advantage instead of the advantage of "the gambler, the speculator, and the hoarder."

Another Defense of "Oleo."

To many commendations—none of them, by the way, from representatives of the dairy interests—that were elicited by recent remarks in this column about oleomargarine, there have now been added those of Dr. HAVEN EMERSON, New York City's Commissioner of Health. In the letter printed yesterday Dr. EMERSON fully corroborated the assertion that in all essential qualities—"weight for weight and quality for quality"—oleomargarine is as good as butter made from cream. It is, as he said, as "wholesome, as nutritious, and as palatable."

Even under the handicap, when colored, just as most butter is, to suit the popular fancy, of a heavy tax, sales of oleomargarine are steadily and rapidly increasing, but they are sales at prices not as much less than those of butter as they should be, or as they would be if the two substances could meet in the market on fair terms of competition. At times like these, when the cheapening of good foods has a direct and immediate relation to the national safety as well as the national welfare, the perpetuation of a special tax on oleomargarine is wellnigh intolerable.

And Dr. EMERSON presented an argument sure to appeal to the heavily burdened taxpayers of this city when he wrote that our Controller is forced every year to waste $40,000 of the public money because he is compelled to buy butter, and forbidden to buy oleomargarine, for use by the inmates of our public institutions, charitable and corrective. The only excuse for that costly discrimination would be a kind-hearted disinclination to make the unfortunates in these institutions eat something inferior or suspect. But oleomargarine is not held to be either inferior or suspect by any who know its merits, and in several other States, as well as by many private organizations here, it is served in such places without compunction or need for it.

The tax on oleomargarine has just one effect, as it has just one purpose—it keeps up the price of milk and of all the products of milk. The dairy industry is, of course, an honest and commendable one, and nobody is clamoring for the ruin of those engaged in it. They have no right, however, to a "protection" denied to others.

They Can't See the Point.

Germans are not saying as much nowadays as formerly about our sales of ammunition to the Allies, but they still cling to the curious notion that by those sales we were guilty of prolonging the war and increasing its slaughter.

What they mean when they say that is that, because of supplies bought in this country, France and England were not conquered as easily as, in German opinion, they would have been otherwise, and many German lives have in consequence been lost. The possibility that there are advantages in this—that it would not have been good for the world to have Germany quickly victorious—does not occur to the Germans, and probably it never will.

Only this week the President of the Reichstag sneered at the use of the word "humanity" by President WILSON—"the man who had the power to preserve hundreds and thousands of lives by preventing the exports of munitions and war material from America to the Entente."

This is surely the strangest of grievances to be presented by men in so many ways intelligent.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the recent provisional conditions for the release of Belgium offered by the Kaiser the one that first "strikes the eye" is that which aims to "exclude such menace as that which threatened Germany in 1914." That is to say, Belgium was the menacer! The mendacious fatuity of this assumption nearly takes one's breath away. Yet it is characteristically Teutonic, as we have come to recognize Teuton mentality in these days.

But the idea of Belgium, the dreaded, the ferocious, finds its parallel in an instance related to the writer by an old civil war officer. It was at an early period of the war when our soldiers had very strict orders against foraging off the civilian enemy's supplies. Poultry and other delicacies of the farm were forbidden unless paid for. Yet, even then, some cases came up for connivance on the part of an officer in charge. It was thus that my old friend came upon a group of his men in camp who were enjoying a feast of roast lamb. "How is this?" said the officer. "You know very well you were not allowed to kill that lamb." To which a ready wit (it was the Irish Brigade) respectfully answered, "True, but I did it in self-defense—the lamb bit me!"

Belgium is a dangerous lamb, and the Kaiser does well to be on guard!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For many years I have taken THE SUNDAY TIMES, and latterly have been remailing the rotogravure section to my niece, an energetic young woman, in the Philippine Islands. I have just received a letter from her telling of the very unexpected result of my simple courtesy. She says:

> Do you know what you started? The copies of THE NEW YORK TIMES you sent me were so full of pictures of preparedness parades that they filled me with enthusiasm. One day while riding in the street car I thought how fine it would be to have an agricultural preparedness parade here and get the people interested in seed planting. So I stopped at the Governor General's office, and by the next day had organized a big parade in the name of the Woman's Club. We had thousands of people in line and it took an hour to pass.

I think this matter of interest not only as showing what is going on in one of Uncle Sam's distant possessions, but also as an indication of the far-reaching influence of a great newspaper.

Sacramento, Sept. 20, 1917.

Hail, Banner of the Rising Sun
And Land of Morning Calm!
Hail and salute, O Banner bright,
The Far East's oriflamme!
East may be East and West be West,
But one are they in Freedom's Quest!

O Banner of the Orient seas,
You come to Freedom's Land!
To you we give an honored place
With Stars and Stripes to stand!
No longer seas these flags divide,

Now one are they in purpose great,
O Flag of East and Flag of West,
Allied are you for Right!
For each the same stern call now hears,
A call that joins two hemispheres!

For groupings new the world beholds
Of lands the seas divide,
They stand for Freedom, plighted faith,
For which have millions died!
Hail, Banner bright of brave Japan!
With ours you stand in cause of man!

What message now, O Banners bold,
In one world-cause entwined,
Do you now send across the seas
And whisper to the wind?
We listen and we seem to hear
This greeting told in accents clear:

O comrades brave beyond the sea,
Where great guns roar and drum!
O heroes in fair Freedom's fight,
At last! at last we come!
And gathering hosts the whole world through
Now soon will come to stand with you!

KULTUR SOCIALISM AND DEMOCRATIC SOCIALISM.

The Former Flourishes in Germany, the Latter in France, but it is Kultur Socialism Which Has Spread to America.

(Second Article.)

In September, 1914, a newly arrived German Socialist said to me: "We Socialists must all strongly advocate the victory of Germany in this war. Germany is the one great country of socialism. Where German arms go German socialism will follow. So will socialism be established throughout Europe." This statement is a key to the understanding of German Kultur socialism. It exposes the motive of those German Socialists who are working with might and main to secure a Hindenburg peace for us.

We must begin, if we would understand the meaning of the above quotation, where all useful political thinking must begin in this generation, with the history of the evolution of democracy. Democracy evolved with commerce in Western Europe. Democracy could not develop strength in Central and Eastern Europe because of the limited commercial opportunities of the land-locked peoples. Commerce, and later manufactures, brought in their train factory work, the wage system, exploitation, poverty, and degeneracy of a new sort. Industrialism demanded regeneration and there grew the philosophy of socialism as a basis for thoughtful social progress. Socialism, proposing the socialization of the industries, is the antithesis of ungoverned, unorganized, individualistic competition in the industries.

From the very first there have been two schools of Socialist thought—the State Socialists and the democratic Socialists. The State Socialists have always demanded that the State own and direct all the socialized industries—that the State give to each a job and pay to each his wages. The State, under this system, becomes the one great industrial trust and the one despotic political overlord—the Leviathan of Hobbes, which gobbles up the whole of human life. Under this system any society must evolve into an organism like a hive of bees or a hill of ants.

Let no one treat this simile with levity. Look at Germany. Germany is a nest of buzzing, stinging hornets—a society with common property and one mighty, dominant motive in its common mind—to sweep the remainder of the world into the dominion of its sword and of its social system. The German nation constitutes a totally new social order, a system unknown to the world till now. This new social system should be known as social militarism. Perhaps the name Kultur socialism is just as applicable. The only other society in history closely resembling Germany has been ancient Sparta. In such a society the soldiery does not exist to conquer territory and wealth for a ruling class. Territory and wealth are used to promote the development of militarism. An average Junker officer spends less money than an average school teacher in New York City.

Moved by a common passion, the militarism of the Junkers and the State socialism of the so-called "Social Democracy" were blended into a perfect union. The democratic Socialist theories taught by Marx and Engels never had a chance to live in Germany in the practice of politics because they faced an evolving social system. To be triumphant in practice a revolutionary system of thought must contend with a declining and crumbling social order. But monarchical Germany, by setting its roots and spreading its branches in the modern industrial processes, becomes vibrant with new life and power. The political democracy of Germany having been uprooted after 1848 and the political democrats driven out, socialism in Germany could not develop the democratic method in politics. So did Germany evolve the mighty Kultur socialism with which the political democracies are now engaged in death grapple in the four quarters of the world. In Germany today the little group of truly democratic Socialists, led by Karl Liebknecht and Franz Mehring, have completely severed their connection with the Kultur Socialists. In a recent special election the Kaiser's own Socialist bodyguard joined forces with the Junker Conservatives against Mehring. I see in Mehring's victory over the Kaiserliche Kultur Socialists a spark of hope—a spark which is, however, far from being a conflagration.

In France socialism has been democratic because France has been democratic. The Socialist philosophy had its beginnings in the French Revolution. It was the French Revolution which fathered the mind and soul of Karl Marx in democratic Western Germany, and it was the revolution of 1848 which brought that mind and soul to maturity. Marx, in every paragraph he ever wrote, stands with the great protagonists of democracy in England and France and America. In the American civil war Marx did not permit his social philosophy to make a helpless idiot of him. He stood with Lincoln against slavery and disunion through thick and thin. Nor was his vision for a moment obscured by the dust and smoke and blood of the draft riots in New York in 1864. Marx and the Marxists are the democratic successors of Milton and Danton, of Franklin and Jefferson.

The Socialists of France have always been the most successful representatives of democratic socialism. In France a majority of the Socialists have always advocated democracy in the industries. In the International Socialist Congress at Amsterdam in 1904 the great Jaurès, debating the issue of democracy with the Germans, declared most cogently that the French Republic was worth defending, and suggested that the Germans attack the very foundations of their monarchy at home. Finally, at the International Socialist Congress at Stuttgart in 1907, the intrepid Hervé hurled at the heads of the German Kultur Socialists the challenge of the Socialist democracy of France. Looking back to that time, it is now perfectly evident to me that all of us who witnessed that scene should have better discerned the future. "You are nothing but an admirable machine for voting and paying subscriptions," Hervé said. "You are afraid of prisons! When it is a question of stopping a war which would cost the lives of hundreds of thousands of Frenchmen and Germans, and which would dishonor socialism and civilization, there will not be found among your three million electors three hundred men to dare the jails of your Emperor. You are a flock of sheep under the crook of Kaiser Bebel. Your discipline is a discipline of death. When the war breaks out, go on! Go on! under the colors of your Emperor."

It is the German type of socialism which has dominated official Socialist circles in America. It is a group of Kultur Socialist leaders which today is directing the American Socialist Party. In my next article I shall discuss Kultur socialism in the United States.

RING STARTS WORK ON SHIP CHARTERING

MARINE MEN OPTIMISTIC

Regard Board's Rate Schedule as Fair and Just—Problems Will Be Simplified.

Welding Ring, Chairman of the newly formed Chartering Committee of the United States Shipping Board, returned here yesterday from Washington, where he had been conferring with the board regarding the organization of his committee and the scope and nature of its duties, and plunged at once into the work before him. He asked to be excused from making any statement, except that "we are going to work wholeheartedly in the interests of the Government and people of the United States, but at the same time for the best interests of the shipping trade and the American merchant marine."

Shipping men drew the most optimistic inferences from the fact that Mr. Ring's arrival in Washington coincided with the clearing up of the ocean freight rate situation. They had feared that the forthcoming rates would be so low as to make it impossible to do business under them. Mr. Ring's arrival in Washington, however, and his first conference with the board were followed by a statement published yesterday morning, giving the first clear indication of the board's policy regarding ocean freight rates, and also revealing that those rates, while materially lower than some recently prevailing, would still allow every shipping interest a fair working margin of profit, and at the same time be of immense value in stabilizing the shipping industry.

The rates as announced are regarded almost unanimously by shipping men as fair and just. At the same time, it is recognized that the schedule announced is only a starting point, for freight rates necessarily vary widely according to the character of the ship, the length of the voyage, and the nature of the cargo. It will probably be necessary to apply a rather elaborate system of calculation to each individual ship charter to make sure that it approximates the terms which the Shipping Board has authorized.

Free Hand for Committee.

To apply these calculations, it is understood, will be one of the tasks of the committee of which Mr. Ring is Chairman. New York shipping men have reason to believe he will have a free hand and the full support of the board. Mr. Ring's own character and abilities, in the opinion of shipping men, form the best assurance that this is all he needs for success.

It will be the duty of the Chartering Committee, in other words, to scrutinize every charter of an American ship, and probably the bulk of neutral shipping plying to and from American ports also.

The Chartering Committee consequently will be in a position, it is understood, to act in a sense as a priority board regarding freight shipments, seeing to it that business most directly important in winning the war gets the right of way, and in general exercising a coordinating influence, with a view to procuring the maximum efficiency. The Shipping Board will stand in something the same relation to ocean traffic as the Interstate Commerce Commission on land.

Another point regarding which shipping men have received assurances from their own sources of information is the effect of Federal control of the existing restrictions upon shipping. At present, owing to the lack of any responsible Governmental agency controlling the situation on this side of the ocean, it has been necessary for American shipping men to make their charters subject to the approval of the British shipping authorities, and this has frequently led to serious complications, delays, and confusion, which have been felt more keenly by some shipping men than even the uncertainty regarding rates.

The new Chartering Committee is expected to work in entire harmony with the British authorities, and consequently will simplify this whole question. When the Chartering Committee has taken hold, all that will be necessary for shipping men to do will be to comply with its requirements, secure its approval, and go about their business.

Allotment of New Ships.

It also became known yesterday that the Shipping Board, in allotting its newly built ships, as fast as they come off the ways, to private firms for operation under time charter, will be governed by the same schedule of rates it has announced for private business. Announcements of the allotment of these new ships may be expected as fast as they are ready.

It will be some little time, however, before Mr. Ring gets his committee organized and in running order, owing to the immensity of the field to be covered and the amount of preliminary work. The announcement of the names of his associates on the Chartering Committee is expected soon.

Shipping men said yesterday that the order of the Shipping Board to take over control of vessels of more than 2,500 tons did not mean the vessels would be taken away from their regular trade. They will continue to operate and the owners will act as agents for the Government on a 10 per cent. commission, the same as the White Star, Cunard, Atlantic Transport, Anchor, and other British lines have been doing. The United States Government pays a lump sum for the charter of the ships and takes all the profits on passenger and freight after paying expenses and the commission.

A number of the coastwise steamships are under 2,500 tonnage and will be exempted from the order that goes into force on Oct. 15. Ships that were to be used for carrying supplies would be manned to some extent by crews from the navy, it was said yesterday, for the sake of efficiency and economy.

TO KEEP OUR SAILING SHIPS.

Exports Board Will Not Allow Them to Carry Goods Through War Zone.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—No more goods will be shipped through the war zone from the United States on sailing vessels. The Exports Administrative Board announced today that, at the request of the Shipping Board and the Navy Department, it had instructed the Bureau of Export License to refuse licenses for such shipments.

It is obvious, said the board's statement, that steamers can navigate the war zone with less danger than slow sailing craft, and sailing ships, if used in safer waters, would to an extent release steam vessels now used in such waters.

FLAYS LA FOLLETTE AND 'SHADOW HUNS'

WOULD GIVE HIM TO KAISER

ST. PAUL, Sept. 28.—On the platform of the Auditorium, where Senator La Follette last week decried America's entry into the war on what he termed a violation of "technical rights," Theodore Roosevelt, classing the Wisconsin Senator among the "Huns within our gates," declared today he would like to send La Follette and his "shadow Huns" to Germany as a "free gift to the Kaiser." Among the "shadow Huns" the Colonel included Senator Gronna of North Dakota and Representative Lundeen of Minnesota.

"The most sinister enemy of democracy in the United States is Senator La Follette," Mr. Roosevelt asserted. A transcript of Senator La Follette's speech before the Producers and Consumers Conference here last week under the auspices of the Nonpartisan League had been handed to the Colonel.

"I have not had time to read it all," he said, "but I have already found two or three 'gems.'"

Senator La Follette's assertion that America's participation in the war was due to American citizens being passengers on "a ship loaded with munitions for Great Britain" was declared by the Colonel to be a falsehood.

"And he knows it was a falsehood," he added. "He said nothing about the sinking of the hospital ship Sussex, and the 'technical right' of the doctors and Red Cross nurses who sank with her to be on board.

"I abhor Germany. I abhor the Hun without our gates, but more I abhor the Hun within our gates. And I say that any man who excuses and condones such infamy, and his 'Shadow Huns,' Gronna and Lundeen, does not represent the American people. They are on a level with Vallandigham, whom Lincoln sent beyond the Confederate lines. I wish I could send them to Germany as a free gift to the Kaiser. La Follette is out of place in the Senate.

"Semmes, Commander of the Alabama, never, even in the bitterest time of the civil war, sank a ship without providing for the saving of its passengers. Once, having captured a prize, he was about to land the passengers in Jamaica, but, learning there was an epidemic of yellow fever there, turned the prize loose, rather than expose women and children to that disease. Neither England, France, Spain nor the United States, through the orders of their Governments, in the last 250 year has done the infamous act of sinking a ship without providing for the safet of the people aboard it."

Turning again to the shipment of munitions, a point dwelt on by Senator L Follette, Colonel Roosevelt said it wa the Senator's business to know wha were the treaty rights of Americans.

"On June 27 Congressman Baer sa that this was 'no time to make Americanism an issue,'" said the Colonel "That statement would be all right the German Reichstag, but a man wh thinks and speaks that way ought no to be admitted to Congress. If this is not the time to make Americanism an issue, there is no time."

Would Deny Vote to Slackers.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 28.—The loudest "conscientious objectors" in this country are the paid or unpaid agents of the German Government, Theodore Roosevelt declared here tonight in a speech before the Labor Loyalty League. He asserted that the majority of these men were not actuated by conscience at all, and that the "bulk are slackers, pure and simple, or else traitorous pro-Germans."

Describing the various kinds of pacifists in this country, Mr. Roosevelt said that some of the leading apostles of applied pacifism were not timid men, but, on the contrary, "brutal, violent men, who are perfectly willing to fight, but only for themselves and not for the nation. These roughneck pacifists," he said, "have always been the potent allies of the parlor or milk-and-water pacifists. The parlor pacifist, the white-handed or sissy type of pacifist, represents decadence, represents the rotting out of the virile virtues among people who typify the unlovely senile side of civilization. The roughneck pacifist, on the contrary, is a mere belated savage, who has not been educated to the virtues of national patriotism and of willingness to fight for the national flag and the national ideal.

"If a man does not wish to take life, but does wish to serve his country," Mr. Roosevelt continued, "let him serve on board a mine sweeper or in some other position where the danger is to his own life and not to the life of any one else. But if he will take no useful or efficient part in helping in this war, in running his share of the common risk, and doing his part of the common duty, then treat him as having forfeited his right to vote, his right to render at the polls any decision which in the long run can only be made good in the face of brutal and hostile men by the ability and willingness of good citizens to back right with might."

A plea for universal military obligation was made by Mr. Roosevelt, who said the selective draft system was wrong, "because it chooses out one man to make the sacrifice and do the work of two or three other men who are allowed to stay at home and make money, while the first man risks his life for their common country."

The officers' training camps were also criticised by Mr. Roosevelt, because, he said, "they have been so conducted that only men of some means could go thither or send their sons." He said they have done admirable work, but this feature ought to be remedied so "every man who is a respectable man and who has sons of the right type, would feel that those sons had an equal chance to become officers with any man in the land."

MEXICO TO REJECT OUR BILLS

Government Will Accept Gold Coin Alone at Two for One.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—After Oct. 1 the Mexican Government will refuse to accept American bills, silver coin or drafts on the United States in the payment of Federal taxes and duties.

A decree announcing this gives as a reason that, the American Government having prohibited the export of gold, it is impossible to change bills for gold. American gold coin will be accepted for taxes at the rate of two for one.

Effective immediately, the decree prohibits the exportation of any kind of Mexican coin or gold in bars. If ore or concentrates are exported which contain more than six grams of gold per ton the exporters must import an equal amount of gold in refined form. If silver is exported in bars or in ores and concentrates containing more than fifty grams per ton, the exporters must import 25 per cent. of the value of the silver in gold bars or gold coin at a price to be fixed by the Treasury Department.

CHEMIST AND BANKER TOLD TO CO-OPERATE

SEE GREAT BENEFIT TO BOTH

Regardless of tradition and of possibly personal inclination, the banker and the chemist must descend from their respective pinnacles, whether of financial exclusiveness or scientific pre-occupation, and "get together," according to an address made by G. A. O'Reilly, Foreign Trade Representative of the Irving National Bank of New York, at a meeting held last night at the Grand Central Palace in connection with the National Exposition of Chemical Industries.

The conference, which had as its subject "Chemistry and the Banker," held under the auspices of the New York section of the American Chemical Society, drew a large attendance of American and Canadian chemists and manufacturers actively engaged in the upbuilding of all branches of the chemical, dyestuffs, and allied industries in the United States. Besides Mr. O'Reilly, who presented the banker's side of the problem of co-operation, the only other speaker was Dr. Arthur D. Little of Boston, a chemical engineer, who spoke for his profession.

Mr. O'Reilly began by saying that the other day he heard a man, a banker, say that banking was unfortunate in that it was parasitic—that it lived upon the lives of others and created nothing of its own. Of course, he was wrong, the speaker said, but, unfortunately, his remark only reflected what Mr. O'Reilly termed an all too common estimate of the profession and an estimate for the existence of which bankers themselves were not a little to blame.

"There is nothing in the nature of the bank, unless perhaps it be the banker, which should conduce to the creation of such an impression," Mr. O'Reilly said. "If logically founded, properly equipped, and intelligently directed, it can perform a business function in which the creative element figures as prominently as in production or manufacture or distribution. The producer creates by transforming the riches of the earth into tangible and usable value, which he disposes of to his advantage. The manufacturer creates by changing the form and increasing the usefulness, and, incidentally, the value of the product which he, in turn, disposes of, and to his advantage. The wholesaler and the retailer, without any essential change in the form of what comes from the manufacturer or the producer, sell the product, probabaly to a greater personal advantage than either of the others.

"The banker, in a spirit differing in no essential from that which actuates the producer, the manufacturer, the wholesaler, and the retailer, comes into these processes of production, treatment, and distribution even more frequently and certainly not less importantly than any of the others. Indeed, we might say that his is the most important function of all in the carrying on of these processes.

Their Relation to Business.

"I have said that the true relation of banking to chemistry is found in the theory of practical every-day business. This theory must be taken seriously and literally by both banker and chemist if they are to derive the greatest benefit from each other and from business. Regardless of tradition and of personal inclination, they must descend from their respective pinnacles, whether of financial exclusiveness or scientific preoccupation, and get together in the intensely practical and really very comfortable atmosphere which the thoroughly up-to-date business man of today has created and prepared for them. If in doing this it becomes necessary to disturb an occasional delightful fiction, or to smash an occasional professional idol, it is believed that both may be done to the entire benefit of all concerned."

Just how much of a transformation in the chemist and in chemical industries must take place in order to produce the desired result, the banker said, the chemist knew best. In any event, the speaker gave it as his belief that a substantial movement in the right direction had been made. "A few more expositions like this and the conspicuous service which chemistry has rendered to business in recent years will leave no room for doubt as to the final outcome."

"Naturally, a discussion at the present time," the speaker continued, "upon two such nationally important subjects as chemistry and banking, particularly in relation with business, would include consideration of the greatest business enterprise in which this or any other nation ever has taken part—the war.

The New Things Brought by War.

"The theory that the true relation between chemistry and banking is found in business finds considerable justification even in conditions existing before the war. When viewed in the light of the big, wonderful new things which war has brought into the world, the conclusion becomes irresistible. The indifference with which in former years private interest viewed national problems and difficulties, finds but slight resemblance in the magnificent response which business everywhere has made to the nation's call."

In conclusion, Mr. O'Reilly aroused the enthusiasm of his hearers when he said that in the getting together of the chemist and the banker, the national interest must not be lost sight of. He also gave a note of warning regarding the fierce trade competition to be met with in the world at the end of the war.

"And so," Mr. O'Reilly said, "while in considering the business relationship between chemistry and banking we should concede sufficiently to the business advantages which will result to both from a proper getting together, we must not lose sight of the fact that the big thing in this relationship will be the national interest. For us there are just two worthwhile things in the world today—one, to win the war; the other, to protect American interests afterward. Naturally, winning the war comes first, but preparations to that end should be definitely based upon the understanding that wars are to be won principally that nations may live in greater peace and security and prosperity afterward."

In presenting the chemist's relationship with the banker, Dr. Arthur D. Little said bankers had learned that the study of a new language opens a new world for their activities. So with chemistry, a new world can be laid before them. Dr. Little said in part:

Need of New Viewpoint.

"The formation on indigo in the plant is a chemical reaction no less than when indigo is made by synthetis in the laboratory. Bankers were not particularly interested in the laboratory work until it became a commercial success, whereupon they began to take a decided interest in the credit of the indigo planter. Agriculture, which is so fundamental to the well-being of any country, depends very largely upon chemistry, which makes possible fertilizers, furnishes data upon which methods of cultivation may be based, and devises methods for the utilization of what would otherwise be an absolute waste. For example, the utilization of cottonseed has added more than a hundred million dollars annually to the value of the cotton crop, and cotton itself has become the raw material for very diverse chemical processes of the highest importance, such as explosives, celluloid, lacquers, and other well-known items of commerce.

"The chemist is made to feel that he speaks a foreign language when talking to the banker, but events of the last three years are changing that. The flying corps risks its life daily solely for the advantage of a different viewpoint. The banker is in as great need of a new viewpoint, and can avail himself of it very much easier and without such risks. The waste that the chemists sees on every hand really hurts, but it seldom moves the banker. The chemist through the prevention and utilization of these wastes could doubtless do more than any other profession in paying the debts of the war. This certainly should interest the banker. Of scarcely secondary interest is the chemistry of insurance, and the work which chemists can do in preventing the great annual fire losses. If Niagara Falls ran coal instead of water, how long do you suppose it would be maintained for the sake of a spectacle, and yet great obstacles have been placed in the way of the chemical engineer who would utilize Niagara's energy more fully than at present without seriously endangering the spectacle."

The attendance yesterday at the exposition was estimated at 20,000. Announcement was made that steps had been taken looking to the establishment of an American section of the Societe De Chimie Industrielle, the French national organization of chemists. The exposition will end tonight.

ONE PLANT EMPLOYS OVER 1,000 CHEMISTS

DR. WHITNEY'S PATRIOTISM

By ELLWOOD HENDRICK.

"One hundred and seven-tee-five chemists" is so familiar to our ears that it has almost the sound of a slogan. It is the number of men professionally trained in chemistry at one time under engagement by the Badische Anilin and Soda Fabrik zu Ludwigshafen am Rhein. Later they may have employed more, for aught I know, but the number 175 stuck like the 57 varieties of pickles of Pittsburgh. If anyone wavered in his faith as to the definite, final and absolute superiority of applied chemistry in Germany this picture of 175 chemists with test tubes and beakers and flasks and thermometers was supposed to revive it again. Now gossip at the Chemical Show, which is sufficiently authoritative to be what Wall Street calls "good information," is to the effect that the du Ponts have in their employ at present more than 1,000 chemists. They had upwards of 300 before the war, but, as Dr. Baekeland said the other night, they did not boast about it.

There is a great deal of chemistry going on that does not get into the exhibition. The General Chemical Company, for instance, shows a pretty display of wares in bottles, but it does not show its research laboratory. And yet it was there that a process for making ammonia from the air was worked out, and a second process for oxidizing ammonia to nitric acid, that has been given to and adopted by the United States Government. The General Electric Company does not figure in the public mind as a chemical works, and yet its research laboratory is a vast institute of chemistry and physics, with Dr. W. R. Whitney, one of the leaders among living chemists, at the head of it. Dr. Whitney is now devoting all his time to the United States Government at a salary of one dollar a year. It is there that Dr. Irving Langmuir has been at work with a corps of assistants on the nature of the molecule. This sort of thing offends the man who prides himself on being practical, and he is likely to froth at the mouth over the waste of stockholders' money on such academic truck. Nevertheless, it was this very Langmuir who dwells on a world of mathematics that hardly one in a million can understand, that worked out the argon lamp, and here again we have good information to the effect that the argon lamp is a paying proposition. And four or five years from now—who knows?—there may be developments in the art of lubrication from Dr. Langmuir's later work that will be abundantly worth while. It may be patentable and it may not, but being ahead of the game is better than having a patent. The General Electric people are not such idiots, after all. And there is a greal deal more that we don't know than there is that we do.

Tribute from Frenchman.

The National Aniline Company has a large building at its Schoellkopf works in Buffalo, under the direction of Dr. Derrick, where he has had over twenty men engaged in research alone, and I am looking forward to an early visit to that of the Beckers works in Brooklyn, with expectation almost akin to that of a débutante for her coming-out party. But the trouble with research laboratories just now is the same as that of universities and of works engaged in making other things than war materials: the chemists have gone into Government service. This service is not showy, and instead of getting their names in the paper they say very little of what they are doing; for problems of gas defense and the like are not discussed out loud. And yet a member of the French Commission said at the Boston meeting of the American Chemical Society early this month that the accomplishments of its members in war work was remarkable for its brilliance, its efficiency and its speed. On all sides one hears constantly the refrain that the chemists have gone to the war.

The cranks have begun to appear. A serious man called at the booth of a leading research laboratory with a "formula" (which seems to be the long-whiskered name for any chemical process) for making coal tar products. "First powder your coal. Then from this powder you extract your intermediates. From your intermediates you produce your synthetic dyestuffs, explosives, perfumery, medicines and whatever else you want to make." The guileful man in charge sent him to a neighboring booth on the ground that the neighbors were about to enter the coal tar color industry.

Another had a plan for a city. "You build houses adjoining each other in a single, long row. Underneath the cellars you have high speed transportation to carry the people wherever they want to go. That gives you all the advantages of the city and it brings people back to the land." He was complimented and told that the Solvay people were building a great many workingmen's houses and that it might be just the thing for them. "Oh, dear," exclaimed the inventor; "everybody seems to like my idea and yet they all send me to somebody else. The Dow Chemical Company sent me to you."

"Did they, indeed," observed the bearded man of guile, and with a smile that was in no sense a token of innocence he registered a vow that the Dow Chemical Company should have the next one even if he came with explosive arguments.

Feats in Chemical Engineering.

In chemical engineering practice, which means, among other things, in the factory just as in the laboratory or in the kitchen, one has to boil things and filter them and dissolve them and carry on a great many processes. But as soon as we come to handle large quantities in the pursuit of economy, difficulties arise. For instance, to dissolve caustic soda in water is as easy as anything, because it is very soluble. It is, however, dreadful stuff to handle because it eats right into the flesh, and if one has the problem to dissolve, say, ten iron drums of it weighing 500 pounds each in a big tank of water, accidents are likely to happen. It comes as hard, wet, white stuff, and either in this form or in solution it is as wicked as Wall Street in the effusions of a candidate for office on a Hearst ticket. To meet the problem a patented apparatus is shown that seems almost to have been designed by the Lady from Philadelphia. The drums, after holes have been driven into them, are lifted by a pulley and deposited in a tank. From the bottom of the tank a pipe leads into another inclosed watertight boiler or tank several feet below it. From the top of the boiler below another pipe extends back into the tank above. Water is poured into the upper tank until both are full. Now, water with caustic soda dissolved in it is naturally heavier than water without it, and so the heavy water sinks down through the pipe from the tank above to the boiler below. That drives the lighter water out of the boiler through the pipe at the top into the tank above and so circulation is established in contact with the soda. In six hours the ten drums of caustic are completely dissolved without the need of any one touching it, and it may be piped to any place it is needed.

The use of liquid chlorine instead of bleaching powder is attracting a great deal of interest. Chlorine is a yellowish green gas which was the first poison gas used by the Germans. When compressed and cooled it becomes liquid, and as such it is shipped in iron cylinders under considerable pressure. It is stated that yarns and cloth bleached with chlorine instead of bleaching powder have a softer feel and greater strength. The same agent is used in both, because bleaching powder is a combination of chlorine with lime.

Another great use for chlorine is as a disinfectant, in which respect it is very powerful. One part of liquid chlorine in from five to ten million parts of water is sufficient to make drinking water safe. Since the New York City water supply has been treated with this remarkable disinfectant not a single case of typhoid fever has been traced to it. Chlorine is also the active principle of the famous Carrel-Dakin solution for use in surgery, which has shown such remarkable results in the war hospitals in France. This was originally prepared with bleaching powder and soda in water. It is not good if kept over twenty-four hours. There are now shown very convenient little ampoules or sealed glass tubes containing just enough chlorine to produce one litre of the Carel-Dakin solution in the easiest and most convenient manner. It will be a great convenience to surgeons.

A Daughter to Mrs. R. E. Wigham.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald E. Wigham are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter at their town house, 106 East Eighty-fifth Street. Their marriage took place last year. Mrs. Wigham was formerly Miss Anne Eastman.

GERMANS ACT OLD COMEDY.

A Spirited Performance of Dreyer's "In Treatment" at Irving Place.

As their second production of the season the German players at the Irving Place Theatre last evening revived Max Dreyer's comedy, "In Behandlung," ("In Treatment,") which was first played eighteen or twenty years ago. The piece dates back to the days when female physicians were considered novelties, and the story concerns the confusion which results when a woman practitioner descends upon a small German village.

The piece is vivacious, despite its age, and Director Christians's company gives it a spirited performance. Particularly good are Ida Frey, as the woman physician; Fritz Ehren, also a physician, and Heinrich Marlow.

"In Treatment" will be repeated tonight and Monday and Tuesday nights, and Schnitzler's "The Lonely Road" will be the program this afternoon.

The transfer tax report on the estate of James E. Nichols of Austin, Nichols & Co., who died on July 21, 1914, and of his wife, Mrs. Lizzie G. Nichols, who was killed for her jewelry in her home at 4 East Seventy-ninth Street on Sept. 8, 1915, was filed yesterday. Mr. Nichols left $2,637,367, of which about $400,000 went to his wife, and the bulk of the remainder went to Maitland F. Griggs, a lawyer, of New York, and to Dr. John B. Griggs of Hartford, Conn., both nephews of Mrs. Nichols.

Mrs. Nichols had a total estate of $914,784, including the $400,000 received from her husband, which went in equal shares to her two nephews, the share of each under both wills aggregating more than $1,000,000. Mrs. Nichols's jewelry, which caused the robbery resulting in her death, was appraised at $36,559. Among the items of jewelry worth $1,000 or more were the following:

Pearl necklace, diamond clasp, containing 83 stones weighing 450 grains, $12,000; diamond-studded lorgnette chain, 176 stones, $2,400; diamond necklace, $1,800; pair diamond earrings, $1,500; diamond lavalliere, $1,000; diamond brooch, $1,100; diamond and emerald bracelet, $1,200, and diamond necklace with diamond and emerald pendant, $7,500.

The bulk of the estate of James E. Nichols consisted of securities worth $2,223,073, of which $500,000 was the value of 5,000 shares preferred stock in his grocery business, appraised at par. No value was found for 2,500 shares of common stock, the report showing that the business had not been profitable just before Mr. Nichols's death, due partly to inroads made by various chain stores. Mr. Nichols had 1,225 shares of the Irving National Bank, of which he was a Director, worth $219,625; 2,000 shares of Merchants Refrigerating Company preferred, $200,000, and 1,272 shares of common stock appraised at $57,240; 800 shares of F. W. Woolworth Company preferred, $94,400, and 700 common, $67,200.

Other assets in the estate were notes of the Merchants Refrigerating Company worth $384,000 and cash, $47,407.

Mr. Nichols gave $25,000 each to his friends, Charles L. Dwenger and Fred Philbrook, and $25,000 to Mrs. Dwenger. Sarah J. Elkins, sister, received $5,000 and a life interest in $100,000, while $10,000 went to Helen Angel, cousin, and $2,500 each to five friends. He left $5,000 each to the Free Will Baptist and Calvin Baptist Churches of Meredith, N. H.; $5,000 to the Congregational Church of Central Harbor, N. H., and $5,000 to the Laconia Hospital.

W. Holden Weeks Estate $47,249.

W. Holden Weeks, Republican politician and Deputy Fire Commissioner, who died on March 12, 1916, left an estate appraised yesterday at $47,249. His wife, Anna Ross Weeks, who was not mentioned in his will, made a claim against the estate for $17,000, for support under an agreement, but the claim was rejected. The decedent gave $13,337 to his sister, Mrs. Julia M. W. L'Ecluse, who was made executrix, and a life interest in the remainder went to his aunt, Mary M. Painter. Upon her death the principal goes to cousins.

C. E. Gregory's Estate $1,401,554.

An estate appraised at $1,401,554 was left by Charles E. Gregory, who died April 1, last. The decedent owned securities valued at $1,241,570, of which $746,061 was the value of 514 shares of stock in J. H. Gautier & Co., crucibles, of 1 Greene Street. Mr. Gregory divided his estate equally among his daughters, Fannie, and Alice Gregory, and Frances Gregory Tyler.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 28.—M. E. Sheldon of New York, who died last week in his native town of Suffield, at the age of 87, left no will, and his daughter, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour of Chicago, and Vice President Dunham of the Armour Company of Chicago were today named as administrators of the estate, which is admittedly very large. No inventory has yet been filed.

FARMERS WIN; MILK GOES UP

Distributers Agree to Pay Prices Demanded by Dairymen's League.

There will be no milk strike. The milk dealers have agreed to pay the advanced prices demanded by the Dairymen's Association for October and November. This announcement was made yesterday, after a week of conferences between the Directors of the New York Milk Conference Board and the Dairymen's League. "There was really nothing else to do," said one of the conference yesterday, and he summed up the situation, for as long as the farmers held out the dealers either had to go out of business or pay the price.

The Syracuse scale of prices is $3.10 a hundred pounds for October, and $3.34 for November for 3 per cent. butter fat milk in the first zone and bearing a premium of 4 cents a point in excess of 3 per cent. butter fat content. This is equivalent to a boost of about a cent and a half a quart in October and two cents in November.

This agreement means, of course, a rise in the retail prices in the next two months. At present, grade A milk sells for 13½ cents to 14 cents, and grade B at 12 to 12½ cents. "It is probable," one of the big dealers was quoted as saying some weeks ago, "that if the dairymen's price schedule is accepted, in October grade A milk will sell for 15 to 15½ cents and grade B at 14."

Get Well!

Don't surrender to a state of health that is below normal. Don't go through life only half well, repelled by the work and play that should attract you. A good color, a clear eye, a healthy appetite, a strong constitution, and the full zest of living should be yours.

Unless you are afflicted with a serious organic disease, your run-down condition is probably due to anemia—a loss in quality and quantity of red blood cells. Try a course of

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

"The Red Blood Builder"

It has helped thousands toward regained health, so it should help you. It builds up the health by building the very fount of vitality—the blood. It gives new vigor to thin, watery, sluggish blood by creating new, sturdy, red blood cells.

The enriched, warm blood drives joyfully through the body, driving out poisons and carrying renewed strength to every part of the system. The stomach, the heart, the lungs, the kidneys—all the vital organs work better, because iron-rich, healthy blood invites good health and the invitation is usually accepted.

Pepto-Mangan is a valuable tonic for those whose strength is not equal to their ambitions or necessities. It is a builder for the run-down of all ages, for weak, anemic children, for convalescents, and the overworked. Its sparkling color and aromatic taste are attractive. It cannot possibly disturb the most fastidious stomach nor injure the teeth.

THROTTLE I. W. W. BY INDICTING 168

None but members of the I. W. W. were named in the indictments, the Government attorneys taking pains to specify that no others were touched. District Attorney Clyne, under whose direction the work of the Grand Jury was accomplished, was assisted by Judge William C. Fitts, Assistant United States Attorney General, who had general supervision of the inquiry; Frank C. Dailey of Indianapolis, and Frank K. Nebeker of Salt Lake City, both assistants to the Attorney General.

Commenting on the fact that the indictment was aimed at none but I. W. W. members, Judge Fitts gave this definition of the I. W. W.:

"The I. W. W. differs from Socialists and from every form of legitimate labor organization. The I. W. W. is a degenerate, its doctrine is treachery built on the teachings of the employment of secret and covert destructive methods intended to wreck the employer, and through destruction of production and transportation disable society and the Government itself, the object at this time being to render the enemy stronger and our dear country weak in the resistance of that strength."

"The prosecutions are under Sections 6, 19, and 37 of the Criminal Code, and under the Espionage act. Only leaders in conspiracies or those personally culpable in connection with the perpetration of crimes against the United States are included as defendants.

"The astounding feature which stands out at the conclusion of the investigation, and which is well calculated to make patriotic persons shudder with alarm, is found in the disclosure of the number of men enjoying the protection of the Government who are so far unmindful of social duties and obligations as to openly advocate the most vicious forms of sabotage, particularly in industries engaged in furnishing war munitions.

"The activities of these defendants have been directed against what they conceived, or pretended to conceive, to be the misguided attitude of the world at large toward persons not possessed of property, the result being that this time of general stress and strain has been seized upon because, as they insist, the opportunity was here and was now presented to make effective those secret and covert processes of destruction which they traitorously employed while pretending to work. In other words, the assertion is that they can now make infidelity to duty more efficacious and destructive than would have been possible at any conceivable juncture in the country's existence.

"Boiled down and stated in a few words the propaganda of these defendants consists of these assertions:

"'We are going to take possession of the industries of this country because we want them; second, because we need them; third, because we are in this crisis possessed of the power to put it over.'

"In addition there is running through all these endeavors a pronounced opposition to the support of the war in which this country is enlisted, the teaching being that whatever can be done to make the power of the enemy greater or our power of resistance less effective is a service to the organization. The investigation and resulting indictments, we believe, will be entirely satisfactory to the general public of the country when the extent of the information gathered and the thoroughness of the investigation can be divulged, which will be within a few days."

The statement was signed, in addition to Mr. Clyne, by the following attorneys for the Government: William C. Fitts, Frank K. Nebeker, and Frank C. Dailey.

TON OF EVIDENCE GATHERED.

I. W. W. Indictments Charge Crime Nearest to Treason.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World indicted in Chicago today were engaged in a nation-wide conspiracy to hamper the Government in carrying on the war. The defendants, most of whom were arrested, live in almost every part of the country. Seditious conspiracy—the crime nearest to treason within the definition of the criminal code—is charged.

Indictments are based on revelations brought to light in the seizure by Federal authorities of documents and correspondence of the I. W. W. in approximately fifty towns and cities on Sept. 5.

A comparatively small coterie of men is understood to have directed the entire movement. Officials here feel that in many instances the alleged ringleaders of these anti-war activities are virtually guilty of treason, but because of the narrowed definition of treason in the Criminal Code and in numerous court decisions it was thought best to ask the Grand Jury to find indictments on the broader charge of seditious conspiracy.

The evidence laid before the Grand Jury, which was of such volume as actually to weigh a ton or more, is said to show a nation-wide conspiracy. It concerned anti-draft demonstrations, crippling of war industries by so-called strikes, burning of wheat fields, burning of timber which the Government was planning to use for airplane construction, and a continuous anti-ally and anti-war propaganda from hustings and soapbox.

One feature which the investigation brought out sharply was the large, almost predominating, membership of Austrians in the ranks of the I. W. W. local organizations and also the large membership of the various races which populate Austria-Hungary. Thousands of these men, unrestrained because the United States is not at war with Austria, Federal investigators have found, have been free to carry on whatever activities were planned.

Seized After Raid on Home.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 28.—In connection with the nation-wide arrests of Industrial Workers of the World leaders, United States Deputy Marshal J. C. Moran tonight arrested Francis Miller, said to be a national officer of the Industrial Workers. Miller is charged with conspiring against the United States. A few weeks ago his home at 12 Benton Street was raided by Federal officers and a quantity of literature was seized.

Doree Arrested in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—E. F. Doree, said to be a local leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, was arrested by Federal agents at his home here tonight on the indictment returned in Chicago. He was held for a further hearing on Oct. 2.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Continue to Sag, with Evidence of a Declining Public Interest.

The general public has not followed up the buying which gave the stock market a quick upturn on announcement of the Government's prices for steel, and the list yesterday worked to lower levels without the entrance of any new factors to discourage investment. The effect of the excess profits tax as agreed upon by the conferees will apparently be less drastic than was feared, but the information that has been vouchsafed concerning the basis upon which the new levy is to be made has been so meagre that it is too early to estimate the bearing it will have on the profits of any particular corporation. The definition of capital subject to the allowance of from 7 to 9 per cent. has been broadened to include good-will paid for in cash or tangible property, but it is still open to the objection that many conservatively managed corporations which have never capitalized good-will may be penalized.

Weakness yesterday was most noticeable in the railroad issues, the recovery in which made little progress on the brief spurt induced by the appearance this week of more favorable earnings statements. St. Paul sold down to 54½, the lowest price for this issue since 1895; Reading closed at 81, off 2⅛; Norfolk & Western dropped to 110½, off 2½; Union Pacific declined 2¼, Canadian Pacific 3⅛, and Baltimore & Ohio, 2⅝. The conditions against which the railroads are contending were emphasized by publication yesterday of the last-named company's earnings report for August. With business running at top speed—the company's gross earnings for the month were $12,869,000, an increase over the corresponding month of last year of $1,309,000—the margin of profit is being encroached upon further and further, until it is only a question of time when either costs must come down with the ending of war and the release of labor for mines and railroad work, or a more radical readjustment of rates must be conceded. The increase in the Baltimore & Ohio's transportation expenses alone, largely made up by wages, was greater than the total increase in gross revenues, and the net revenues for the month showed a decrease of $594,000. For the eight calendar months revenues have increased $8,327,000, but net earnings have declined $431,000.

Most of the industrials lost ground yesterday as well, and the list closed weak. The feeling that money will continue scarce and high has resulted in a contraction of activity. Odd lots loaned in the call market yesterday at 7 per cent., but the bulk of the day's needs was provided for at 4½ per cent. Little time money was available for borrowers, but an easier situation is expected next week.

A gratifying increase in the demand for the Liberty 3½s resulted in the broadest market so far seen for this issue, and the price made a new high record at 100.24. Buying for wealthy investors anxious to shift funds into non-taxable securities is credited with furnishing the basis for the better demand.

An interesting and highly significant development in yesterday's situation was the announcement of the decision on the part of the Guaranty Trust Company to enter the Federal Reserve System. This action means as much to the system as it does to the Guaranty, for a large number of important State institutions have been waiting for this kind of guidance, and the decision announced yesterday may be taken to mean that the last of the practical objections to entrance of State banks and trust companies has been surmounted.

MONEY SCARCE IN LONDON.

New War Bonds Considered an Attractive Investment.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Money today was scarce and dear. Discounts were firm. Announcement of the new war bonds on the Stock Exchange was well received, they being considered an attractive investment.

Gilt edge securities were firmer in tone. The activity in Argentine rails and rubbers was a feature. Mine and industrial shares attracted attention, but silver mines were inclined to dullness, owing to the decline in the price of the metal.

Prices Firm on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Prices were firm on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 60 francs 40 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 18 centimes. Five per cent. loan, 88 francs 30 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Waiting for Steel Prices.

The steel trade continues to stand fast, stuck on a dead centre, waiting for additional details of price-fixing. Dispatches from Washington indicated that the wait is not likely to be long, as the War Industries Board is busy establishing prices on some 150 products which were affected by the quotations made for the few in most demand. The manufacturer of rolled material who buys all his raw material must perforce remain at sea in regard to the prices he may profitably charge until he learns what his billets and blooms are going to cost him. Producers have been committed to patience for some weeks; they have gone on record as being content with Government findings so far announced. They feel assured from the condition of the market that once prices are fixed there will be plenty of business, more, perhaps, than they can handle.

Rails Sell Off.

Railroad stocks, which had displayed a fair degree of firmness in other sessions of the week, sold down easily yesterday and contributed much to the generally weak tone. St. Paul at 54½ dipped below its previous minimum of the year, and for many other years as well. A significant development of the day lay in the unusual weakness of issues like General Electric, which fell 3½ points, Canadian Pacific, down 3½, Louisville & Nashville, down 3, and Pullman, which receded 4 points. These are stocks whose strong investment position and relatively high prices make particularly noticeable declines as extensive as those noted.

Liberty Loan Conversion.

The tax-free provision of the first Liberty Loan bonds, and the liability of the second bonds to surtax, together with the difference in interest rate between the two issues, is resulting in a state of affairs highly pleasing to everybody concerned, whose outward symptom was yesterday's market price for the first Liberty bonds of 100.24, 24 cents a hundred above par. This price is admittedly the result of the demand for the tax-free bonds on the part of wealthy men who foresee heavy income taxes in the future. But it enables holders of these bonds of moderate means to sell them at a profit and invest their money in the new issue at a higher rate of interest. The wealthy buyers are pleased to get out from under, even at 3½ per cent. interest, with the heavy taxes in prospect; the sellers are glad to take their profit and reinvest at a higher rate, since the new bonds are liable only to surtax, which will not trouble them; and the Government is pleased, because it avoids the otherwise probable necessity of converting large amounts of the 3½s into 4s.

Corn Products Pays in Full.

Directors of the Corn Products Refining Company yesterday wiped clean the record of preferred stock dividends. By declaring a payment of 4 1-6 per cent. they arranged for the final distribution of the accumulation extending back to 1906. This, together with the usual 1¾ per cent. for the quarter will be sent to shareholders on Oct. 15, those to receive the dividends being owners of the stock on record Oct. 5. The Corn Products and the Crucible Steel Companies stand as shining examples of corporations which have been able to utilize the prosperity of the last two years to improve the investment position of their senior stock issues. Others have done the same, and still others are finding themselves, as the result of unusual profits, in positions of strength which their Directors did not dream of before the war began.

Ocean Freight Rates.

Despite the successive assurances given by the Government's action in other industries, that it is not going to put anybody out of business unless it has to, each industry refuses to believe the glad tidings until they come at first-hand. Consequently, it was only yesterday that the shipping trade made up its mind, and even then somewhat fearfully and reluctantly, that the Shipping Board really meant well by it, and that the new ocean carrying rates were going to give them a chance to make a living after all. Scoffers at the timorous attitude of shipping men must remember that steel men refused to be reassured by copper's escape, and copper refused to be reassured by the coal and wheat and sugar prices, and so on back through the list.

Silver Down Another 4 Cents.

Another sharp break in the price of silver, amounting to 4 cents to the ounce yesterday, carried the quotation down to 97⅝ cents and caused dealers to look about for reasons. As on Thursday, the lack of buying from Far Eastern sources was said to be the most prominent factor in the drop, but this was not fully understood. Usually when China pauses in the midst of the process of accumulating silver the impelling reason has been traced to disturbances in that country, revolutionary, agricultural, or financial. But at the present time there is no news of developments in China with a bearing on the silver market. The price of the metal has dropped nearly 11 cents an ounce this week, offsetting the gain in the preceding fortnight.

Stock Exchange Pay Increase.

Employes of the Stock Exchange found nothing to be dissatisfied about in their pay envelopes yesterday. Increases ranging from $10 to $25 a month were inclosed, governed by length of service. The Exchange management voted the advances for two reasons, presumably—to offset the rising cost of living and also to discourage the giving of extra remuneration to the workers by the members. Christmas gifts are all that the Exchange desires the members to make.

Electric Concern Earns $6,108,226.

The report of the Central States Electric Corporation for the twelve months ended Aug. 31 last shows gross earnings of $6,108,220, against $4,755,955 for the preceding year. Operating expenses and taxes, however, increased $1,707,898, so that the net earnings of the company dropped from $1,140,102 to $679,599. Interest charges, etc., also increased during the year and played a part in this diminished income.

LIBERTY LOAN BONDS LEAD MARKET HERE

100.24 TOP PRICE RECORDED

Ex-President Taft Urges State Branch of League to Enforce Peace to Aid Coming Campaign.

Liberty Loan bonds continued yesterday to hold first place in the New York bond market as the most sought-after security dealt in. In the largest turnover recorded since the market in Liberty bonds has been made, $4,535,500 of the bonds changed hands. The top price recorded, at which there were heavy sales, was 100.24, ten points higher than Thursday's price, which had ruled as the high record for the bonds.

Ex-President William H. Taft, President of the League to Enforce Peace, yesterday wrote to William Jay Schieffelin, Chairman of the New York State branch of that organization, asking him to assist in lining up the organization for the support of the second Liberty Loan. The League as an organization invested $10,000 of its funds in the first Liberty Loan.

"The Secretary of the Treasury," Mr. Taft wrote to Dr. Schieffelin, "has requested the League to Enforce Peace to join with the committees in the several Federal Reserve districts in the campaign that will begin Oct. 1, to secure subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan. As President of the League, I have promptly and gladly acceded to his request, in so far as it is possible for me to commit the organization. It remains for you to take the steps necessary to make our co-operation effective, a thing I have no doubt you will be both quick and zealous to do."

President William H. Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company yesterday pledged the Lackawanna's organization to do everything possible to make the second Liberty Loan a success. Coroner Timothy Healy, President of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, made a similar promise for his organization, and declared that he believed every one of the 40,000 members of the union would become a bondholder in the loan. The National Jewelers' Board of Trade, at a meeting yesterday, pledged the support of this organization also to the campaign. A committee and an organization of canvassing teams were formed immediately to carry on the work in the jewelers' trade.

President Sabin, of the Guaranty Trust Company, in an interview yesterday, predicted that the second Liberty Loan would be an even greater success than the first. "Its effect will be like a military victory for the United States," he said, "and almost as important. Since the first Liberty Loan was issued there has been generated in this country a tremendous energy. That great force is gathering momentum every day. But unless each and every one of us does his full share to make the second Liberty Loan an emphatic success we will fail to discharge our sacred duty."

Edwin P. Maynard, President of the Brooklyn Trust Company, has been appointed head of the Brooklyn Advisory Committee, working under supervision of the Distribution Committee of the Liberty Loan Committee, to supervise the flotation of Liberty Loan bonds in Brooklyn.

The Women's Liberty Loan Committee has established headquarters for the sale of bonds at the uptown office of the committee, in the Columbia Trust Company Building at 358 Fifth Avenue, under direction of Miss Virginia Furman, Treasurer of the Women's Executive Committee. Miss Furman personally sold $267,000 worth of the first Liberty Loan bond in two hours' work on the last day of the first campaign.

The Metropolitan Canvass Committee of the Liberty Loan Committee has secured permission from the faculty of Hunter College to suspend studies during the second week of the loan campaign and enlist 800 girl students for canvass work. The committee expects to have at least 5,000 workers in the city during the campaign.

Governor Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in an interview yesterday, declared that he would not feel content with less than 50 per cent. or $1,500,000,000 of the Liberty Loan subscriptions from the New York district, and that he hoped for $2,000,000,000. If this figure were attained, he said, the total subscription throughout the country might reasonably be expected to reach $5,000,000,000.

"These are large figures," he said, "but the opportunity given this time for more complete organization justifies our setting our mark at $1,500,000,000."

The sum of $3,032,400 in Liberty Loan bonds of the first issue, purchased originally by the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company, will be sold at auction next Thursday at noon, at the Chambers Street entrance to the County Court House, by United States Marshal McCarthy. The sale is the outcome of a judgment recently recovered by the Equitable Trust Company, as trustee, against the railroad, in the interest of mortgage bondholders of the Western Railways Company, to hold the Denver & Rio Grande liable on an alleged guarantee of the former concern's bond issue.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Swift and Co. has declared a special dividend of 2 per cent., making 10 per cent. for the year.

At a meeting of Directors of the United States Smelting and Refining Company, Daniel G. Wing was elected a member of the Executive Committee.

The Plymouth Cordage Company has increased its dividend rate from 8 per cent. to 12 per cent. per annum.

An order has been filed in the United States District Court at St. Louis permitting Receiver Schaff of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad to pay interest due Oct. 1 on the note of $420,000 held against the road by the National City Bank of New York and to secure extension of the note for six months.

The Corn Products Refining Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock and approximately 4 1-6 per cent. in back dividends on the preferred. This completes the payments in arrears on that issue. The 4 1-6 per cent. just declared makes a total of approximately 19 1-6 per cent. accumulated preferred dividends which have been paid since Jan. 15, 1917.

The Irving National Bank has published a book of information for American exporters who are thinking of embarking in the South American trade. The book is much larger, more carefully prepared, and more complete than most such publications, and goes very thoroughly into all questions of importance to the pioneer in this field.

J. C. Traphagen, formerly Secretary of the Scandinavian Trust Company, is now Treasurer of the Mercantile Trust and Deposit Company.

Ralph S. Stubbs has been promoted from Traffic Manager to General Manager in charge of the operating department of the American Sugar Refining Company, being succeeded as Traffic Manager by Paul M. Ripley.

Snowden McCaughy has been elected cashier of the Pacific Bank, and F. E. Goldman and Harry Van Brunt additional assistant cashiers.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Commenting on the condition of trade and the business of the banks, Dun's Review says:

"Further downward revisions of quotations, in steel and iron through official action and in certain other commodities from different causes, give promise of greater activity, though not all of the price uncertainties have ended and recovery appears in some quarters where continued yielding was expected. But there is a clearer outlook and more confident sentiment in business and its volume enlarges, not without fluctuations and in some cases moderate, but yet distinct.

"Clearings through the banks this week at the principal cities in the United States amount to $5,120,586,742, an increase of 5 per cent. as compared with the same week last year and of 39.3 per cent. as contrasted with the corresponding week in 1915."

Bradstreet's says:

"The current pace of trade, wholesale and jobbing, is rapid, and distribution by retail dealers is improving, though in this latter respect there are evidences of conservative buying by consumers, who evidently feel the effects of high prices, which so far as most edibles are concerned, keep ascending. Activity in textiles reigns all around, and governmental buying of blankets for cantonments has exhausted available supplies at various centres. Withal, the largest purveyors are not keen about extending credit lines, preferring, as they do, to have final distributors work off high-priced goods before buying anew."

UNITED STATES GOVT. BONDS

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Stocks were unsettled during practically all of yesterday's session on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, the railroads particularly showing weakness. The rest of the list was highly irregular throughout. The industrials moved within narrow ranges, but not uniformly.

THE COTTON MARKET

The General List Closes from 9 to 20 Points Off in Day of Dull Trading.

The cotton market was rather dull yesterday, with slight symptoms of nervousness at intervals due to conflicting weather and crop reports, and prices sagging off between these flurries before a general disposition to realize and "sit tight" for the Government crop report next Tuesday. October contracts were firmest of the list. December sold up to 23.94c, then slumped to 23.62c, rallied a score of points, and finally closed at 23.67c. The general list closed from 9 to 20 points off.

The tropical storm was central yesterday morning near the mouth of the Mississippi, but it was reported to be recurving eastward, which suggested that it might not reach far inland. This view was naturally reassuring, while the Western belt forecast for fair and warmer weather was favorable, but the outlook was for rains in the Eastern belt, and the day's details showed heavy general rains in Georgia and Alabama. Such conditions suggested a further delay in the movement even if there was no damage to open cotton or lowering of the grades, and some of the private crop reports issued made a pretty bullish showing. On the whole these features served to restrict offerings and promoted occasional rallies, with a good deal of the trading attributed to evening-up commitments, and the smaller volume of business suggested that considerable progress had already been made in that direction.

The market opened easy at an advance of 12 points to a decline of 13 points, sold about 9 to 26 points net lower during the morning, with a rally of 25 or 30 points, followed by sagging prices during the afternoon. Five private crop reports were issued during the day, with the condition figures ranging from 60.6 to 64.3, and the indicated deterioration from 5.1 to 8.8. Three of these reports contained crop figures, one of them indicating a yield of 12,250,000 bales excluding linters, another 12,600,000 excluding linters, and the third 13,800,000 bales including linters. Very little news was received as to spot conditions in the South, and there was nothing in the trading here to indicate any material change. Southern spot markets, as officially reported, were 12 points higher to 25 points lower, generally unchanged. Latest advices state that a French commission is on its way to this country to purchase raw cotton for French importers. According to these reports further imports of cotton into France must be licensed by this commission. Exports yesterday were 26,709 bales. So far this season exports, according to corrected figures, have amounted to 708,787, against 814,159 last year.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The principal feature of interest in the wheat market was an announcement that the price of wheat at the seaboard will be lowered 2 cents per bushel from the recently established quotations. This was due to the fact that the Interstate Commerce Commission refused to grant the Trunk Line Railroad rate which was expected to become effective on Oct. 1 and on which rate the seaboard price of wheat had been based. The Grain Corporation stated that it will protect those who have made contracts on the old price level if statements under oath are properly submitted to the New York office before Oct. 5.

CORN.

The news in corn was of a more bearish character, and while bulls showed a disposition to stand their ground, the undertone was weak and final quotations were at about the lowest, with net losses of 2⅜c to 2½c. Argentine corn is still being offered here at about $1.60, and out of this week's shipments of 147,000 bushels from that country 100,000 were for the United States, making over half a million now afloat. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.17½, and No. 2 mixed at $2.13½, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

Scattered covering on the part of September shorts and export sales of about 200,000 bushels gave the September position in the oats market a firmer tone and the close was ⅞c net higher. The late months, however, were influenced by the action of corn, closing with net losses of ⅝c. The local cash market was easier standard quoted at 65½ to 65c; No. 2 white, 66c; No. 3 white, 65 to 65½c; No. 4 white, 64½ to 65c; fancy clipped white, 67 to 69c; ordinary clipped white, 65 to 67c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products developed a reactionary tendency and prices were lower, although the undertone was nervous and fluctuations were feverish and irregular. The hog portion was strong, but was offset by liquidation prompted by the apparent antagonism to bullish operations. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 7,000; estimated for Saturday, 5,000; Kansas City received 1,500, and Omaha 4,200 hogs.

The coffee market was somewhat irregular yesterday. Scattering December liquidation caused a slight early decline, followed by rallies on covering. The close was net unchanged and sales were reported of 27,500 bags. The spot market was steady at 8⅝c for Rio 7s and 9⅞c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

Aside from very recent sales of Porto Rico sugars, said to be at 6.90c to 7.02c, business in raw sugar was quiet, with no new transactions reported. There were said to be buyers at 5⅞c, cost and freight, but no prompt sugars were to be had. No change was noted in refined sugar, the list ranging from 8.40c to 8.50c, regular terms. A fair withdrawal demand continues and a moderate new demand is in evidence when sugar can be delivered promptly. The Government is allowing export deliveries on old contracts to the Allies, but prevents any shipments to neutrals.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 12,500 packages. Prices made a further gain of ½c on nearly all grades of creamery, with the feeling particularly strong on the secondary qualities. GUARANTY TRUST CO. JOINS RESERVE BANK

PATRIOTIC DUTY, SAYS SABIN

Many Banks Throughout the East Have Been Awaiting the Action of the Guaranty.

The breaking down of the opposition on the part of 20,000 State banks and trust companies in the United States to the unremitting efforts on the part of the Federal Reserve Board and the Treasury Department to get them into the Federal Reserve System was signalized last evening by the announcement that the Guaranty Trust Company, the biggest banking institution in this country operating under a State charter, had applied for membership. It will become a member bank by the middle of next week, and will bring a tremendous addition to the strength and prestige of the Reserve Bank of this district.

The Guaranty's capitulation followed inevitably when it won the second of two contentions on which it had, up to this time, resisted all arguments in favor of joining the national banks. The first concession was made by Congress on June 21 last, when it amended the new currency law to provide that any State bank becoming a member of the Federal Reserve System might retain its full charter and statutory rights as a State bank or trust company, and might continue to exercise all corporate powers granted it by the State in which it was created.

The second concession was in the form of an opinion handed down by J. W. Davis, Acting Attorney General, and announced last week, in which he held that the provisions of the Clayton Act forbidding interlocking directorates could not be held to apply against State banks which joined the Federal Reserve System. Up to this time it had been understood that if the Guaranty Trust Company joined the system it would have to accept the resignations of a number of its Directors associated with the boards of other banks.

Only 84 State Banks Now Members.

The action of the country's foremost trust company in becoming a member bank was held in Wall Street to have a deeper significance from the aspect of the influence which it would have upon thousands of other institutions. Although there are upward of 20,000 banks and trust companies in the United States operating under State charters, so far only eighty-four of them have entered the Federal Reserve system, which was devised to combine all of the banking resources of the nation. Particularly in New York State, but to only a slightly lesser extent throughout the East, the State institutions have let it be known that they intended to be guided by the attitude of the Guaranty.

So many inquiries as to its intentions have been received from smaller banks that the management of the Guaranty adopted the policy of keeping other State banks informed of its changing views on the general question of the advantages and disadvantages of membership.

Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, said last night that concessions on both sides had removed all of the important objections to membership, and that he regarded it not only as a patriotic duty but as a distinct advantage to his company to align itself with the national banks. He considers that the commercial banking department will be greatly strengthened, and predicted that the Guaranty would make free use of the rediscount privileges carried by membership. His announcement read:

"Recognizing the importance of concentrating the financial strength of the country and the desirability of the closest possible co-operation among banking institutions at the present time, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York has applied for admission into the Federal Reserve System. The material contribution which the Guaranty Trust Company makes toward the mobilization of the national credit for war purposes is indicated by the fact that it is the largest trust company in the world, with resources of over $600,000,000 and deposits in excess of $500,000,000."

Broadway Trust Co. First to Join.

The first State institution to join the Federal Reserve Bank of the Second District was the Broadway Trust Company, closely affiliated with the interests back of the Irving National Bank. It joined the System in 1915, before the features attached to membership which have been objected to by State banks were eliminated The next important institution to join was the Corn Exchange Bank. After that the Northern New York Trust Company came in, together with the Bank of Montclair, N. J., and the St. Lawrence Trust Company of Ogdenburg, the last named joining this week The most prominent State member outside of this district has been the Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis, headed by Festus J. Wade. Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, in a speech at Atlantic City on Wednesday urging State banks to align themselves with the System for the national welfare, predicted that several thousand more banks would join within a year.

Officials of the Federal Reserve Bank expressed themselves as highly gratified yesterday when the decision of the Guaranty management became known. The reluctance of Charles H. Sabin to throw his influence with the Reserve Bank has been a sore point with some of them.

LOWERS PRICE OF WHEAT.

Grain Corporation Announces Decrease of 2 Cents a Bushel.

The Grain Corporation of the United States Food Administration yesterday announced that because of the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in suspending the filed tariffs of the trunk line railroads on grain, the buying basis announced by the Grain Corporation in the eastern markets, as compared with the basic market in the Middle West, must be readjusted accordingly.

The readjustment decided upon is a lowering of the price to be paid for all grades of wheat by 2 cents a bushel. Mills having unsold wheat and flour properly handled in the Eastern markets, however, will be protected upon their statements under oath regarding the amount of such unsold wheat and flour, their contracts with the Grain Corporation, &c.

NEW LINE OF SHIPS WILL RUN TO CHILE

Shipping Board Assigns Five Boats for First Service to Valparaiso.

W. R. GRACE & CO. IN CHARGE

Step Is Taken to Place This Country in First Position with South America After War.

There will be established between New York and Valparaiso next month the first passenger line to ply between those ports. For this purpose the United States Shipping Board has assigned five ships now building, the first of which is about completed. It is a step to promote closer business relations between the United States and South America, and to place this country in a premier trade position with the Latin-American republics after the war. The Chilean Ambassador, Santiago Aldunate, has taken a deep interest in the establishment of the line, under what might be termed Government auspices.

W. R. Grace & Co. of New York will operate the line. At the time the United States entered the war, this concern had under construction five steel ships of 6,000 tons dead weight and each with a capacity of 100 passengers. The Government took over these vessels for the national service.

Several weeks ago W. R. Grace & Co. were notified that they might operate the five ships between New York and Valparaiso. Immediately plans were made for the opening of the service, and the first of the ships will be put in commission some time in October. They will ply through the Panama Canal, stopping at Peruvian and Chilean ports en route to Valparaiso.

It would be no surprise to shipping men if this step by the Government were followed by the establishment of similar lines to other South American ports.

"In accord with instructions received by the Government of Chile, the Ambassador, Mr. Santiago Aldunate, initiated activities in order to establish a maritime line between New York and Valparaiso, the great port of the Pacific. The American Government, considering the utility of the commercial intercourse between Chile and the United States, increased during recent years to superior proportions to that of any other South American country, lent all its influence to the accomplishment of the Ambassador's aims, and has just put at the disposal of this service, which will be a direct passenger line between the United States and the ports of the Pacific, five of the ships constructed in American shipyards, putting the big firm of W. R. Grace & Co. in charge of the steamship line.

"This resolution of the American Government will solidify the situation attained by the United States in the commerce of Chile."

COMMODITIES PRICES.

Continued strength in foodstuff prices, though not so marked as last week, and a much easier tone to the metals market due to Government price fixing, featured Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices this week. Of the seventy-eight changes shown, forty-six were upward, against fifty-one last week. Then the total was eighty-two.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on thirty-nine standard commodities this week at this city, unless otherwise specified. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

There was again no change in the price of flour here, but the provisions market at Chicago was variable enough. Live sheep and live beef were quoted lower, but all the other items were higher. Hams and bacon went up at this city. The leading grades of butter and cheese continued to advance, but egg prices paused for the time being. No change was seen in the best nearby stock, but first Westerns again were off slightly.

In the vegetable list the feature again was the rise in potatoes, which are now $1 a barrel higher than a year ago this time. Choice marrow beans went up, but there was a break in rutabaga turnips. A drop in the price of common apples was the only listed change in the markets for fresh and dried fruits. No. 7 Rio coffee fell off for the second week in succession, and this time the price of No. 4 Santos also dropped. Teas were unchanged generally, and the same was true of the listed sugars for the first time in quite a while. The spices contributed upturns in mace and Zanzibar cloves.

A general drop in the price of pig iron and billets followed Government activity in the way of price fixing. As a result, forging billets fell below the $100-a-ton mark for the first time in months. Furnace coke was cheaper, as were pig aluminum and electrolytic copper. The only advance in the whole list was shown in tin. In the combined market for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils a total of 23 changes was shown, and of these all but nine were advances.

Following close on reports of weakening prices in hides and leather came active buying of the former and a recovery in prices on five of the ten listed grades. In the leathers there were again no quotable changes, but the undertone of the market was said to be firmer in view of the firming up in hides. Four items in the paint list were quoted lower, probably due to the lower cost of lead, which all of them contain.

The grain list showed two advances and two declines for the week. The former were in rye and malting barley and the latter in corn and oats. In the naval stores the changes were upward, being contributed by turpentine and resin. Common Hudson River brick was higher, but the reverse was true of the best Brazilian crude rubber.

In the textile fields there was not much of interest in woolens and worsteds, but the leading burlaps continued to advance under a continuance of recent conditions in the primary and local markets. The upturn in cotton resulted in a firmer feeling being established in several varieties of gray and brown goods. Printcloths in particular took on a firmer tone.

Knitting Bags in Demand.

The demand for large shopping or knitting bags, which at first was thought by some in the trade to be more or less of a fad that would not last, continues strong from every quarter. Smart looking Japanese silks or cretonnes, tapestries, and novelty silks with jacquard effects are among the most sought fabrics. Combinations of dark and brilliant colors wrought into designs and effects suggestive of the Orient are said to be the most popular.

Dark and Solid Colors Favored.

According to authorities in the local silk market, the trend of the season in colors is now unmistakably toward the darker shades. Also, solid colors are said to be in strong favor, so much so in fact that a number of manufacturers are reported to be sending considerable quantities of merchandise to the dyer to be refinished to meet the demand. But bright stripes and plaid effects have not dropped out altogether, there still being considerable call for these combinations, particularly for sport clothes for Spring.

Not All for the Soldiers.

It appears that not all of the knitting now seen in surface cars, limousines, subways, &c., is for "our boys" across the water or soon to go across. Attention is called to this fact by a patriotic protest that has gone up from the millinery trade against the using of much-needed wool by women who are knitting "tams" for themselves and getting the visible credit for making socks or sweaters. It is urged that retail buyers organize a movement to overcome this branch of the amateur knitting industry, starting with the knitting classes in their own stores.

Toymakers Expect Big Season.

Local toy manufacturers report that they are preparing for one of the biggest seasons they have ever experienced. They believe that "Santa Claus" is going to have more money to spend this year than ever before, and that he is going to buy much more of the expensive, but substantial and well made, articles than he has been able to do heretofore. Already, in a number of instances, it is said that sales have practically doubled as compared with a year ago this time. Though French toys, due to their delicate composition and daintiness of construction, are selling freely, the belief prevails that those of American make, because of their being more solid and substantial, will prove the most generally popular.

What He Wanted Most.

A man's ambition sometimes runs in funny directions. An illustration of this is a remark made by a certain retailer, who, after struggling along for several years, finally brought his store to the point where it paid very well. So well did the business prosper, in fact, that soon he was able to build a new store. When this building was completed a friend of the owner said to him: "Well, now I suppose you are satisfied." The retailer led the way back to his private office before answering. Then he said: "The thing that satisfies me most is before your eyes—this office. Every since I began business I have been waiting for the time to come when I could have a real one. In the old place space was too valuable, so I tucked myself and my desk into any old hole I could find. But here I have gratified an ambition."

Skilled Sewers Hard to Get.

It is not only in the poorer-paid class of workers that help is hard to get nowadays. A well-known manufacturer of high-grade wear for infants and small children said yesterday that he was having considerable trouble along this line, in spite of the fact that the young women who worked for him made from $15 to $18 a week, sometimes higher, after they became proficient. In addition to this, he said, the conditions under which these women work are as close to ideal as it is possible to get in a commercial enterprise. Yet, he observed, the average young woman can not "see" a factory position, but wants to be a clerk or stenographer at $8 per week, or thereabouts.

Hosiery Buyers Want Goods.

The local manager for one of the best-known knitting mills in the country is authority for the statement that the retailers are "crying their heads off" for the better qualities of silk hose. "Not so very long ago," he said yesterday, "we were being swamped with requests to defer deliveries of goods due for shipment on Oct. 1 and Nov. 1. Now the tide has swung the other way, and we are daily getting requests to anticipate deliveries of goods ordered for shipment on those dates, and even on Dec. 1. Luckily we have been in a position to comply with some of these requests, and it is safe to say that fully 20 per cent. of the goods due on the last two dates will be delivered before Oct. 1."

Reason for Cheap Waist Demand.

An important factor in the unusual demand for popular-priced waists, according to manufacturers of this city, is the greatly increased number of women who have gone into business. Office girls, it is pointed out, in order to make a neat appearance must wear a fresh waist every day or two. Naturally, to do this they must turn to those selling for about $2 or $3 each. The blouses at these prices, which are said to be the best sellers, are made up of cotton voiles and dimities, with embroidery and lace trimmings. They are offered in attractive styles, with many of the new effects found in the more expensive garments.

Drills Featured the Sales.

Large sales of all sorts and conditions of drills, said to have been garnered from second hands all over the country and to range all the way from 3.95s to 2.35s, featured the trading in gray goods here yesterday. Prices were said to have been pretty fair, but it is understood that they were less than the figures quoted in the general market. Deliveries will run through the next two to three months. Sheetings did not get in the spotlight very much during the day, from all accounts, but there was a pretty fair business put across in printcloths. November-December sales of 39-inch 68-72s were made from first hands at 11 cents, with a quarter more asked for spots. For 38½-inch 64-60s 9¾ cents was paid for shipment in the final quarter of the year. The same goods sold into 1918 at considerably less than that price. For delivery in the last quarter of 1917 nice sales of 38½-inch 60-48s were made at 8⅝ cents. Closing spot prices on mill printcloths were:

39-inch, 68-72s	*11¼c	38½-inch, 60-52s	8¾c
39-inch, 56-44s	7¾c	38½-inch, 60-48s	8⅝c

BUSINESS NOTES.

W. Warren Barbour, President of the Linen Thread Company, was elected to the Executive Committee of the American Protective Tariff League at a special meeting of the Board of Managers of the league held yesterday. At the same meeting William Sloane, a knit goods manufacturer of Norfolk, Va., was elected to the Board of Managers.

ST. LOUIS FUR SALE.

One Feature Will Again Be the Offering of Sealskins.

One of the features of the Funsten Brothers & Company Fall fur auction sale, which will open in St. Louis on Oct. 8, will be the selling of sealskins consigned by the Republic of Uruguay, from the Lobos Islands, in addition to a consignment of similar pelts from the United States Government. An official of the republic will be present at the sale.

Because so many men of the fur-trapping districts have been called to war, it was thought that the offerings at the forthcoming sale might be smaller than at previous Fall auctions. However, while they will not be so large as those at the last Spring sale, when more than $4,000,000 worth of furs were sold, the announcement made yesterday says that it will require five days of selling to dispose of the current lots. These show a total of over 2,250,000 pelts, valued at $3,000,000.

As the demand for many furs is now in excess of the supply, it is confidently expected that good prices will be realized throughout the sale, at which skins from twenty-eight foreign countries and almost every State in this country will be offered. The quality is said to average high.

DRY GOODS SALES IMPROVE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods is in excess of the volume for the same period of a year ago. Road sales for both immediate and future delivery surpass those of a year ago, which were very heavy at that period. Merchants have been in the market in slightly smaller numbers, but report an excellent retail business. Collections are considerably ahead of the same week last year."

REAL ESTATE FIELD

By the acquisition of the small plot at the northwest corner of Wall and South Streets, the interests which have been accumulating the adjoining property represented by the Lawyers' Realty Company, have obtained control of the entire block front on South Street, between Wall and Pine Streets, fronting 202.7 feet by 81.7 feet on Wall and 118.7 on Pine Streets.

The latest purchase involves the old three-story building on the corner, being 120 and 122 Wall Street and 60 South Street. It was acquired from the Lotos Tea Company, headed by Warner Van Norden, who purchased it last April through Pease & Elliman, the brokers in the recent sale. The consideration was about $62,500, showing a square foot average of $53.42, which is said to be a record for property in that locality. The plot is 30 by 39.10 and irregular, having an area of 1,170 square feet. It has been reported that the buying interests are the Cuba Cane Sugar Company, which intends to improve the block front with a modern building. Several of the adjoining parcels were transferred to the Lawyers' Realty Company during the last few days.

Two Deals on Water Street.

Henry C. Coster sold to the Young & Griffen Coffee Company 58 Water Street, a five-story building, on a lot 21.7 by 70. The same firm recently purchased the adjoining property at 60 Water Street, and a six-story building at 85 Water Street.

The Charles F. Noyes Company sold for E. H. Ludlow & Co., representing Rae Nichols, 85 Water Street, a six-story loft building, 23.8 by 85, in the heart of the coffee district. The building has an electric elevator. Negotiations are pending for a resale.

Investor Buys Upper Lexington Avenue Corner.

Leonard Simmons has purchased for investment from Cahn & Pitman the five-story brick apartment with seven stores, on the northeast corner of 118th Street and Lexington Avenue. The structure occupies a plot fronting 101 feet on the avenue and 39 feet on the street.

Old Tammany Club House Sold to Adventists.

The old Kanawha Club house at 129 East One Hundred and Twenty-Eighth Street, for years Tammany Hall headquarters in Percy Nagel's district, has been purchased by the Greater New York Conference of Seventh Day Adventists.

The property, which was sold by Lottie E. Field, who acquired it in foreclosure proceedings two years ago, is a three-story and basement dwelling on a lot 20 by 100, located between Lexington and Park Avenue. The transfer of the property was made for a stated consideration of $7,000.

Tenement Investments.

The five-story flat at 2310 Seventh Avenue 37.6 by 100, between 135th and 136th Streets, has been sold by J. B. Wood, for Minnie Tolleris, to a client for investment.

Meister Builders, Inc., purchased from Mrs. Elizabeth Keller the five-story, twenty-family tenement at 226 East 100th Street, on a plot 25 by 100.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The tropical disturbance, after reaching the mouth of the Mississippi River with great intensity, recurved to the northeastward, with highest wind velocity reported being ninety miles an hour at the mouth of the Mississippi and ninety-two miles at Mobile, Ala., both from the north.

Advisory southeast storm warning signals were ordered at 10 P. M., Jacksonville to Savannah; northeast warning, Charleston to Fort Monroe, and southwest warning, Carrabelle to Rockville.

Reports from Mobile and Pensacola were missing, but the disturbance was then apparently central in that vicinity and still moving northeastward.

General rains occurred through the Atlantic States, the upper Ohio Valley, and the lower lake region, and scattered rains in the upper lake region. Elsewhere fair weather prevailed.

Winds for Saturday and Sunday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate, variable, becoming north and northeast and probably increasing Saturday night, with rain; Middle Atlantic Coast, variable, becoming northeast and increasing by Saturday night, with rain; South Atlantic Coast, northeast, off the Carolina coast, becoming strong, with rain Saturday; southeast, off the Georgia and Florida coasts, increasing, except off the central and South Florida Coast, rain.

FORECASTS—TODAY AND SUNDAY.

ROUNDUP BEGINS OF DRAFT DODGERS

25 DELINQUENTS ARE FOUND

Several Men Posted as Deserters Through Error Are Accounted for by Military Authorities.

The roundup of 400 or more New York men who have been called to the colors but who failed to report has begun. As fast as they are arrested they will be taken to the Seventy-first Regiment Armory and turned over to the military authorities. None of these men will be classed as willful deserters until they have been examined by army officers.

A few among the 347 men whose names were given out Thursday night by Roger B. Wood, in charge of the draft in New York, should not have been on that list. The fact that they were was due to the failure of the boards to report the fact that they had been accounted for to Mr. Wood. Five men who were listed as among the missing from Board 73 are all either at Camp Upton or ready to go with the contingents now leaving the city. These men are Henry Levinsky, Isadore P. Weis, M. Ruderman, P. H. Phillips, and J. Aclames. Daniel E. Sullivan, who was published as among the delinquents from Board 136, is a telephone man who has been exempted by the District Board, while William Canavan, of Board 149, is reported already at Camp Upton. M. Novack, J. J. O'Hare, and Daniel Cronin, of Board 137, were also reported as accounted for yesterday and it was stated that their names should not have been on the list published yesterday.

Robert De Nike, listed as among the missing from Board 140, is at Camp Upton. His brother, George De Nike, of 488 St. Nicholas Avenue, notified THE TIMES last night that Robert De Nike had been at Camp Upton since last Friday. The error in posting him, the brother said, was due to the "carelessness of Board 140."

As a direct result of the publication of the list of delinquents, about ten men were found yesterday and were sent to Camp Upton with fifteen others who were located, or voluntarily reported, on Thursday. All of these men left for Camp Upton, under guard, yesterday afternoon. It was said last night that about sixteen others had been found and were in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory.

The Department of Justice located a "delinquent" yesterday in one of the regular army regiments. The army officers stated that the man was "fine material," and that they desired to keep him. Captain Offley, the Chief of the Department of Justice Secret Service, thereupon communicated with Washington and was instructed that if the soldier enlisted after he had been called by his board his place is in the national and not in the regular army, and he will have to report for duty at Camp Upton.

A number of reserve officers who registered on June 5 and whose call numbers are in the first hundreds of the selective draft have failed to comply with the law, which requires them to furnish their boards with the necessary evidence that they are already in the service and are therefore exempt from the provisions of the draft law. These men are all required to file with their boards certified copies of the order issued to them by the Adjutant General assigning them to duty as officers of the Reserve Corps.

Louis C. Fraina and Edward R. Cheney, who claim [illegible] conscientious objectors to war, were arraigned before Commissioner Hitchcock yesterday charged with conspiracy to evade the operation of the national military laws. They were held in $2,000 bail each for an examination next Friday.

Paul Ruben, a drafted man, who is a clerk in a clothing store, was arraigned before Judge William B. Sheppard, in the United States District Court, on an indictment charging attempted bribery of a member of Exemption Board 94, on the lower east side. Ruben pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year in prison.

THIRD-CALL MEN OFF TO WAR.

City Sends 2,500 to Camp Upton to Begin Active Training.

The first units of New York City's third contingent of selective draft men to be ordered into active service reported for duty at Camp Upton yesterday afternoon. All of the districts from which men were called yesterday are in Manhattan and Brooklyn, the total number affected being about 2,500, the men from Manhattan entraining at the Pennsylvania Station and in Long Island City, while the Brooklyn men left from the Carlton Avenue yards of the Long Island Railroad, in that borough.

Great crowds witnessed the departure at the three points of entrainment, enthusiastic demonstrations marking the departure of every special train, of which there were six. The New York men who left from the Pennsylvania Station were accompanied by 450 men from Dutchess, Westchester, and Putnam Counties, while the quotas from Nassau and Suffolk Counties joined them en route. The failure of ninety-eight men from Yonkers to arrive at the Pennsylvania Station on time delayed the departure of the special from that point about thirty minutes.

The men from the 89th to 113th Manhattan districts, inclusive, assembled in Long Island City between 9 and 10 o'clock, where more than 5,000 relatives and friends jammed the station to bid them godspeed as they went to war. The soldiers came to the stations in flag-decked automobiles, every district unit carrying its own banner, on which was inscribed the district number, and generally a sentence or two which indicated how much the men dislike the Kaiser.

The men from District 90 carried a bunch of crêpe, the ribbon trying bearing the inscription, "For the doorknob at Potsdam." This same board also took along a mascot—a trick dog—the first to accompany any New York unit to Camp Umpton.

For the first time since the draft mobilization began confusion marked the departure of a unit from its home district. The trouble was due to the efforts of the women relatives of the men from District 107 to bid them a more or less effusive farewell just before the men started for Long Island City. The women brushed the police aside, climbed on board the buses, and for a few minutes it looked as if the reserves would have to be called to restore order. A score or more of the women followed the men and arrived in Long Island City in time for a second demonstrative farewell.

The men from District 92 reported at the Pennsylvania Station by mistake. They were told to hurry to Long Island City and arrived there five minutes after the last special pulled out. They went to Upton on a later train.

The men from Districts 114, 116, and 117, Manhattan, went to the Pennsylvania Station in a body. They had a band and every man carried a flag and some of them two. The men from Ossining, Tarrytown, White Plains, New Rochelle, Mount Vernon, Port Chester, and Millbrook also reported at the Pennsylvania Station in a body.

Among the men departing from Brooklyn was Paul E. Dunham, 30 years of age, an architect, of 177 St. Mark's Avenue, who is a conscientious objector. To give proof of his objection to serving as a soldier, Dunham asked A. M. Nolan of Exemption Board 44 to accompany him to the train and lead him aboard with his hand on his arm. This he declared was to be foundation for his claim that he was forcibly taken into the service. Although Dunham was a member of the Twenty-third Regiment for two years, he declared that he had since become a member of the Plymouth Brethren, who, he asserts, are opposed to war. Dunham maintains that he will not don a uniform at the camp or handle a rifle if sent to France.

The units from Districts 118 to 141, inclusive, will entrain at the Pennsylvania Station at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The men from Districts 142 to 161 will board their trains in Long Island City at the same time, while the soldiers from Districts 46 to 68, inclusive, in Brooklyn, will depart from the Carlton Avenue yards at 10 A. M.

The date of the fourth mobilization of New York men has been postponed from Oct. 3 to Oct. 8. The men called for this mobilization compose 25 per cent. of New York's full quota. The contingent will go on five successive days, beginning the morning of Oct. 8.

Will Work Solely for the Navy.

The Comforts Committee of the Navy League voted yesterday to continue the labors for the purpose for which it was organized and work solely for the men of the navy. This action followed the decision of the Executive Committee that the navy would require all the work that could be turned out by the committee, and that an effort to assist the men of the army would be an encroachment on the field of the Red Cross.

Master Books from Three Great Nations

The Coming Democracy
By HERMANN FERNAU

An examination, searching and merciless, of Germany's medieval, dynastic, and political system by the author of "Because I am a German," and a demand for reforms which all civilized countries of the world have enjoyed for decades.
"The book is one of the most important which the war has produced."—The Spectator.
"We recommend the book to every serious reader as one of the foremost books of universal and permanent value thus far inspired by the great war."—New York Tribune.
"A most remarkable book, an incisive summary of the entire Teutonic situation, a book whose conclusions are identical with President Wilson's reply to the Pope."—Newark Evening Call. Net $2.00

What the Gallant French are suffering

Under Fire (Le Feu) The Story of a Squad
By HENRI BARBUSSE,
Translated from the French by Fitzwater Wray
Over 150,000 copies of the French edition already sold

An epic description of life and battle in the trenches that in grip and calm, remorseless presentation of facts reminds strongly of Zola's best work.
"There is much more than the life of a squad in this brilliant and varied narrative which records or divines wide areas of experience.
"It is not a chronicle, still less a diary, but combines pictures of men in masses, and of individual types, moralizings, impressions, observations, episodes, into a sort of epic of army life from the point of view of a private soldier. . . ."—Frank Moore Colby in The Bookman for September, 1917. Net $1.50

A Student in Arms
By DONALD HANKEY

Killed in action at the Battle of the Somme, October 26th, 1916
This book has a special message for every American man or woman who has a loved one, a relative, or a friend who has gone or expects to go across the Atlantic to fight in France.
Hundreds of war books tell what happens to the bodies of men in the trenches and behind the front. This book tells what happens to their souls and minds and is as reassuring as the others are appalling.
"This book deserves a place beside Rupert Brooke's sonnets and 'Mr. Britling Sees It Through.' It is one of the few documents that reveal the spirit of England in a terrible crisis."—The New York Churchman.
"Wherever there are men at war, this is a book not only for those who fight but for those who must remain at home—perhaps more for the latter than the former."—Philadelphia Press.
"The author is interested in the great democratic experiment of the war and its lasting and beneficial results after the war is over. He writes with mixed humor and seriousness and always with a warm kindliness. . . . It is wholesome and fine and human."—New York Globe. Net $1.50

Another Gift of Laughter and Tears
By the Author of

CALVARY ALLEY

By Alice Hegan Rice

THIS new novel tells of the growing up and falling in love of Nance Molloy of Calvary Alley, of her trials and triumphs; with a great deal about a good many other interesting people, for Nance was one who achieved contacts with the thrilling world about her. There was Uncle Jed, who was her self-appointed guardian; and Mr. and Mrs. Snawdor, her stepfather and stepmother, making Nance what she herself called a "two-step." There was Dan Lewis, who was a child with Nance, and whose mother was charitably termed "a mystery" in the Alley; and there was old Mr. Demorest, who played the violin and taught Nance to dance, and who had come from another world than Calvary Alley. He was a mystery too, but a very charming one.

And more such, easily recognizable as belonging to that whimsical, beloved family of fiction people which began with "Mrs. Wiggs."

Ralph Adams Cram, Litt.D., LL.D.

In a masterly and convincing manner, Dr. Cram, whose work on the superb St. Thomas Church in New York, Princeton University, and the West Point Military Academy, has achieved world-wide admiration, develops his subject not only as an organic scheme of building but as a definite exponent of the religious, philosophical, social, political, and economic conditions that obtained in mediævalism.

All who think deeply of the present world crisis and of what is to come after will find illuminating guidance in Dr. Cram's scholarly and inspiring volume.
